OUR AMBASSADOR PRESENT

GERMANY REPLIES TO ALLIES

Answer Said to be Conciliatory and to Disclaim Efforts to Exploit Senate Situation.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Saturday, Dec. 13.—So important is the work which Premier Clemenceau has found to do in London that his return has been postponed until Sunday.

As regards the subjects discussed at yesterday's conference no official information is available, but the Daily Chronicle says it has good reason for stating that not only the Russian question, but the whole field of questions pertaining to the afterwar settlement came under review, particularly matters relating to Turkey, several small States and the attitude of the Allies toward the German Government.

"It may be taken," adds the Chronicle, "that there is every probability of strong united action by the four great powers."

That the discussions had reference to financial matters is evident by the presence of J. Austen Chamberlain at the conference. The Chronicle attaches significance to the presence of the American Ambassador, John W. Davis, and the Italian Foreign Minister at the morning sitting. They did not attend the afternoon session.

Progressing Toward Agreement.

LONDON, Dec. 12, (Associated Press.)—Premiers Lloyd George and Clemenceau resumed their conferences on peace problems this forenoon. Earl Curzon of Kedleston, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs; Sir Maurice Hankey, Secretary of the War Cabinet, and the French Ambassador were present.

The general belief in diplomatic quarters is that the conference is for the purpose of discussing the proposed Allied loan to Austria and the subject of the compact between France and Great Britain to guarantee France against unwarranted attack, into which agreement it was originally expected the United States would enter.

M. Clemenceau went to Buckingham Palace this afternoon, where he had tea with King George and Queen Mary. In the evening he dined with Earl Curzon of Kedleston and Lady Curzon and later visited a theatre.

It has been learned from a French source that the disposition displayed by the British representatives in the conference is considered "excellent," and that both sides are pleased with the progress of negotiations on the various matters discussed today. These included the Adriatic situation and Russia.

Louis Loucheur, the French Minister of Reconstruction, joined Premier Clemenceau in the conference today.

Commenting on Premier Clemenceau's visit to England, The Mancester Guardian said yesterday:

"M. Clemenceau's arrival in England and the departure of the American delegates from Paris were significant and not disconnected. Premier Clemenceau doubtless comes to do what he can to fill the breach caused by the withdrawal of America. As the prospect of support from America becomes less, the need of support from this country grows, and may enter, not only the military and diplomatic spheres, but also those of finance and economics."

Denial of Alliance Rumors.

PARIS, Dec. 12.—Great interest has been aroused here by Premier Clemenceau's visit to London, and considerable speculation has appeared as to the exact purpose of M. Clemenceau's trip. It has been learned from a high authority, however, that the official point of view of the French Premier's mission differs from that of the press in that his purpose is not, as has generally been represented, to find a substitute for the support for France which had been expected from the United States.

France, according to the same authority, counts as much today as ever upon the moral aid of America, and upon her material aid in case of need; but the official expression of French opinion, it is pointed out, is particularly difficult, as it risks giving the impression of interference in American politics. For instance, it is stated in quarters generally considered highly authoritative, that the French Government does not find anything impossible of acceptance in the reservations to the Covenant of the League of Nations voted by the United States Senate. However, the informant pointed out, if the Government should make a statement to this effect its action would have the appearance of taking part in the discussion of an American issue.

Confidence in the ultimate solution of the present difficulties and the continuation of the cordial relations exist-

Woman's Suffrage Amendment Is Ratified by Colorado

DENVER, Col., Dec. 12.—Colorado today completed ratification of the woman suffrage amendment to the Federal Constitution, when the House of Representatives unanimously passed the Senate resolution providing for ratification.

FIND CUMMINS BILL IS LIKELY TO FAIL

WANT A QUICK DECISION

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Senators supporting the Cummins railroad bill are beginning to feel deep concern over the opposition to the measure. The danger that it will fail to pass before the holiday recess or that it will not pass at all is being carefully considered, and measures may be adopted early next week to force the issue quickly.

A poll which Republican Senators have taken quietly this week shows, they said tonight, that the hostility to the Cummins bill was much greater than any one supposed. It is formidable enough, it was declared by a Senator who assisted in making the poll, to endanger the bill's passage unless it is amended in vital particulars.

It is considered essential that the bill be passed and sent to conference with the House by the end of next week, or that, if it is to be defeated, that fact may be known by that time, so that President Wilson may be advised of the legislative situation in plenty of time to change his mind about turning the lines back at the first of the year, if he has not already decided to delay that action.

While many reports are heard at the Capitol concerning the date upon which the President had decided to give the railways back to their owners, nothing definite could be ascertained, Senators said today. Inquiries at the Railroad Administration, they said, elicited the reply that so far as was known there had been no change in the plan to return the lines on Jan. 1.

If this happens and no legislation has been passed to provide for financial arrangements, receiverships are almost certain to follow, in the opinion of some Senators. That is why they are urging application of closure next week so that debate may be shortened and the issue determined one way or the other.

That it will be impossible to report the bill from conference before a date late in January at the earliest is conceded on all sides.

Outlook for a Compromise Bill.

The measure which finally goes to President Wilson will be neither the Esch bill passed by the House nor the Cummins bill if it should pass the Senate, it is admitted, but will be a compromise written in conference, and probably containing features not now in either of the bills. Though conferees are precluded by the rules from writing in new matter, it is declared by men conversant with the details of the legislative controversy that in no other way will House and Senate be able to get together on some points. And the tremendous importance of the legislation, in their opinion, would fully justify a breach of the rules in this respect. However, any such departure from legislative precedents is sure to cause long debate and further delay the final vote, it was pointed out.

Taking into consideration all these things, Senators tonight predicted that, unless a sudden and radical change was manifest in the Senate's progress, it was more than likely to be February or March before the measure was finally disposed of.

Inasmuch as President Wilson is doubtless advised of this situation, Senators said they looked for him to hold off the return of the roads, possibly until next Summer.

It was reported today, but no confirmation of any official sort could be obtained, that Mr. Wilson would take a hand in straightening out the situation by sending his promised railroad message to the two Houses within three or four days. That message, Senators expect, will set the date for the return of the roads or at least indicate the President's idea as to the time.

Senator McKellar of Tennessee today continued his attack on the bill, as did Senator La Follette, who has now spoken through all or of part of four days. Mr. La Follette was still addressing the Senate tonight when the recess was taken until tomorrow and is expected to occupy two hours or longer of the Saturday session.

He said the labor sections of the bill were particularly vicious. He pointed out that the board created to settle disputes on wages and working conditions was divided evenly between employes and employers, and that the final decision of any dispute was left to the Transportation Board. There was no provision for appointment of any labor representative on this board, he pointed out.

Consider Delay Advisable.

News from Washington yesterday that Congress believes the period of Federal control of railroads will be extended to March 1, 1920, and may even be carried

PEACE OVERTURES MADE BY SWANN SPURNED BY JURY

STILL CALL FOR NEWTON

District Attorney Challenges Investigators to Publish Minutes of Proceedings.

NO COMMENT BY GOVERNOR

Swann Declares He Has Tried Six Times to Find Common Ground with Jury.

Suggestions that the minutes of the Extraordinary Grand Jury, in which, it is said, is involved the ground for suspicion of the "overshadowing crime," be published; offers by the District Attorney to assist in investigating himself, if need be, or any other public official, and the tender of the services of two Republican members of his legal staff as aids to the jury, were new challenges made yesterday in the controversy between Swann and the Almirall jury.

The jury declined the prosecutor's proffered legal aid, and announced that their position was the same as mentioned in their letter to Governor Smith on Nov. 20. In that communication they asked for the designation of Attorney General Newton as legal adviser.

As to publication of the minutes, it was understood that the jurymen were all willing to reveal them, at least to an extent that would acquaint Governor Smith with matters sufficiently to enable him to decide the question of designating counsel, so that the proposed investigation of municipal departments and the District Attorney's office might proceed without further delay. But it was contended on behalf of the jury that they themselves had no authority to expose the minutes, and wer, in fact, prohibited by law from doing so.

It was reported that some one in the juryroom had issued a "dare" to Mr. Swann to permit publicity of certain sections of the minutes, said to relate to the testimony of Mayor Hylan, Frank Hedley, President of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, and an editor employed by William Randolph Hearst. This testimony was taken before the District Attorney, and his assistants had been barred from the juryroom. Mr. Swann said he accepted this challenge, and he expressed the hope that Supreme Court Justice Weeks would find a precedent for opening the minutes for inspection outside of the Grand Jury room.

Swann's Letter.

But the chief interest of the day's developments to many in the Criminal Courts Building centred in the overtures made by the District Attorney to open a peace parley with the jury, which he announced he advanced because of a desire to expedite the public business. This began with a letter as follows:

To the Grand Jury of the Extraordinary Term:

Gentlemen—My attention has been called through the public press that members of your body have expressed the apprehension that a dictograph may have been installed in the District Attorney's library, which has been placed by him at the disposal of the Grand Jury, and that possibly the telephone wires of some member or members have been tapped.

I wish to state to you that never at any time has the present District Attorney installed or caused to be installed or permitted to be installed or used a dictograph, or tapped or caused to be tapped or permitted to be tapped any telephone wire of any person at any time. He has no knowledge or information of any attempt by any one to spy upon the Grand Jury or any member of the Grand Jury, or installed a dictograph to spy upon your body or any member, and if I can get legal evidence of it I shall cause his immediate arrest and prosecution.

I have repeatedly stated to you in every way I know how to express it that I am anxious to put aside all personal differences and to aid and co-operate with you in the dispatch of the public business. We have not sufficient anarchy cases to justify the exclusive deliberation of a Grand Jury, but if you will inform me of any specific crime against any specific person or persons where I can be of assistance to you I shall give you all the assistance and co-operation that the office affords, no matter who is involved.

Would you like the assistance of either of my assistants, Neilson Olcott (son of former Judge William M. K. Olcott) or George R. Brothers, both of whom were appointed by Governor Whitman when District Attorney, and by Charles Albert Perkins, and continued in their positions by me because of their efficiency and merit.

Again assuring you and each of you of my desire and readiness to put aside matters of personal difference and forget personalities in the advancement of the public business, I am, very truly yours,

EDWARD SWANN,
District Attorney.

This communication, which was generally referred to by those outside of the District Attorney's office as "Mr. Swann's olive branch," had been di-

Court Enjoins Strikers on Porto Rican Railroad

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Dec. 12.—Federal District Judge Hamilton today issued a temporary restraining order against Santiago Iglesias, representative of the American Federation of Labor, and forty-two laborers and employes of the American Railroad of Porto Rico, enjoining them from carrying out an alleged conspiracy, whereby it is charged the employes of the railroad were made to strike on Dec. 3.

The petition for the injunction filed by District Attorney Martin on behalf of the United States charges that the men conspired, in violation of Section 4 of the Food Control act, as amended and approved Oct. 22, 1919, "To limit facilities for transporting, producing, harvesting, and manufacturing sugar in Porto Rico and to restrict distribution of sugar and other foodstuffs and to prevent, limit, and lessen the manufacture of sugar, well knowing that the said conspiracy would enhance the price thereof and that sugar is a necessary product both in this island and in the United States."

WOOLWORTH HEIRS MUST PAY $7,850,000

Committee of Property Ask to Sell Fifth Avenue Home to Meet Inheritance Tax.

$1,050,000 GOES TO STATE

Federal Government's Levy on Estimated $50,000,000 Fortune Is $6,800,000.

The estate of Frank W. Woolworth, who made a fortune estimated at more than $50,000,000 in five and ten cent stores, must pay an inheritance tax of $6,800,000 to the Federal Government and $1,050,000 to the State of New York. This was made known yesterday when Hubert T. Parson, committee of the property of Mrs. Jennie Woolworth, who inherited the entire estate of her husband, got permission to sell the city residence at the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Eightieth Street, to help pay the tax. Supreme Court Justice Newburger, who gave permission for the sale, appointed Abraham Stern referee to conduct it.

Mr. Parson said in his petition that the market value of the Fifth Avenue property was $460,000, and that in addition Mrs. Woolworth owned the country place, Winfield Hall, at Glen Cove, L. I., worth $852,666, and other parcels, including the following: 229 Jefferson Avenue, Brooklyn, $11,000; Woolworth Building, Lancaster, Pa., $125,000; property in Market Street, Philadelphia, $800,000, and block of land at Deal, N. J., $24,600.

Mr. Parson said that out of the income received by Mrs. Woolworth from the personal estate left her by her husband, including stock in the F. W. Woolworth Company, he pays $10,000 a month for her living expenses, and it is necessary to pay the usual debts and in addition the Federal and State inheritance taxes of the sums stated.

Mr. Parson explained that the interest of Mrs. Woolworth requires the sale of the Fifth Avenue home, because the income from her real estate and personal property together was not sufficient to pay the debts, including the income taxes, and he did not desire to sell any of the personal estate, including the Woolworth stores stock. He says he wants "to conserve the income-producing assets to maintain her in the comfort to which she is accustomed."

To Hold Convention Before Mid-Summer — Compulsory War Training Opposed at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 12.—A new political party probably will be organized before July 1, it was said at the national conference of liberals tonight.

A convention will be held before midsummer at which it is proposed to nominate candidates for the presidency and vice presidency, J. A. H. Hopkins of Morristown, N. J., Chairman of the Committee of Forty-eight, which is conducting the conference, announced.

The report of the Committee on Political Procedure, which recommended such a convention, was adopted. The report suggested that the Committee of Forty-eight be made a permanent organization and that all "progressive and constructive liberal" organizations be represented at the convention.

After hours of heated debate a resolution was adopted opposing compulsory military training and service, unless in time of invasion. In opposing the resolution Dr. H. Carroll of Minot, N. D., declared that "We must either hire an army to protect us or assume responsibility for safeguarding our country. If we adopt this resolution it means we are a bunch of pacifists."

Amos Pinchot of New York asserted, "As we have war we must have conscription."

Resolutions urging that the conference adopt the President's "fourteen points," that Ireland be granted her claims for self-determination, and that Congress enact laws prohibiting the deportation of aliens who entertained radical views were defeated.

HUNDREDS OF REDS ON SOVIET 'ARK' SAIL SOON FOR RUSSIA

GOLDMAN GOES WITH THEM

RED OFFICIAL MET BULLITT

"Secretary" of Soviet Here Saw Him in State Department Before Bullitt Went to Lenin.

A United States transport will leave this port within ten days for Russia carrying several hundred Russian Reds held for deportation. Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman will be among them. Emma Goldman, whose appeal against deportation is before the United States Supreme Court, withdrew her appeal yesterday on hearing from her lawyer that the "Soviet Ark" would start within less than two weeks with most of the leaders of the Russian Red movement in this country.

While Harry Weinberger, the lawyer for Emma Goldman and Berkman, was carrying the news of the "Red transport" from Commissioner General of Immigration Anthony J. Caminetti at Washington to the Ellis Island Soviet, the Secretary of the Soviet "Embassy" here was testifying that he had had frequent conferences with William C. Bullitt before that young diplomat made his visit to Soviet Russia on behalf of President Wilson.

Testimony also was introduced, although denied by Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, the Soviet representative, to show that the Soviet Bureau here had aided the formation of the Communist Party in this country and had sought to aid that revolutionary organization in establishing relations with the Bolshevist Government.

Goldman Withdraws Appeal

Mr. Weinberger sent notice last night to the office of the Attorney General at Washington, saying that Emma Goldman wished to withdraw her appeal. According to Mr. Weinberger, he was informed by Mr. Caminetti and an official of the Department of Labor that the Government had decided to send the transport within ten days, but he could not learn to what port it was to go. Mr. Weinberger said that he thought Kronstadt was its destination, thus landing them in Soviet territory, by an agreement with the Soviet Government. He said that he was not sure of this, and added that he had been informed that the question of finding a port and making the delivery of the Reds to Soviet territory was being handled by the State Department. The plan urged by Congressman Isaac Siegel of New York has been that of sending a ship loaded with all Russians held for deportation to Libau to be forwarded by the Letts, at the request of this Government, to Soviet territory.

There are ninety Russian anarchists held on Ellis Island for deportation and several hundred others held for deportation in other parts of the country, some of whom are now on their way to this port.

The United States Supreme Court held that Berkman had no ground for his appeal from the order of deportation, but postponed decision in the case of Emma Goldman, because of her plea that she had been illegally deprived of her citizenship and could not properly be sent away as an alien.

Prefers Jail to Ellis Island.

In his letter to the Attorney General, however, Mr. Weinberger said:

"Miss Goldman instructs me to inform you that she desires to withdraw her application for writ of error, or appeal, stay and release on bail. This is especially her decision, for if the Supreme Court of the United States should allow the appeal, but refuse bail pending argument on or decision of the appeal, jail or deportation would be preferable to continued custody on Ellis Island without proper opportunity for exercise, and where the censor of the Department of Justice comes only once or twice a week to examine and allow mail to pass back and forth and visitors are only seen through a wire screen."

He gave as a further reason for withdrawing the appeal that Miss Goldman was unwilling to put her friends to the expense involved in an appeal. Although the original order of deportation was made in her case several months ago, Miss Goldman made a statement through her lawyer deploring the shortness of the time allowed to her to wind up her affairs in this country.

"I did not expect," she said, "that I would be given time to arrange my affairs, as the sudden calling for my deportation shows the hysteria of the Government officials, which has communicated itself to the courts, and to print the tremendous record of books and exhibits in the case which the Government introduced would drain my friends who have so nobly stood by me and would be of little avail, in my opinion, as I have no faith in the courts.

"Having lived thirty-four years in this country, and having many business and personal affairs to arrange, yet I do not get time to settle any of them. I expect while in Soviet Russia to shortly read of American-born citizens being deported from America to the Island of Guam or some other colonial possession of America, despite the

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—President Wilson failed to take any action today on the resignation of Dr. H. A. Garfield as Fuel Administrator, pressed because of the terms on which the coal strike was settled, but it was made known at the White House that the stand taken by Dr. Garfield would not be permitted to be in the way of carrying out the strike settlement.

It was intimated that the President would probably accept Dr. Garfield's resignation within the next forty-eight hours, but late today Secretary Tumulty said that he had no direct knowledge of what the President would do.

As for Dr. Garfield, it is understood that he has definitely eliminated himself from the situation no matter what attitude the President may assume, and that whether his resignation is accepted or not he will refuse to participate in any capacity in connection with the coal strike if the present basis of settlement is permitted to stand and the three-man commission appointed.

It was stated officially at the White House today that Dr. Garfield's request that his resignation be accepted had been submitted. Dr. Garfield himself refused to comment on the situation further than to state that until the President had acted on his resignation he did not feel like making a statement.

Attorney General Palmer has delayed his return to Washington until tomorrow afternoon and it is believed that Dr. Garfield will leave the capital and end all of his connections with the Fuel Administration soon after Mr. Palmer's arrival.

COAL MINERS FLOCK BACK TO COLLIERIES

INDIANA OUTPUT 50 PER CENT.

Workers in Ohio, Illinois, and Pennsylvania Slow in Complying, but Expected Monday.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The Railroad Administration received unofficial estimates today that from 65 to 67 per cent of the soft coal mines had gone back to work.

Private reports to operators said that in Indiana nearly all the men had returned, but elsewhere a good deal of delay was being shown.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 12.—Practically 50 per cent. of the normal quantity of coal produced daily in Indiana was hoisted from the mines today and mining at full speed is expected to begin Monday. A statement by officials of the Indiana Bituminous Coal Operators' Association announced this tonight.

The ranks of returned miners were greatly swelled and the return of many more tomorrow was predicted. The operators based their statement on reports from all parts of the Indiana fields. Car shortage, it was said, would be the only thing to impede normal shipment of coal next week.

Reports from outside Indiana, while telling of the return of many miners were not so optimistic as those from the fields in the State. Illinois miners, it was reported, are slow in returning to work in many instances, and a few locals in Pennsylvania reported to United Mine Workers' headquarters here that some mine owners had refused to operate their properties unless the miners repudiated the union.

It was believed that reports such as those received in Pennsylvania would be the subject of Federal investigation. Miners' officials pointed out that the agreement reached between the Government and the miners provided for return to work under the same conditions as those existing on Oct. 31, and declared that the union was recognized by the operators at that time.

Plans for the Federal Grand Jury investigation of alleged violation of anti-trust laws and the Lever Fuel Control act by operators, miners, and dealers were continued today. The investigation is scheduled to begin next Wednesday. It is believed that charges of contempt of court for violation of the Federal injunction against furtherance of the miners' strike now pending against eighty-four international and district officials will be dismissed. Hearing on these charges is set for Tuesday morning.

OHIO MEN SLOW IN RETURNING

Some Locals Balk at Settlement, but Break Is Expected Monday.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Dec. 12.—Not before Monday will the greater number of the coal mines of Ohio be reopened. In a few local districts operation is again approaching normal, but this is not generally true, and in isolated instances local unions have refused to return to work.

Meanwhile every agency is at work to expedite the strikers' return. Agents of the Federal Government are in the mining districts to pick up any dangerous agitators. Newspapers which appeal especially to labor are urging the men to return to their jobs, and the union leaders are calling on their followers to accept the settlement.

EASE RESTRICTIONS; COAL CRISIS ENDS

RECEIPTS HALF OF NORMAL

Mayor Names Conservation Committee and Nixon Lays Out Work for It to Do.

Following notification yesterday from Director General of Railroads Hines that the restrictions on the use of heat, light, and power derived from bituminous coal were to be annulled as soon as conditions warranted, those in charge of fuel administration here took the preliminary steps toward lifting the ban on the use of soft coal.

Regional Director of Railroads A. T. Hardin late yesterday issued instructions to the railroads to restore immediately the second sections of existing trains where, in their opinion, they may be needed to handle passenger, mail, and express traffic.

"A complete restoration cannot be announced in all districts at this time," said Mr. Hardin in his order. "This is owing to the task ahead of us to advance coal to territories still in distress and to reassemble cars at the mines for maximum production. The operation of the Twentieth Century Limited will not be restored until further notice. No special trains will be operated for business or pleasure without permission from this office. The fullest service possible will be inaugurated, especially in view of the closing of schools and colleges, the holiday traffic, and other conditions incident to the holiday season."

"Complete passenger train service on the Pennsylvania Railroad, Eastern lines, will be restored at 12:01 A. M. on Monday, Dec. 15, with the exception of the Broadway Limited, the twenty-hour train between New York and Chicago. This will include the through and local trains, as well as all parlor and sleeping car service which were temporarily withdrawn on Dec. 10 on account of the coal shortage."

Evidence of the desire to make the restrictions as light as possible on the retail stores during the holiday season is shown by a ruling of the Railroad Administration allowing stores longer hours of light. The order was received by Public Service Commissioner Lewis Nixon, having been forwarded through Regional Director Hardin. It follows:

> Washington, 4 P. M., Dec. 11, 1919.
> A. T. Hardin, New York:
> If possible to operate eight hours on 25% reduction of lights, thereby effecting same result as six-hour basis with full lights, this is agreeable to us if you can and want to handle it that way. Have notified stores making request to handle direct with you.
> H. B. SPENCER.

"The general compliance with orders last night was most encouraging," said Mr. Nixon. "If a similar spirit is followed we shall be able very greatly to relieve the stringency for several days before Christmas.

"The coal coming to the Jersey City terminal was about half the normal yesterday. However, we hope to draw upon an existing source that will greatly relieve the situation. Because conditions are promising, however, is no reason for any relaxation of rules."

Mayor Hylan appointed a committee of five yesterday to "take up the question of fuel regulation and confer with those in authority, to the end that coal conservation orders in the city shall be properly carried out and at the same

PHILADELPHIA BAN RAISED

RESTORE PASSENGER TRAINS

HINES ALLOWS DISCRETION

Issues Order Permitting District Chiefs to Ease Curb Where Coal Situation Warrants.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 12.—All restrictions on heat, light and power derived from the use of bituminous coal in the Allegheny region were removed tonight by L. W. Baldwin, Regional Director, following instructions from Walker D. Hines, Director General of Railroads. The order is effective at once.

The announcement stated that the restoration of passenger service would include through and suburban trains, as well as all parlor and sleeping car service, which were withdrawn on Dec. 10 on account of the shortage of coal.

Instructions were telegraphed tonight to Federal managers throughout the Allegheny region to restore on Dec. 15 such passenger service as will not interfere with the movement of coal to the West.

Restrictions as to the production, distribution, and use of coke, with the exception of the export embargo, were also removed.

The distribution of bituminous coal by the Regional Coal Committee will continue, Mr. Baldwin's order said. At the same time Mr. Baldwin announced that complete passenger train service on the Pennsylvania Railroad, Eastern lines, with the exception of the Broadway Limited, the twenty-hour train between New York and Chicago, would be restored.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 12.—The Pittsburgh committee of the United States Railroad Administration announced tonight that all restrictions on light, heat, and power in Pittsburgh derived from the use of bituminous coal would be lifted tomorrow.

Rescinds Restrictions in Maryland.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 12.—All fuel-saving restrictions in Maryland have been cancelled. C. W. Calloway, Regional Director of Railroads, lifted the ban late tonight, and as a result Baltimore and the other cities of the State will go back to normal conditions.

During the past few days the department stores have been crowded to capacity with Christmas shoppers. At times during the six hours the stores were allowed to remain open shoppers had stood in line for hours.

This cancellation, however, does not affect the order issued prior to Dec. 8 respecting delivery of coal to plants which are not in the first five priorities.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 12.—Passenger train service, curtailed as a coal saving measure, will be returned to normal in the Southwest region at midnight Sunday, B. F. Bush, Regional Director, announced tonight. Mr. Bush expressed the belief that the fuel situation in the district would be virtually normal by Monday.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 12.—Restrictions on consumption of bituminous coal and coke in the Southern region of the Railroad Administration were largely rescinded by an order issued tonight by the Regional Coal Committee. Bunkering of vessels will be resumed, inland waterway vessels being given preference, then coastwise shipping, ships flying the American flag in overseas service, and last, ships flying foreign flags.

The order suspending fuel restrictions is effective immediately and trains will be restored at 12:01 A. M. Monday. In cases where resumption of certain passenger train schedules would interfere with movement of coal the trains will not be put back until the situation clears up.

Hines Eases Coal Regulations.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The Railroad Administration today accepted the settlement of the strike as final, and issued a statement authorizing regional directors to lift restrictions where the supply of coal on hand made it advisable. It is believed here that within another few days Christmas shopping will be permitted upon a normal basis, and that within another month all restrictions upon industry, business and transportation will be removed. The announcement by the Railroad Administration follows:

The conservation order of Dec. 8, 1919, restricting the use of heat, light, and power generated or produced from bituminous coal or coke was issued to make uniform in all parts of the country the restrictions which had already been adopted in many parts of the country and to save coal and coke. Until the production of bituminous coal becomes normal it is vitally necessary that it be conserved in every way possible, and even after production reaches normal it will be necessary to continue to conserve coal because of the loss in production of between thirty and thirty-five million tons during the coal strike. It is important, therefore, that the public exercise the greatest caution in the consumption of coal.

It being the desire to remove restrictions just as rapidly as possible, the conservation order of Dec. 8 has been modified today to permit the resumption as conditions warrant of the supplying of light, heat, and power restricted by this order. Coal is now being moved and will continue to be moved from the East to the West in as large quantities as the relative situation in the two sections permits. The first increase in production that has resulted from the termination of the strike of coal miners has been in the East, where already the bulk of the production was being obtained. Conditions in the several regions differ, and accordingly the order of Dec. 8 will be modified on recommendation of the Regional Directors as their respective situations may permit.

Regional Directors have been instructed today to restore all train service removed or curtailed because of the strike situation as soon as the general coal supply in their respective regions justifies in their judgment doing so, subject to such exceptions as may be ordered by the Railroad Administration in Washington.

Operators Attack Settlement.

The settlement of the strike is not being received with acclaim by all of the coal operators. While the Executive Committee of the Central Competitive Field remained silent today, operators of Central Pennsylvania issued a statement attacking the settlement as a surrender by the Government to the miners. It said:

"Settlement of the bituminous coal strike under the plan accepted by the mine workers officials at Indianapolis is no settlement whatever of principles at stake in the controversy. It is merely a postponement of the showdown which, in our opinion, is bound to come.

"The miners' strike was in direct violation of a wage contract approved by the Government and to continue until April 1, 1920, or until the declaration of peace, if prior to that date. The miners violated that contract. They are left free to violate any other contract they may make to take its place. There is no restraining influence upon them. The public, under the form of settlement adopted, may be subjected again at any time to the discomfort and distress through which it is now passing. Organized labor has the say as to when this shall occur.

"The method proposed by Dr. Garfield for settlement of the strike was interfered with by Government officials who knew little of the situation. The problem was taken out of his hands. The operators and the public, as a result, have been delivered into the hands of the United Mine Workers of America. The operators in their resolution earnestly protest against this sham settlement of a controversy which will arise again to plague the American people—a controversy which will not down until it is permanently and finally settled.

"The following resolutions have been adopted by unanimous vote by the operators of the Central Pennsylvania District:

"Whereas, the President of the United States has made a proposal for the settlement of the bituminous coal strike; and

"Whereas, the powers to be granted to the commission to be appointed by the President of the United States for the investigation of the mine workers' demands are limited and confined solely to questions of wages, living costs, and prices; and

"Whereas, the vital principles at stake are not mentioned, nor is any protection offered the public against the recurrence of same catastrophe in the near future; and

"Whereas, it is only by the form, and legal provisions of any future contracts made with the miners' organization that these principles can be safeguarded, and the public and the operator protected against another invasion of their rights by law-defying labor leadership which is now causing nationwide distress; therefore

"Be it resolved; That in accepting this method of settling the wage controversy, the operators of Central Pennsylvania earnestly protest against the form of the commission and its powers. They demand that a representative commission, similar to that which settled the anthracite strike in 1902, be appointed and empowered to investigate by public hearings the facts which the American people have a right to know, and the principles upon which depend the future peace and prosperity of this country, and the safety of our democratic institutions."

ILLINOIS MINERS RETURN.

Locals Which Protested at Settlement Now Vote to Accept.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 12.—Mines in the vicinity of Springfield began resumption of work today with from 50 to 75 per cent. of the usual working forces on duty. Reports to the State offices of the miners' organization indicate that the majority of the strikers had returned to work, although there was dissatisfaction in various places with the Indianapolis agreement.

Frank Farrington, President of the Illinois miners, sent telegrams to several dissenting locals today ordering the men to return to work immediately.

Reports were received tonight that miners at Stonington and Kincaid, in the vicinity of Taylorville, who at first declared they would not return, today voted to resume work tomorrow.

MINNESOTA TRAINMEN QUIT.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 12.—Adjutant General Rhinow late today, in response to a request for State troops to control a strike of engineers and firemen on the Minnesota, Dakota & Western Railroad at International Falls, ordered out Company M, 5th Minnesota Infantry, which will leave its home station at St. Cloud tonight.

ARREST 72 STEEL WORKERS.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Dec. 12. — Seventy-two members of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers were at liberty on bail today following their arrest last night when they attempted to hold a meeting in East Youngstown.

They were charged with holding a meeting without a permit, under instructions issued by Mayor McVey of East Youngstown. Among those arrested were Frank Pickin and J. A. Lowe, organizers of the American Federation of Labor.

The strikers declare the meeting was the regular session of Lodge 104 of the Amalgamated Association for the purpose of electing officers and that it was not open to the public.

SCAN COAL PRICES FOR ILLEGAL RISE

COVER MORE THAN PAY RISE

Price, Including 14% Increase Should Be $2.35 Maximum—One Operator Asks $8.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Prices charged by coal operators since Government control was restored because of the strike are being scrutinized closely by officials of the Railroad Administration and probably will be submitted to the Department of Justice.

Bills being rendered by the operators are said by officials to specify prices higher in many instances than set by the Government. It was specified in the order restoring wartime prices that coal shipped subsequent to Nov. 13 on contracts made prior to Oct. 30 should be paid for at the contract rate, but so much coal has been priced at the higher rates that an investigation has been deemed advisable.

Discrepancies in prices have been one cause, according to officials, of the financial embarrassment of which the operators have been complaining. Reconsignment of coal, especially when shipped from the East to the West, causing a delay in payment, also has been a factor.

Director General Hines has changed the method of payment for railroad coal from a monthly to a weekly basis to assist the operators in this respect, and they have been given to understand that wherever necessary to avoid stopping production, the Railroad Administration will provide them with funds by taking over all the coal being mined. So far, however, no mine has suspended work for lack of money.

A delegation of operators conferred today with officials of the War Finance Corporation regarding possible financial advances by the Government. After the meeting it was said there probably would be no necessity for any such action.

Most of the bills submitted by the operators for coal are said to have averaged around $2.95 to $3.63, compared with Government prices of $2.50 to $2.95. In one case, however, an operator put in a bill for coal at $8 a ton.

F. E. Harkness, counsel for the Fuel Administration, announced that prices of coal contracted for by purchasers prior to the resumption of Government price fixing could be legally raised to absorb the cost of 14 per cent. increase in miners' wages granted under the strike settlement. Coal mined on contract, it was said, in most cases bore a price below the Government maximum of $2.35 per ton mine run, and contracts ordinarily carried a clause binding the purchasers to pay additions in labor costs incurred after their making. Fuel Administration statistics, it was said, indicated that even after the addition of extra labor costs created by the 14 per cent. increase the largest portion of the contract coal still would be sold below the $2.35 maximum.

The Government itself, through the Railroad Administration, which consumes normally 31 per cent. of all coal mined, will pay the largest amounts under the ruling, it was pointed out. The War Department contracts were said to give power to the Secretary of War to make adjustments and as the settlement had the support of the Administration, it was assumed that Secretary Baker would approve the increase.

Much of the Navy Department's coal is being commandeered and some of the supply is mined in the Pocahontas field which is non-union. Private and industrial consumers, supplied by contract coal, will in most cases pay the increase. A small amount of high-class coal, under the ruling, it was explained, would be sold for a higher price than the Government maximum.

CENTRAL OWNERS TO COMPLY.

Brewster Says They Will Not Join Protest Against Commission.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 12.—Coal operators in the central competitive field will not join in the protest of Central Pennsylvania mine owners against the proposed commission to be appointed by President Wilson to investigate the miners' claims, Thomas T. Brewster, Chairman of the Scale Committee, announced tonight.

INDIANA COAL HIGHER.

Operators Raise Price to Include 14 Per Cent. Pay Increase.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 12.—Mine operators and wholesalers in Indiana today generally increased the price of contract coal 14 per cent. It was stated that very little coal is purchased by retail dealers on contract and that therefore the price will remain at the figure fixed by the Government as far as domestic consumers are concerned.

Reports from Evansville stated that five mines began operation yesterday and that preparations had been completed last night for resuming work at all the others. Advices from Bicknell stated that fourteen mines in that section of the State were hoisting coal today. Sullivan and Vincennes also reported reopening of the mines in their districts, and Terre Haute reported that with many men already back at work all of the miners will be in their places by early next week.

While no direct intimation has been given by Government officials that contempt proceedings against eighty-four international and district officials will be dismissed, it was believed here that the cases would not be pushed. The men are charged with violation of the injunction issued by United States District Judge A. B. Anderson against furtherance of the strike.

MORE BACK IN WEST VIRGINIA.

Operators Expect to Reach Normal Output Monday.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 12.—Production in the Kanawha and New River coal fields increased considerable today, according to operators, who predicted that the output would be near normal by next Monday.

The percentage of mines working in the Kanawha district jumped from less than 25 per cent. Thursday to about 70 per cent. today, according to the Kanawha Coal Operators' Association. Officials of the association said they expected the two hundred or more operations in the field to be working by early next week.

BRITISH COAL BILL BLOCKED IN HOUSE

LONDON, Dec. 11.—Another rebuff was met by the Government in the House of Commons tonight when it was obliged temporarily to suspend discussion upon second reading of the Coal bill which limits profits of coal mine owners to 14 pence per ton for the year ending March 31, 1920. This bill is the Government's method of redeeming its pledge to the Miners' Federation to give legislative effect to the report made by the Coal Commission, headed by Sir John Sankey. Coal mine owners and business men generally have started a strong agitation to secure the withdrawal of the bill.

Andrew Bonar Law, Government leader in the House of Commons, met more than 100 members favoring the withdrawal of the bill yesterday. He refused to withdraw the measure, but gave a pledge that limitation of profits should not extend beyond March and should not be applied to any other industry. Miners also oppose the bill on the contrary ground that the limitation of profits would cease in March. They argue that the limitation should continue until the nationalization of mines or some similar policy may be carried into effect.

This was the situation when Sir Auckland Geddes moved the second reading of the bill today in a speech admitting it would be difficult to find a single enthusiastic supporter for the measure. He confessed the bill was complicated, but said its justification lay in the need to meet an emergency. He declared it was a misunderstanding to suppose it would terminate the Sankey wage scale in March, as the Government regarded the bill as an absolute pledge.

Rejection of the bill was moved by several members, who strongly criticised William Adamson, a miners' leader, predicting that the passage of the bill would lead to a renewal of industrial unrest. Andrew Bonar Law, entering during Mr. Adamson's speech, interrupted by saying: "It is obvious the Government is no longer bound by its pledge if those to whom the pledge was given are heedless of it."

Mr. Adamson and William Brace, also a labor leader, both complained that the bill failed to carry out the Government's pledge and wanted to know whether the bill ended the Government's responsibility for the payment of wages under the Sankey scale after March 31. Lord Robert Cecil, remarking that the Government "appeared unable to find a solution even by accident," urged the withdrawal of the bill, while Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster leader, said the measure was "most mischievous" and would inevitably lead to nationalization. He moved an adjournment of the debate.

Mr. Bonar Law, in accepting adjournment, said the labor party's decision had released the Government from its pledge, but that the House must realize that abandonment of the bill would upset the country's finances by enabling coal mine owners to make and retain enormous profits, for which losses the Treasury would be expected to make good. The tone of Mr. Bonar Law's speech left some doubt whether the Government would attempt to proceed with the bill.

TIE VOTE ON BUYING BIG WRIGHT PLANT

House Will Vote Again Today on Purchase of Airplane Establishment for $2,740,000.

"A STEAL," SAYS LA GUARDIA

Bill for Developing Army Camps and Aviation Fields Carries More Than $9,600,000.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Final action on the bill making available more than $9,600,000 for completing the development of more than thirty army camps and aviation fields, including purchase of land at several places, was delayed today in the House by demand for reading of the engrossed bill.

Before a final vote tomorrow on the passage of the bill, effort will be made to restore a provision for the Government purchase of the Dayton-Wright airplane plant and adjoining field at Dayton, Ohio, for $2,740,000. On a tie vote today the purchase of the Dayton plant was tentatively eliminated from the bill.

Before voting on the Dayton plant, the House tentatively approved purchases of the Curtiss-Elmwood plant at Buffalo, for $1,804,000. Other large expenditures approved were for the development of Camps Brag, North Carolina, and Knox, Kentucky.

Efforts to add provisions authorizing expenditures at various camps were defeated, excepting a proposal of Representative Longworth, Republican, Ohio, for spending $180,000 for land at the nitrate plant site, near Cincinnati, Ohio.

The only opposition to the committee program developed on the proposal to purchase the Dayton property. Representative La Guardia, Republican, New York, charged that such a purchase "would be a direct steal from the Treasury Department."

"The assessed value of the land at Dayton," La Guardia said, "is only $85, yet it is proposed to purchase it now at approximately $850 an acre. That is an example either of stealing from State taxes or from the United States. While this country was at war officials of this company were scheming on such a steal as is now proposed, and the committee falls for it."

Representative Anthony, Kansas, ranking Republican member of the committee, urged purchase of the property, saying it was a "sound business proposition."

Abandonment of Camp Taylor, Ky., and its salvaging will be delayed until Camp Knox, Ky., can accommodate the artillery school now at the former camp, the House decided.

AMERICAN ACES FAVOR AN AIR DEPARTMENT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Five American aces, credited with having brought down more than fifty German airplanes, advocated today before a House subcommittee the creation of an aeronautical department of the Government to co-ordinate all aerial activities.

The group included Captain "Eddie" Rickenbacker, officially credited with twenty-seven air victories in France; Major Charles J. Biddle, Philadelphia; Captain F. E. Kindley, Gravette, Ark.; Major J. A. Meissner, Birmingham, Ala., and Captain J. A. Healey, Washington. All asserted that the air forces in France would have been much more efficient if administered by a Department of Aeronautics.

Glenn L. Martin, Cleveland, veteran airplane designer and builder; J. K. Robinson, Greenwich, R. I.; Colonel H. L. Arnold, San Francisco; Colonel Archie Miller, Washington; Captain Walter R. Lawson, Langley Field, Va., and Lieut. Commander P. N. L. Bellinger, Commander of the NC-1 during the transatlantic flight, also expressed their views.

Commander Bellinger, testifying as to the advantages of a united air service from the standpoint of naval fliers, said that the naval air forces, while working well, were not up to full efficiency and could be improved through the proposed consolidation.

Captain Rickenbacker and Major Meissner denied reports that Lieutenant Quentin Roosevelt had been killed after his flying companions had deserted him. Meissner said Roosevelt had been lost in a cloud bank, "and due to his inexperience as a pilot was confused and joined up with a German squadron, being later shot down." Rickenbacker added that the flight during which Roosevelt was killed was only the second in which the latter ever participated as a combatant.

Relating his experiences at the request of Chairman Frear, Wisconsin, Rickenbacker said before America's entrance in the war he had been "suspected of being an arch German spy, while in England," adding that Scotland Yard men followed him as far as Los Angeles before they apologized for suspecting him.

Speaking for civilian fliers and aircraft manufacturers, Mr. Martin said the American aircraft industry would soon become extinct without early and substantial aid from the Government. He urged extended use of airplanes to the Postal, Fisheries, and Forest Reserve Services.

Recommendations made during the hearing included establishment of a national flying academy, Government subsidies to manufacturers, and preliminary training of army and navy fliers under the same system.

RULES FOR AIR NAVIGATION.

Proposed to Have Secretary of Commerce Police the Air.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Regulation of air navigation in the United States by an inter-departmental board, whose rules would be enforced by the Secretary of Commerce, is proposed in a bill to be presented to Congress next week by the special board appointed by the President last October to draft some form of regulatory legislation. The board is comprised of representatives of the War, Navy, Post Office, and Commerce Departments.

The proposed board would be authorized to promulgate regulations for air navigation, including establishment of minimum altitudes for flight over cities, of prohibited zones in the vicinity of military establishments, and the setting up of proper service and signaling systems to promote and facilitate commercial flying especially.

The Secretary of Commerce would be charged in effect with the duty of policing the air. Pilots and crews of aircraft would be licensed by the department under requirements prescribed by the board, with revocation of license and other penalties provided for violation of rules. The primary design of the proposed regulation, it was said, is to promote the safety of the flier and the public as well.

British Give Expenditure for Year Ending March, 1920.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Expenditures of the Air Force for the year ending in March, 1920, are placed at £54,000,000 in estimates made public today.

The personnel of the Air Force is given as 35,000 men.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The War Department has decided to sell more than 68,000,000 pounds of acids and a large quantity of chemicals, bought for the use of the army during the world war, but which are now regarded as surplus stock. Informal proposals have been invited from chemical manufacturers, dealers and distributors.

LABOR CHIEFTAINS GATHER IN CAPITAL

Open Conference Today to Formulate Fundamental Principles for Workers.

FEW FARMERS TO ATTEND

Conservatives Take Precautions to Prevent Radicals Getting Control or Dictating Policy.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. — Labor's "Reconstruction Conference," called by the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, to consider the fundamental principles affecting American workers will be convened in Washington tomorrow, with probably few farmer representatives in attendance, although more than a score of farm organizations were invited to send delegates.

Federation of Labor officials said tonight that assurances had been received from only one farmers' association that delegates would be present at the opening session, but that others might be represented, as under the invitation it was unnecessary that advance information of acceptance of the invitations be furnished.

Some of the labor union chieftains who arrived today preparatory to the opening of the conference, however, expressed disappointment that the response from the farmers had not been more general, declaring that the voice of the agricultural classes was needed in the meeting.

The opening session of the conference will be held at the headquarters of the American Federation of Labor at 10 o'clock. The sessions, it was indicated tonight, would be executive and action of the conference probably will be withheld until after adjournment.

Precautions have been taken by the conservative element, it also was indicated, to prevent attempts by the radical groups to gain control. In this connection, it was forecast that attempts would be made to win the support of the conference for the new Labor Party. Samuel Gompers, President of the Federation of Labor, however, has steadfastly opposed such action and can be expected to lead the fight against it if it comes before the conference.

Views of the four great railroad brotherhoods, whose Presidents joined in the official call for the conference, present an innovation in labor meetings. Their general attitude, of course, is known, but what stand they will take when deliberating questions affecting other industrial workers, from which they usually have held themselves apart, was a subject much discussed.

Some of the labor legislation pending in Congress will be opposed by the railroad workers as well as other union heads, but whether they will stand together in framing a general industrial and legislative program was giving concern to those who have a "cut and dried" policy to offer.

HALT RUSSIAN PROTEST.

About thirty or thirty-five women representing the American Women's Emergency Committee visited Wall Street yesterday bearing banners protesting against the blockade of Russia. They laid a wreath upon the tomb of Alexander Hamilton in Trinity Churchyard and then passed single file down Wall Street to Nassau. At this point, according to Miss Helen Todd, who is head of the Christmas Ship Department of the committee, she was stopped by a policeman who insisted that she accompany him to the police station.

"We were walking along Wall Street carrying banners inscribed, 'We Are American Women,' 'Save Russian Babies,' and similar lines," said Miss Todd, describing the incident last night, "when a policeman stopped me and said that I'd have to go to the stationhouse with him. He directed me to give my banner to the woman behind me and when we got to the police station could not tell the man behind the desk what was on it. He said that I was impeding traffic, but it was raining hard and there was scarcely any traffic on the street.

"After using the telephone the man behind the desk said, 'We will not consider this an arrest, as the evidence is insufficient.' It is a public scandal that a group of American women may not walk in the streets of New York in dignified and orderly protest without being lawlessly arrested."

Miss Todd said that the demonstration planned for yesterday was not protected with a parade permit, because in a recent protest along Fifth Avenue she was told by the police that a permit was not necessary.

CITY INQUIRY IS PROPOSED.

Citizens Union Wants Legislature to Investigate Present Administration

Representatives of the Citizens Union have been urging upon leaders of the Legislature the advisability of providing for a legislative investigation of the present City Administration. Senator Walters of Syracuse, President Pro Tem. of the Senate, and Speaker Sweet of the Assembly have been sounded upon the subject, and have the matter under consideration.

Republican State Chairman George A. Glynn has been approached and urged to give his approval to the plan on the ground that it would be "good politics," but, it was said last night, has given little encouragement to the sponsors for the proposed inquiry, who thereupon sought out Republican National Committeeman Herbert Parsons, formerly Chairman of the Republican County Committee, and asked him to use his good offices with the Republican leaders to bring about the investigation.

State Chairman Glynn was out of town last night and is not expected back until Wednesday. Another Republican leader said last night that the proposal had been only casually discussed and that the conversations held among the leaders so far had brought no tangible result. A number of conferences between Republican leaders and members who will sit in next year's Legislature have been arranged, at which a decision on the proposed investigation may be reached.

SEVERE COLD IN NORTHWEST

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 12.—Very unusual weather has prevailed over the Pacific Northwest this week. For the third time in the history of the white man in this section, according to records, the Willamette River was frozen over today. The cold was intense, the mercury dropping as low as 2 degrees above zero.

In Eastern Washington and Northern Idaho the temperature ranged from 15 to 32 beolw zero. At Ukiah, near Pendleton, James Oakley, 72 years of age, was found frozen to death in his cabin, where the thermometer was 32 below.

Storm conditions have improved in Portland since two feet of snow fell earlier in the week. Coal was delivered in some localities, but no attempt was made to deliver milk to homes. All schools are closed. Some parts of the State are virtually isolated because of the demoralized telegraph and telephone service.

BUTTE, Mon., Dec. 12. — The last twenty-four hours have been the coldest and most productive of suffering in Butte since 1889, when official records of weather were first tabulated in this community.

While the official Government thermometer in a sheltered corner on the roof of a bank registered 28 degrees below zero today, other equally reliable records run from 35 below at the Montana power station at the High Ore mine, to 50 below in exposed sections on the South Side.

Since Oct. 19 fifty-one inches of snow have fallen. The recent snowfall for thirty-six hours was sixteen inches.

GOTTENKEINE TO BE TRIED.

Lieutenant Accused of Stealing $40,000 from Army.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 12.—Lieutenant John C. Gottenkeine, 5th Field Artillery, 1st Division, was brought to Camp Zachary Taylor last night from Governors Island to await trial by court-martial on charges of absconding at Coblenz, Germany, with the regimental payroll of $40,000.

Gottenkeine, whose absconding into Germany last May with the regiment's payroll attracted widespread interest in American Army circles, was arrested by German authorities in Freiburg, near the Swiss border, devoid of cash, and returned to American headquarters.

Lieut. Col. M. R. Bitzing, judge advocate of the 1st Division, now stationed at Camp Taylor, is preparing the case for court-martial.

statement made today by Philip Murray, President of District 5, United Mine Workers of America, who also expressed the belief that almost all strikers will have returned to their posts Monday morning.

"The telegrams sent out from national headquarters Wednesday night instructing the men to return to work are often slow," said Mr. Murray, "in reaching local officers. In our own district we have 240 locals, and a large proportion has not received the wired instructions from Indianapolis. Locals are voting approval of the settlement before the members resume their drills, picks, and shovels. Some officers of locals are waiting to receive the circulars confirming the telegraphic advices before they call meetings. I think the locals all will meet before Sunday night, with the result that the men will have ample time to report at the pits the next morning."

KANSAS MEN DEBATE ACTION.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Kan., Dec. 12.—Alex. Howat, President of the Kansas coal miners, returned at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon from Indianapolis and went immediately into conference with the Board of Directors of the miners organization. Governor Allen expects to have a conference with the representatives of the board tonight.

A trip through the southern district of the coal fields this afternoon revealed the fact that none of the miners have returned to work.

The volunteers are still on the job. Twenty-nine carloads were mined yesterday in the Pittsburg field. This morning Linn County reported eight cars mined in that field instead of six, as reported last night, which makes the total for the day thirty-seven cars. The volunteers in this field have contributed 141 carloads to the relief of the coal famine in the State. The Linn County field has contributed fifty-five, making a total of 196 carloads as the result to date of the operation by the State.

VOTE TO COMPLY IN MISSOURI.

Volunteers and Troops Are Withdrawn from Coal Fields.

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 12.—The Missouri miners voted last night to accept the terms of the Indianapolis agreement and to go to work as soon as the volunteers have left and the soldiers have been withdrawn. The volunteers were entrained last night. It is said the miners will return to work in the southwest section of Missouri on Monday.

A committee of operators went from Kansas City today to meet Governor Allen of Kansas at Pittsburgh. Their intention, according to Harry N. Taylor, President of the National Coal Association, and Vice President of the Central Coal and Coke Company, is to pledge full co-operation in the conduct of the mines until the receivership is lifted.

MARYLAND NEARS NORMAL.

Output Is 90 Per Cent. of Capacity, with Few Miners Still Out.

Special to The New York Times.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Dec. 12.—Despite the fact that the miners of the Frostburg section in the Georges Creek region will not return to work till Monday, there was nearly a 90 per cent. production today, as every other section in the field was working, and in the upper Potomac region, included in District No. 16, it was said the output was also 90 per cent. of normal.

All men will be taken back, despite the fact that several companies had closed their mines and ordered the men to take out their tools, which was virtually a discharge.

At a Frostburg meeting some of the radical element wanted to remain on strike, and threats of future strikes were made, but they were outvoted, and all will return to the pits Monday.

RETURN GENERAL IN MICHIGAN

Miners at Two Meetings Vote to Accept Strike Settlement.

BAY CITY, Mich., Dec. 12.—Resumption of operations in Michigan coal miners was practically general today, following the decision of the workers at mass meetings last night to accept the terms of the Indianapolis settlement.

The meetings were held here and at Saginaw. Only a half dozen or so men at the Bay City meeting opposed a return, while the Saginaw meeting, District President Stevenson said, was unanimous for immediate resumption of operations.

PENNSYLVANIA MEN COMPLY.

Fifty Per Cent. Are Reported at Work in Some Coal Fields.

ALTOONA, Pa., Dec. 12.—From reports received today 50 per cent. of the coal miners at Broad Top, Punxsutawney, South Fork, Allegheny River, Gallitzin, Bakerton, Spangler and Wilmore were at work.

time no unnecessary restrictions be imposed and the orderly conduct of necessary business be not interfered with." The members of the committee are Otto B. Shulhof, 105 Madison Avenue, Chairman; Mapor Benjamin H. Namm, Preston B. Lynn, Charles B. Dillingham, and L. M. Boomer.

Commenting on the appointment of the Mayor's committee Mr. Nixon said:

"The Mayor gets into the ranks of coal savers a little late, but he is heartily welcome."

In reply to a question as to what the Mayor's committee might do to help save coal Mr. Nixon replied:

"The committee might suggest that the clusters of lights in Fifth Avenue could be reduced, that the myriad lights in the parks could be cut down, that policemen could be directed to warn shopkeepers whose stores are too brilliantly lighted, and a distinct service would be rendered if the Mayor would warn all of his subordinates to save light in their offices. I hesitate to make suggestions, but I feel that the Mayor only wants to know what to do, that he may hurry up and do it."

Mr. Nixon walked to the window of his office and gazed at the windows of the Municipal Building, remarking that so far as he could discover there had been no decrease in the number of lights. He contrasted that building with some of the big office buildings near by, which blazed less brilliantly.

"I think," he said, "that the city is very wasteful of its lights."

A short block in Park Row was aglow. Four stores, two restaurants, a pawnshop, and a haberdashery were so brightly lighted that the whole street was illuminated.

"Tomorrow," said Mr. Nixon, "I shall send a policeman to warn these offenders that they will be punished if they don't mend their ways. Every time I glance out of the window it makes me cross to know that men will act so selfishly."

GRAND JURY SPURNS SWANN PEACE PLAN

rected to the jury on Thursday, but did not reach them until yesterday morning, when they assembled. Its context was made public sometime after this reply had come from the jury room:

Dec. 12, 1919.

District Attorney Swann: Let me acknowledge your favor of the 11th instant and advise you that the Grand Jury's position is fully explained in its letter dated Nov. 20, 1919, to his Excellency, the Governor.

RAYMOND F. ALMIRALL,
Foreman.

After the "peace messenger's" return one could almost hear the breaking of the withered "olive branch"; hear the tip-tap of the fragments as they fell into the waste basket, and the legal warclouds seemed to darken again.

"I suggested those two members of my staff, who would proceed in a lawyer-like fashion," began the District Attorney, "who would proceed without regard to anything but the legal aspects of the case. This is simply my desire to put the public interests before everything else, to submerge all personalities, and to advance the public interest solely. The public is not interested in personal differences between public officials.

"For the sixth time I have requested the Grand Jury to stop their bickering, their constant wrangling, and get down to the business of the county; to let the dead past bury its dead, to let there be a new day—and they declined to do it.

Grand Jury Has an Office.

"The constitutional rights of citizens are being invaded because the Grand Jruy has no legal adviser and declines to let any member of the District Attorney's office enter the Grand Jury room except in anarchy cases. Both the State and Federal Constitutions provide certain privileges to all citizens charged with crime. These rights are being invaded right now, unwittingly, by the Grand Jury, which refuses to receive advice from the District Attorney.

"Their communications are written, not from the Grand Jury room, but from Mr. Almirall's private office, 12 East Forty-sixth Street, and he has had letterheads printed with the heading: 'Extraordinary Grand Jury, 12 East Forty-sixth Street, New York.'

"The Grand Jury indicates that it puts personal antagonism above the public interest."

The statement by Mr. Swann in his letter to the jury that there was not sufficient business relating to criminal anarchy to occupy the time of the jury was accepted by some persons outside of the juryroom as an indication that he might move before the court for the discharge of the jury when the anarchy cases were disposed of, on the ground that they had either completed the business for which they were originally convened or that they were not prepared because of legal obstacles to take up other work.

The District Attorney made no comment or further mention of that part of his letter. Discussing what he termed the "challenge" of the jury to make the minutes public, he asserted that he would agree to it by written stipulation if Justice Weeks could find a precedent for it, and if not, he hoped the court would make one. Mr. Swann made this comment on what he termed the "duties" of a Grand Jury:

"A Grand Jury is not charged with the general supervision and regulation of public officials and is not clothed with plenary powers in respect to the manner in which it shall perform its duties. Hence the institution of a general investigation by a Grand Jury, ostensibly in the public interest, not inspired by reasonable ground of belief that public officials have been guilty of willful and corrupt misconduct in office, is not to be encouraged, even if it can be said to have any warrant in law."

Governor Smith Silent.

Governor Smith, who returned to the city last evening and went to the home of his mother, had not announced his acceptance of the resignation of George Gordon Battle as legal adviser to the Grand Jury. Nor did the Governor give any indication that he was giving consideration to the published report that the Grand Jury was waiting for him to designate Attorney General Newton.

It was reported that the Grand Jury had again repeated yesterday its decision to withhold the minutes of the proceedings from the District Attorney. Mr. Swann had a conference with Justice Weeks, which the District Attorney said had nothing to do with the action of the jury in relation to the transcript of the minutes. Foreman Almirall also had a conference with the court after Mr. Swann had departed.

Mr. Swann admitted that he had not received copies of the minutes of the proceedings for several days, but said this omission was due to the fact that the stenographers had not transcribed their notes. He asserted that he would exercise his right conferred by law to get copies of all proceedings before the jury. It was thought by some persons conversant with the attitude of the jury regarding the minutes that they might not be transcribed for some time, so that the District Attorney might have no legal ground for demanding copies.

According to a statement of one of the jurors, the minutes are withheld as a matter of principle.

"The ordinary citizen under investigation by a Grand Jury," he said, "has not the right to see the minutes, whereas the present investigation, which includes members of the District Attorney's professional staff, is an open record to the District Attorney and his assistants as long as they are supplied with copies of the minutes. This is why we are so insistent upon Governor Smith directing the Attorney General to take charge of our investigation.

"The principle of the thing involved should be borne in mind. Why should the District Attorney or any one of his assistants, if accused before us, be entitled to know what we are doing when the ordinary citizen under investigation by a Grand Jury is denied this privilege?"

HUNDREDS OF REDS SOON OFF FOR RUSSIA

Red Secretary Met Bullitt.

Santeri Nuorteva, the Secretary of the Soviet "Embassy," admitted to the Lusk committee that he had had several conferences with William C. Bullitt with regard to Russian affairs. He also admitted having had some correspondence with Bullitt after Bullitt returned from his semi-official mission to Russia with Lincoln Steffens and others, complaining that President Wilson had neglected him, Lloyd George had deceived him, and Secretary Lansing had, in a private and confidential correspondence, condemned the League of Nations.

"Are you acquainted with William C. Bullitt?" asked Deputy Attorney General Samuel A. Berger.

"Yes. I met him in March, 1918, in the State Department at Washington."

"Have you had any correspondence with him since that time?"

"Yes. I have been in correspondence with him in the same manner that I have been in correspondence with many people. I have put him on our mailing list. There may have been some personal correspondence."

"Did you have any correspondence with him before he started on his trip to Russia?"

"I had several conferences with him in the Spring of 1918, but I did not see him immediately before he went to Russia. He was in Paris before he went to Russia."

"Are you personally acquainted with Lincoln Steffens?"

"Yes, I met him twice or thrice."

Mr. Nuorteva said that the Soviet Bureau had received through its secret messengers a letter containing an account of the arrival of the Bullitt Mission, and its negotiations with the Lenin Government which led to the proposals for peace between Soviet Russia and the Allies, which were carried by Bullitt to Paris.

Lenin Recognized Bullitt.

Chairman Martin asked the witness if the letters from Russia showed that the Lenin Government had accepted the Bullitt Mission as an official body from the United States Government. Secretary Nuorteva replied that it had so accepted them.

"Have you any knowledge of who suggested the names of those who served on the Bullitt Mission?" asked Mr. Berger.

"No, sir, I have no inside information on that."

Mr. Berger was asked later what the object of this question was, and he replied that he sought to confirm through the witness information which he had received from other sources as to the origin of the Bullitt-Steffens visit to Soviet Russia.

Nathan Chabrow was the emissary of the Communist Party of this country to Soviet Russia, who was aided by the Soviet Bureau here, according to John Chabrow, his brother, who appeared before the Lusk Committee yesterday. Chabrow said that his brother failed to get through to Russia and was stranded in Stockholm without funds. After hearing of his brother's predicament, he said that he went to Martens in August of this year, and that Martens promised to send cablegrams to Soviet representatives which would smooth the way for his brother.

A letter was introduced from Nathan Chabrow, thanking his brother, saying that he had received $100 from the Communist Party here and other money and was getting along fine. He also acknowledged receipt of copies of the Revolutionary Age and the platform of the Mexican Communist Party. He said that the Mexican Communist Party was formed in Mexico City, and that its literature was handled in this city at the Communist headquarters at 43 West Twenty-ninth Street.

Martens, the Soviet representative, testified that he knew nothing about this matter, and had not helped Chabrow in any manner.

Denies Attacking Government.

Nuorteva made denials in answer to questions intended to discover whether he had made speeches in Ohio or Pennsylvania during the steel strike. He admitted that in addresses he had attacked the capitalists of Finland and Russia, but he denied that in this country he had made any attacks on the United States Government. He said that the letters of instruction which they had received from Russia directed them to use their utmost efforts to procure the lifting of the blockade and the resumption of trade relations, but said the Lenin Government also instructed the Soviet Bureau to refrain absolutely from taking part in radical movements in this country or interfering in American affairs. He admitted that he had done his utmost to make people believe that the present Russian Government was a good Government and ought to be recognized.

Nuorteva declined to answer questions relating to the whereabouts of the correspondence with Russia or the names of messengers carrying it, contending that his "diplomatic position" protected him in such a stand. He was asked if he and Martens had not recently been discussing their action of some weeks ago in sending this correspondence out of the jurisdiction. He replied:

"No, sir, your dictaphone must have worked wrong."

Archibald E. Stevenson and Mr. Berger, the lawyers for the committee, were instructed to go ahead with proceedings for contempt against Martens, Nuorteva and Dr. Michael Mislig, all of whom have declined to give information to the committee. Mr. Berger said that they would probably go to the Supreme Court on Monday to ask for the punishment of these men for contempt. It was admitted, however, that Martens and Nuorteva, because of their claim of diplomatic immunity, might be able to carry the appeal in the contempt proceedings as far as the United States Supreme Court, possibly prolonging the contempt proceedings beyond the life of the legislative committee. The committee adjourned to meet next Thursday morning at the City Hall.

RED MEETING FORBIDDEN.

Two Thousand Persons Dispersed by Police in the Bronx.

A widely advertised meeting of the Communist Party of the Bronx did not take place last night in the London Casino, Third Avenue, near Claremont Parkway. District Attorney Francis Martin went to the proprietor of the hall before the meeting was scheduled to begin and informed him that if he opened his hall to the Communists he was liable to arrest, and that the police would hold him to strict accountability. He decided not to open the hall.

The police from several stations in the inspection district were on hand and they kept the crowd of persons who came to the meeting moving. It was estimated that about 2,000 persons came to the hall and were turned away. The police order was brief, "Move on and keep moving." There was no disorder.

MEXICO REPUDIATES PLAN OF SAN DIEGO

FIGHTING AGAIN IN NORTH

Carranza Force Reported in Battle with Villa Rebels, Who Have Seized Two Towns.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 12.—Manuel Aguirre Berlanga, Secretary of the Interior, stated this afternoon that the charges made by Senator Fall referring to letters supposed to have been written by President Carranza ordering that help be given to the famous plan of San Diego were absolutely false.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 11 (Associated Press).—Mexico has never contemplated or considered the adoption of the plan of San Diego for the purpose of securing portions of the Southwestern territory of the United States, declared Manuel Aguirre Berlanga, Minister of Interior, today. This statement was made when the Minister's attention was called to charges recently made by United States Senator Fall of New Mexico.

Senator Fall's charges were contained in a memorandum submitted to President Wilson on Dec. 8. Among other things the Senator alluded to a plot said to have originated at a small town, San Diego, Texas, and made public at Monterey, Mexico, early in 1915. It was declared that on Feb. 20, 1915, there should arise a revolution against the Government of the United States, that the independence of Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado and Upper California would be proclaimed, and that these States, after being declared an independent republic, would later request annexation to Mexico.

In conclusion Senator Fall's report said: "At the very moment of closing this investigation of the acts of Carranza in favoring and attempting to carry out the plan of San Diego evidence was brought to the committee not only of the propaganda efforts of the Carranza Government, but further evidence showing that Carranza himself directly was now engaged in assisting in the formulation, or at least with the knowledge that plans were being formed, similar to those in the plan of San Diego in some respects."

VILLA FORCES ENGAGE FEDERALS IN COAHUILA

Fighting Going on Around Towns Captured by Rebels, Eagle Pass Hears.

EAGLE PASS, Texas, Dec. 12.—Five hundred Mexican Federal troops, sent by special train, have encountered the Villista force that raided Musquiz, State of Coahuila, and fighting was reported in progress late yesterday, according to information received here today. The Villa force comprised nearly 400 men.

Mexican Consul G. M. Seguin said tonight that Francisco Villa was in command of the force of rebels and that they had been driven out of Muzquiz during the day.

Other reports, which could not be confirmed, were that Villistas were approaching Piedras Negras, the Mexican town opposite here, and were within forty miles of the town, and that the rebels had blown up two troop trains.

It was officially announced in Mexican sources here that General Francisco Murguia had arrived at Barroteran, where the Mexican National Railway branches off to Musquiz, about twenty miles away, and with him were nine trainloads of Carranza troops.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Villistas have captured the towns of Musquiz and Sabinas, in the State of Coahuila, advices today to the State Department said. The towns are on the Monclova branch of the National Railway.

The Villists who attacked Musquiz were said to have numbered 300, the attack taking place on Dec. 9. No Americans were harmed, the dispatches said. Carranza troops have been ordered to Musquiz.

MEXICO SHOWS OIL OUTPUT HAS GROWN

Drilling New Wells Only Restricted by "Existing Laws and Decrees."

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 12.—Dispatches from Washington to the effect that the Mexican Government's forced curtailment of petroleum production is a menace to the American merchant marine have brought a prompt statement from official sources.

The Petroleum Department is quoted as declaring that from the potential daily production of, roundly, 1,600,000 barrels of petroleum on Feb. 28, the production on Dec. 1 increased to nearly 2,018,000 barrels, and also that petroleum companies have been able to export only about 11 per cent. of their production.

The declaration is likewise made that drilling operations have not been restricted so long as they comply with existing laws and decrees.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Chairman John Barton Payne of the United States Shipping Board stated this afternoon that oil deliveries for use by steamers operated under the control of the board had been contracted for up to April. Chairman Payne indicated that it was the belief of the board that the oil companies which had made these contracts with the board would probably be able to make deliveries, but that if the Mexican authorities should persist in their new rulings there might be serious interference with the delivery of sufficient oil for the operation of the American merchant fleet, and contracts made for dates later than April 1 would no doubt be affected.

It was the hope of members of the board, it was explained, that the companies holding the present contracts would be able to make up any shortage through supplies held in this country and in other parts of the world than Mexico. This, however, remains to be seen.

The State Department during the last thirty days has taken up the matter of the Carranza Government's interference with the drilling of new oil wells in the Tampico and Panuco districts and has sent three recent notes dealing with the oil situation and is still awaiting a response from the Mexican Government.

Replying to the statement made by the Mexican Ambassador in Washington to the effect that the potential yearly capacity of oil wells in Mexico today is about 600,000,000 barrels and that there is no restriction in Mexico as to the exportation of crude oil or its products, the Association of Oil Producers in Mexico last night issued a statement in which it said:

"Potential production as applied to oil wells is a very uncertain thing. This is particularly true if some of the production is salt water and the percentage is increasing progressively. But it is perfectly immaterial what the potential production in Mexico is. The United States can obtain from Mexico no more oil than can be moved to the seaboard.

"The facilities available for this purpose consist of pipe lines in the main, supplemented to a small extent by barges on the Panuco River. The total facilities are barely adequate under normal conditions. There is no surplus transportation from the fields to the seaboard over and above the quantity that has been moving.

"If this were all the situation might not be so bad. But some of the pipe lines are idle or partly idle. Thus, one company has a pipe line to the seaboard with a capacity of 20,000 barrels daily and this line was being operated to its capacity in moving oil from particular wells. All of these wells but one recently have gone to salt water. The remaining well produces less than half of the line's capacity so that the line is more than half idle.

"The company had the foresight to start the drilling of new wells removed some distance from the salt water. Being unable to obtain permits without surrendering its titles the company started these wells without permits. One came in with a production of about 10,000 barrels a day, almost enough to take the place of the wells that had failed, but the Government refused to allow it to be operated and prevented the company from connecting it to the pipe lines. There are other cases of the same kind and the number will increase very rapidly from now on."

CHURCHMEN URGE CAUTION.

Federal Council Sends Committee to See Lansing on Meixco.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 13.—Extreme caution in the handling of the Mexican situation was advocated in a resolution adopted unanimously and without debate by the Executive Committee of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America at its final session here today, and a committee of leading churchmen and laymen was appointed to confer with Secretary Lansing and recommend the appointment of a special commission to study our relations with the Southern republic.

The committee left for Washington at once. It represents thirty-one Protestant denominations composing the Federal Council of Churches.

Another committee, headed by Bishop McDowell, also went to Washington to appear before the Senate Military Committee in the interest of the army chaplains. The committee will recommend improvement in their rank and the creation of a "chaplains' corps, and urge that this body retain its wartime strength.

Another resolution adopted today urged the churches and all patriotic citizens to stand firm for the enforcement of law, and pledged the co-operation and support of the Federal Council to the Government in the prohibition enforcement code.

A plan whereby the American people can help in the rebuilding of Europe was presented by Edward A. Filene of Boston, a member of the newly created National Finance Committee.

The only way to help these nations, Mr. Filene declared, was by the floating of a loan to be taken up by the American people. In the case of the newly created small nations, which have no securities to offer as collateral, help could be extended only through philanthropy, and the Church, Mr. Filene said, could play a big part in floating the loans.

STOPS CHINESE EXPULSION.

Carranza Intervenes in Action Threatened in Sonora.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Dec. 12.—President Carranza has intervened to prevent the expulsion of Chinese from the State of Sonora, according to advices from Mexico City today. A program for expulsion of Chinese had been decided upon by the municipal authorities of Sonora, effective Jan. 1 next.

The dispatch from Mexico City stated that President Carranza, acting on representation made by the Chinese Embassy, would instruct Governor de la Huerta of Sonora to employ such measures as he should find necessary to prevent local officials from carrying out their plans for expulsion of Chinese.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 12.—T. K. Fong, the Chinese Chargé, has flatly denied dispatches stating the Chinese residents in Northern Mexico have petitioned the American Government for protection.

Refuse to Act on Ashurst Resolution

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The Senate Military Committee today declined to take action on a resolution by Senator Ashurst, Democrat, Arizona, authorizing the Secretary of War to employ the army to protect American citizens on United States soil from Mexican bandits. The resolution was later sent to the Foreign Relations Committee.

HUNTER SAYS HE SAW PREHISTORIC MONSTER

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Details of the alleged discovery of a survivor of the prehistoric Brontosaurus are given in a delayed Reuter message from Bulawayo by the Belgian prospector and big game hunter, M. Gapelle, who has returned there from the interior of the Congo States. He followed up strange footprints for twelve miles and at length, he says, sighted a beast of the rhinoceros order with large scales reaching far down its body.

The animal, he says, has a very thick kangaroo-like tail, a horn on its snout and a hump on its back. Gapelle fired some shots at the beast which then threw up its head and disappeared into the swamp. It was pointed out that the American Smithsonian expedition was in search of the monster referred to above when the members of the party met with a railway accident in which several persons were killed.

Discussing the Smithsonian expedition yesterday Dr. G. F. Harmer, director of the zoological section of the British Museum of Natural History, while keeping an open mind said:

"I should doubt strongly the survival of any of the race of Dinosaurs, the enormous creatures belong to so remote an age. In the forest and swamp of untrodden portions of Africa there are probably remarkable specimens of unknown beasts, but the likelihood is they are mammals of a much later type. The discovery in modern times of remains of extinct animals has all been of creatures comparatively recently extinct. It was only at the beginning of the last century that the great auk became extinct, and the dodo, which was living on Mauritius, was not of so greatly remote a period as the Dinosaur or Brontosaurus. The remains of the mammoths were in a similar category, namely, mammals of a recent period."

COMMISSIONER BICK QUITS.

Declares Compensation in Brooklyn District Is Too Small.

United States Commissioner Louis R. Bick of Brooklyn yesterday sent his resignation to United States Judge Thomas I. Chatfield. The resignation will take effect at the end of the year. Mr. Bick said he resigned reluctantly, but that the compensation for the office in such an important district did not pay a Commissioner for his time and labor. For the two years he had served, he said, he made a great personal financial sacrifice, and in justice to himself and his family he was compelled to give up his office.

Fair Prices for Clothing of Both Sexes as Calculated by Chicago's Largest Stores

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—Twenty-four dollars and a half is a "fair price" for a man's suit or overcoat, the Federal Price Regulating Commission, working under the direction of District Attorney Clyne, announced today.

A fair price for women's suits was fixed at $25, women's dresses, $15.25; men's shoes, $5.95, and women's shoes, $4.95.

Officials of five of Chicago's biggest retail stores prepared the price list, which they consider fair as long as present stocks last, but it was added that "replacement orders at present market prices would increase these figures."

The list follows:

FOR MEN
Shoes	5.90	Hosiery	.25
Underwear	1.35
FOR WOMEN
Suits	$25.00	Dresses	$15.25
Coats	18.90	Shoes	4.95
Hosiery	.25	Underwear	1.25
FOR CHILDREN
Boys' suits	$5.90	Boys' overcoats	$8.50
Children's hosiery	.40	Children's underwear	.75
Children's shoes	3.95

The first effect of the fair price list will be to bring about a drastic decrease in the price of suits, overcoats, hats, shoes and all other staple articles of clothing, the committee declared.

PREMIERS MAKING PROGRESS IN PARLEY

ing between France and the United States as associated powers remain intact, it is declared.

Premiers Clemenceau and Lloyd George have a clear understanding as to the situation resulting from the present attitude of Germany, according to French and English newspapers, which speak with satisfaction of the opening of conferences in London by the two statesmen.

Many French newspapers express the desire that the London conference should end in the conclusion, if not of an alliance, at least of an entente or agreement equivalent to a real alliance, between England, Italy, France, and Belgium. The Eclair deems this alliance necessary to Belgium, France, and Italy, and indispensable to England.

GERMANY DISPATCHES CONCILIATORY REPLY

Berlin Hints That It Reciprocates the Overtures Made in Latest Allied Notes.

BERLIN, Dec. 11.—Germany's reply to the last notes from the Supreme Council of the Peace Conference has been sent to Versailles. Nothing has been given out relative to its contents, aside from a hint that its general tenor reciprocates the conciliatory tone of the latest communication from the Entente.

Dr. Haniel von Haimhausen, former Counselor of the German Embassy at Washington, will head a delegation which will go to Paris to discuss the Scapa Flow incident, according to the Vossische Zeitung. Among the experts who will accompany the delegation are Herr Rawatzki of Bremen and Ludwig Wendemuth of Hamburg and a labor representative, Paul Mueller.

The Vossische Zeitung says Germany's reply to the recent Entente note on the Scapa Flow question will show that Germany does not desire delay in ratification of the treaty, but, on the contrary, yearns for a speedy and final peace.

Reports state that the reply renews the Government's disclaimer of responsibility for the sinking of interned German warships at Scapa Flow, and sets forth exceptions to the Supreme Council's insistence upon compensation for the scuttled vessels. It is said to claim that the objectionable passage from the letter from Admiral von Trotha, head of the German Admiralty, to Admiral von Reuter, commander of the German ships, was not translated properly, and that it was "out of context with the rest of the letter."

On the proposition that Germany sign the protocol to the Peace Treaty and permit the issue involving the selection of indemnity tonnage to be adjusted later, it is reported that the note proposes that the question of indemnity be forthwith submited to a body of experts. This stand is taken because of the importance of the matter to German harbor facilities. It is hoped to obtain a concession on the Scapa Flow issue, and it is believed that the note indicates a measure of yielding on this point.

Reports declare that there are no intimations in the German reply that the Berlin Government has taken a position that failure to ratify the treaty by the United States has created an altered situation, and it is hinted, it is said, that treaty action by the United States Senate is a purely internal American affair that does not absolve the other powers from the obligation of exchanging ratifications.

Belief is expressed here that the reply attempts to temporize in an effort to obtain a modification of the demand for indemnity for vessels sunk at Scapa Flow. It is said, also, that the reply seeks to persuade the Entente that demands for the extradition of German officers and men accused of violations of the laws of war are fraught with serious internal possibilities.

PARIS, Dec. 11.—Premier Clemenceau, as President of the Peace Conference, has replied briefly to the two notes in which Premier Huszar of Hungary explained why he could not send Hungarian delegates to Neuilly to negotiate a peace.

The reply takes note of the announcement in the Hungarian communication that the three persons it proposed to select as delegates were under internment by the Rumanians. The reply then adds the following:

"The Supreme Council is not called upon to intervene in a question of this kind, and it renews to the Hungarian Government its invitation to send delegates to Neuilly as quickly as possible."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 12.—The officials of the American delegation whom Mr. Polk left behind are establishing themselves in the American Embassy in the Rue Chaillot. They will act as an information bureau for the Washington Government until matters shape themselves more clearly. The Hotel Crillon was handed back to the French owners Thursday.

OUR MISSION THANKS FRANCE.

PARIS, Dec. 12.—A message addressed to the French people has been received from Frank L. Polk, Henry White, and General Tasker H. Bliss, the American delegates to the peace conference, who are sailing for the United States on the transport America. The message thanks the French people for the hospitality shown the peace commissioners and for their steady and loyal co-operation throughout the conference.

"Our common struggle for the right principles of settlement, like our common sacrifices in the war, will become, we hope, a noble tradition to our peoples," the message adds.

NO NEW POWERS FOR DAVIS.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—State Department officials tonight refrained from commenting on the part played by John W. Davis, the American Ambassador, in the conference held at London today between Premiers Lloyd George and Clemenceau and the Italian Forign Minister, but it is understood that Mr. Davis, representing the President and the State Department, has not been clothed with any new powers, and that he will represent the United States in these conferences in about the same way that Hugh Wallace, the American Ambassador to Paris, will represent the United States in interallied councils and conferences in the French capital.

With the departure from France of Frank L. Polk, Under Secretary of State, and the other members of the American Commission to negotiate peace, the American Government has no peace representatives in Paris or London other than its regular Ambassadors. These will act under direct instructions from President Wilson, conveyed through Secretary Lansing, and everything they do will be subjected to approval from Washington.

The London conference of the Premiers on post-bellum problems is reported to have involved a discussion this morning of problems of international finance. Whether financial matters were brought forward again during Mr. Davis's participation in the conference this afternoon could not be learned from official quarters tonight.

BRITISH TROOPS FOR SILESIA

7 Battalions Detailed for Service There and in Other Plebiscite Areas.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Seven British battalions have been ordered to make preparations for procedeing to Silesia, Slesvig-Holstein, Bohemia, and Jugoslavia in January. It is considered probable that the soldiers are going to these districts in connection with the coming plébiscites.

NEW RULING ON WAR CRIMES

German Council Places All of Them Under Imperial Jurisdiction.

BERLIN, Dec. 11.—A measure has been approved by the Imperial Council providing for the prosecution of crimes and offenses against the laws of war and placing jurisdiction over such crimes in the Imperial Court, even when the offenses are committed abroad.

SAY EISNER PLANNED TO ASSASSINATE AUER

MUNICH, Dec. 12.—At the trial today of Alois Lindner, who is accused of having shot Herr Auer, former Minister of the Interior, in the Diet last February, the testimony was given principally by former Ministers of the Bavarian Cabinet. This tended to show that Kurt Eisner, the former Bavarian Premier, who was assassinated a short time before Auer was shot, and his followers not only intended to shoot Auer, but had planned a wholesale murder of all the Bavarian Ministers.

A feature of the trial today was the castigation of Eisner by Minister after Minister, and the grave accusations made against Eisner's Secretary, Stechenbach, a youth who is said to have had great influence with Eisner.

The first witness, Heinrich von Frauendorfer, former Soviet Minister of Communications, testified that Auer was regarded as having been "an incarnation of reaction." It was believed firmly, he added, that Auer was responsible for Eisner's death, and therefore it had been resolved to shoot Auer.

In the course of the hearing State's Attorney Hahn asked Auer's doctor if he might be brought into court to testify. The doctor replied that Auer was still weak and in bed, but that if his presence were absolutely necessary he perhaps could be brought into court on a cot.

Herr von Frauendorfer's evidence tended to reveal Eisner as a weak-willed, conceited, and incapable politician. The Court listened attentively as von Frauendorfer declared that in the Ministerial Council the day before Eisner was killed the witness obtained the impression that Eisner realized that his power had ended, but that his conceit and his ambition to play a leading rôle in Bavaria led him to attempt to maintain himself by any means, as he had a feeling that Auer wanted to displace him.

The witness testified that the two men quarreled in the council, that Eisner lost self-control, and that Eisner repeatedly said: "Auer, I warn you that you don't know what is going on."

Von Frauendorfer added that he drew the conclusion from Eisner's action that he was prepared to close the Diet and not permit it to reach the stage of bloody quarrels.

TAPESTRY SAVED FROM FIRE.

Blaze in Bush Terminal Sales Building Caused by Candles.

Candles used for lighting when electric lights were turned off in accordance with the fuel conservation order were said to have been the cause of a fire on the eighth floor of the Bush Terminal Sales Building at 130 West Forty-second Street late yesterday afternoon, just as the theatre crowds were passing. The automatic alarm gave warning of the fire, and every one in the building, some 300 persons, had ample time to get out. The damage was estimated at about $5,000.

The Bush Terminal building is occupied almost exclusively by the International Buyers Club, devoted to the display of various manufactured articles. It was said last night that none of the water had leaked through to the floors containing the exhibits and they had not been damaged.

The fire and water proof construction of the building prevented any damage being caused by water to the collection of Persian art exhibited on the third floor. This collection, which consists of 4,000 specimens, was the property of the Persian throne. It contains a tapestry valued at $100,000 and many illuminated manuscripts, rugs, jewelry, and lacquer work which date back as far as the twelfth century.

IRISH FACTIONS IN WORDY BATTLE

CROWDS HISS AND CHEER

Cohalan for War on Britain by This Country Over Irish Issue, if Necessary.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Proponents and opponents of a bill to appropriate funds for the appointment of a United States Minister and Consuls to the "Republic of Ireland," were heard today by the House Foreign Affairs Committee. The views of the Sinn Fein element and the opinions of the Ulster factions were expressed with great force by different speakers who were not permitted to discuss the religious aspects of the Irish question.

Justice Daniel F. Cohalan of the New York Supreme Court and Frank P. Walsh of Kansas, who unsuccessfully sought to present the Irish cause at the Paris Peace Conference, made the chief argument for the bill. Professor George L. Fox of New Haven led the opposition. The chief speech against the measure was made by the Rev. Dr. George T. Lemon of Albany, Secretary of the National Orangemen's Organization.

Large crowds filled the committee rooms and interrupted the speakers with applause and hisses as their utterances excited approval or denunciation. The meeting, which lasted throughout the day, will be continued tomorrow, with every indication that the Foreign Relations Committee will take no action on the bill. Most of those who were present do not expect favorable action. One explanation given for the hearing was that a large body of voters were demanding it and that it would be unwise to offend these voters in a Presidential year.

Justice Cohalan said that he favored the passage of the bill even though it would be necessary to go to war with Great Britain. He expressed the opinion, however, that it would not be necessary to resort to arms.

In denouncing the element which is seeking passage of the bill, the Rev. Mr. Lemon asserted that they represented the same faction as did Sir Roger Casement, who sought to aid Germany while this country and her Allies were fighting the cause of civilization.

An understanding between Irish-Americans and German-Americans was charged by Mr. Lemon, and Mr. Fox carried the suggestion a step further by turning to Mr. Walsh and declaring that during the war "this man was thinking to help Germany." The crowd, in which the tricolor of the Irish Republic was conspicuous, along with the Stars and Stripes, hooted down the assertion and cheered the committeemen when they objected.

Mr. Fox said that Senator Lodge, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, had told him in private conversation last December that the United States "had no business" interfering in the Irish question.

Some one asked Mr. Walsh during his testimony how the Irish "Republic" could be ruled with their "President" roaming around this country. The witness did not reply, for the explanation he was about to make was drowned in the shouts from the crowd, and one man asserted that this country had been governed while President Wilson was in Paris and engaged in speech making.

Justice Cohalan argued that Ireland was entitled to self-determination as much as the other countries to which self-government had been granted by the peace terms. He recalled that the President had said before the armistice was signed that "with peace there must come liberty to all the oppressed people of the earth, whether they suffered under the government of those with whom we were fighting or those who fought on the same side with us."

"We point out that in no country since the armistice was signed has a plebiscite been taken except in Ireland," continued Justice Cohalan, "and that there, with a political unanimity which can be found in no other quarter of the world, the people decided by a popular vote of almost four to one in favor of the establishment of a separate and independent form of government.

"A recognition of the republic of Ireland by the United States of America would give the people of England the opportunity of bringing their Government to see that it was the part of wisdom to agree with our view and to leave the government of Ireland to the people of Ireland. If they could not persuade their Government to take that point of view, it would be a tacit admission on the part of the governing classes in England that they continue to control Ireland for the purpose of controlling the seas, and that would be tantamount to a declaration that would require us to build and equip a navy equal to the British Navy, in order that American commerce might be permitted to come and go freely all over the ocean.

"If the British governing classes now consent to the freedom of Ireland it will be the clearest recognition that can be given by them of the right of all peoples to use the seas. If, on the other hand, they refuse or fail to do so, it will be notice to us that we must be ready to insist upon our rights."

Representative Connally put this question to the witness:

"If this action should mean the United States going to war with Great Britain would you favor it?"

"I say yes," replied Justice Cohalan emphatically. "From a knowledge of conditions, in my opinion, we never would be faced with it, but as an American citizen I reiterate that I am in favor of doing what is just."

Representative Flood asked whether England was in financial condition to engage in war with the United States, and got this reply:

"Absolutely not. You would have to loan England the money to fight you with."

Ge[illegible]e Waldron of Baltimore, head of the Free Press Defense League, in opposing the bill said that the Irish people would get justice from England and that the issue was not one for factions in the United States to foster. He said that if the Kaiser had won the Sinn Fein leaders would have gone to him to get their freedom.

William McFadden of Pittsburgh observed that the time had come when Americans should be 100 per cent. Americans and stand for American institutions. He said that 39 per cent. of those in Ireland who went to war volunteered and that the bulk of them came from Ulster. Ireland and Australia, he declared, were the only English possessions that would not submit to conscription in the war. The Sinn Fein crowd now behind the Irish Republic movement, Mr. McFadden concluded, were not aiding in the world war and deserved no consideration from those who had fought to destroy autocracy.

James S. McGraw, a Pittsburgh minister of the Reformed Presbyterian Church, read a resolution he said was adopted by the first Pennsylvania cantonment of the American Legion declaring that President de Valera of the Irish Republic had used his influence to handicap the cause of Great Britain and the Allies in the war and protesting against his activities in the United States.

FATE OF IRISH BILL IS LEFT UNCERTAIN

All Factions Said to be Opposed to the Plan to Divide the Island.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—The announcement in the House of Commons yesterday that the introduction of the Irish bill would have to be postponed at least for a few days has caused the press to drop all confident predictions regarding the prospects of a Home Rule measure, the comment now expressing general uncertainty. The stanch Unionists, especially the Ulstermen, have been indifferent or opposed to the bill as outlined in the press and have all along given voice to doubts of its being introduced before Christmas, believing the Cabinet ministers divided too greatly for an agreement to be reached.

This supposed division among the Cabinet members was emphatically reasserted in Unionist circles today. It was further declared that the proposed scheme for two Parliaments, with a connecting central council, did not appeal to any section of Irish opinion, and that the Government had been made aware of this by representations on the part of various political sections.

It is not questioned that the postponement of the bill's introduction was actually due, as stated by Mr. Bonar Law, to the visit of Premier Clemenceau, with whom Premier Lloyd George is now occupied. It was declared by some lobby circles, however, that this excuse for a postponement came opportunely for the Government. Elsewhere the belief is expressed that a section of the Cabinet is seriously trying to get the bill introduced before the prorogation of Parliament for the Christmas holidays, and the Premier is credited by some with the intention to secure both the first and second readings of the bill before the vacation period, although not expecting to carry the measure further until the next session.

DUBLIN, Dec. 11.—Soldiers and policemen who today searched the Mansion House, or City Hall, were this evening stationed, with fixed bayonets, in an automobile garage in the immediate vicinity. The raid was made for the purpose of suppressing the Christmas Fair, which is held annually by the Gaelic League, for the display of Irish manufactures.

Late this afternoon the Lord Mayor said he was so "accustomed to raids upon the Mansion House that he had ceased to feel even resentment." Every room in the building, from cellar to garret, had been searched, with the exception of a bedroom where the wife of the Lord Mayor is lying ill, he said.

Although the reported reason for the raid was to suppress the Christmas Fair, it was announced later in the afternoon that the fair would be held. A number of prisoners have been deported on a warship from this port, although no arrests in the provinces have as yet been reported in Dublin newspapers.

Reports were submitted at the annual meeting of the Irish Agricultural Association Society today showing that the co-operative movement has been a great success in Ireland. During the last year there has been an increase in turnover from £7,500,000 to over £9,000,000.

Sir Horace Plunkett, who presided at the meeting, while recalling the fact that the society was not political and included men of all parties, condemned any Government proposal for dividing Ireland into two parts.

IRISH WOULD STOP "BARTER MARRIAGES"

DUBLIN, Dec. 3.—Proposals that the Dail Eireann, or Irish Parliament, set aside a sum equivalent to $1,500,000 as a State subsidy to enable young men to marry, has been made here. The idea was suggested by Frank H. O'Donnell to the Irish Women's Franchise League.

Mr. O'Donnell criticised what he called "barter marriages" in Ireland. He said he knew of girls of 19 years who were brought into the nearest town on a fair day and taken to a public house to meet men whom they had never seen before, but who were to be their husbands. The girls, he declared, were bartered like cattle at the fair while their fathers and friends were drinking.

DRAGGED BY HAIR, BEDFORD GIRL SAYS

GUARD TELLS SAME STORY

Special to The New York Times.

BEDFORD, N. Y., Dec. 12.—More startling charges of cruelty to inmates were made today at the inquiry into the conduct of the State Reformatory for Women in progress here by Vice President John S. Kennedy of the State Prison Commission.

When for the first time present inmates were examined, one swore that Helen A. Cobb, the Superintendent, struck her on the head with a bunch of keys and, when they caught in her hair, dragged her five times around the corridor with them. Thomas Quinn, a guard, told the same story of the alleged incident.

Another girl testified she had been compelled to sleep on the floor for three nights while the mice ran over her. A third said she still bore the mark where Quinn had hit her with a handcuff. Former inmates continued their tales of being dieted for long periods on bread and water and of being strung up with handcuffs so that their feet could not touch the floor.

The session was punctuated with an incident which afforded the examiners opportunities to get a first hand glimpse of reformatory discipline. An incipient revolt started among twenty-five negro girls in Lowell Cottage when they were told they would forfeit their recreation privileges and would be sent to bed at 6 o'clock unless some one produced a dress yoke one of the cottagers said had been stolen from her. Mr. Kennedy interrupted the inquiry at sound of the din from the cottage and all those in attendance hurried thither. Some of the girls were found to be attacking the attendants with strips of carpet, all were screaming, and some were devoting their attentions to the glass window panes with great success. In a half hour the girls were quieted and persuaded to "be good" without resort to any of the disciplinary measures as to which complaint has been made.

After Quinn had testified that when he was summoned to the disciplinary barracks on Aug. 1 in time to hear Maizie Rice say to Miss Minogue, the disciplinary officer, "Please don't string me up. I have got a weak heart and I am afraid it will kill me," and had told of the girl being struck with a keyring and dragged about by the hair, she was summoned. Asked about the incident, she testified it occurred Aug. 1, as Quinn had said, and continued:

Tells of Being Dragged by Hair.

"I had been kept on a bread and water diet for seven days. I kept calling for Miss Minogue to ask her why I was on it. She came in with three men. One of the guards put a blanket over my head and almost smothered me. When he took the blanket off Miss Minogue hit me over the head with the keys. They caught in my hair, and she dragged me up and down the corridor at least five times."

"Were you strung up then?" Mr. Kennedy asked.

"Yes."

"Were your feet off the floor?"

"Yes," she answered, "all the way off, maybe two inches."

"How many times have you been strung up here?"

"Only that one occasion."

In answer to questions by Daniel P. Hays, a member of the Board of Managers, the Rice girl said she had not planned her testimony, and that she did not know a hearing was going on until she was called. She said she had not read any newspapers, because there was none to be had in the institution.

The witness said the doctor had not visited her for seven days while she fed on bread and water, and complained: "I have been here since July 8, and there is no encouragement here for any girl to make good or to try to reform. You can't talk, you can't read, you can't do anything. If you do the least little thing out of the way the matron will say, 'Bread and water.' Those are the first words out of her mouth."

Asked if she would try to be good if put in a cottage, she announced: "Yes, Sir. I certainly would. I would not only try, but I would be good if they would only give me a show."

In response to questions the Rice girl said she had been transferred from the House of the Good Shepherd in Brooklyn where she admitted joining in a rebellion "because the food wasn't decent."

Marie Davis, another present inmate, testified she had been forced to sleep on the floor three nights and that the mice ran over had in the darkness. Her offense, she admitted, was throwing a pail of dirty water over Miss Minogue. She said Quinn struck her with a handcuff and that she still bore the mark of the blow.

Minnie Ledder, a drug addict and a former inmate, who gave a Brooklyn address, introduced a new variation in the alleged cruelties when she testified that while she was strung up to a gate for three days and three nights at a time she had been gagged with strips of cloth wound round her mouth and tied in back of her head. She told of a rough and tumble fight with three matrons and said when it was over the three went out and "left five or six of us hanging to the gate." The witness said she had been cured of the drug habit. Quinn denied some of her testimony.

The Silence System.

Stella Kramer of Brooklyn, who served three years in the institution, was called by Humphrey J. Lynch, a lawyer who is representing several Westchester County taxpayers and Ruth Carter, whose trial on a charge of assaulting a guard precipitated the inquiry. She testified that the silence system, abolished in other State institutions, still was in vogue at Bedford when she was discharged, and that as a result most punishment cases arose from girls communicating with each other by notes.

She told of being fed bread and water morning and evening for twenty days, with a piece of meat "about an inch square and a thin slice of bread" in the middle of the day.

"On Feb. 25, 1917, I was taken to the prison section for passing notes. There I was laid on the floor while my hands were handcuffed together behind my back, and then a second pair of handcuffs was fastened to the first one and attached to the grating of the cell. The bed was put in an upright position and my feet were handcuffed to it. I was afraid that the bed would fall over on me," she said. "I was half sitting and half standing. Then Miss Minogue and Miss Cross took a big piece of dirty soap and rubbed it on my teeth and then pushed it in my mouth."

Letters were read from Mrs. V. Everit Macy and Miss Katherine C. Marquand, former Directors of the institution, denying they had resigned because of cruelty in its administration, and explaining that the officials were put in a most difficult position because they were charged with the care of the inmates who should not have been sent to the reformatory.

TEACHERS ASK INQUIRY.

Council Wants Union Here Investigated—Union Also Meets.

The Teachers' Council, at its meeting in the Board of Education Hall yesterday, adopted resolutions advising the American Federation of Teachers to investigate Local No. 5, the Teachers' Union, and to make a report on it. Jesse E. Whitsit, a high school teacher, who sits in the council as a representative of the Teachers' Union, opposed the adoption of the resolutions.

Aaron I. Dotey of the De Witt Clinton High School, said that Benjamin Glassberg, a teacher in the Commercial High School, Brooklyn, recently dismissed from the service because of his advocacy of Bolshevism and for other reasons, was a member of the Teachers' Union, which had employed its lawyer to defend him. The Teachers' Union, he said, had denounced every one connected with Glassberg's trial. He declared it was time to "smoke out" the American Federation of Teachers, and to discover if it was in favor of the actions of the Teachers' Union.

The Associated Teachers' Union, recently affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, was last night formally received as a member of the Central Federated Union, which held its regular weekly meeting at the Labor Temple on East Eighty-fourth Street. The delegates present from this union were J. Defrem, President, and D. S. Baird.

At the business meeting of the Teachers' Union of New York City last night it was voted to indorse a resolution demanding that the Government free all political prisoners kept under restraint by reason of their religious, political or ethical beliefs.

SAVES GIRL FROM SUICIDE.

Sanitarium Patient Prevented from Leaping Off Brooklyn Bridge.

Grace Johnson, about 25 years of age, well dressed and a patient at the Bedford Sanitarium at 430 Gates Avenue, Brooklyn, tried to commit suicide late yesterday afternoon by jumping off the Brooklyn Bridge from the roadway near the Brooklyn anchorage. She would have succeeded if John Reily, an electrician on the bridge, living at 224 Franklin Avenue, Brooklyn, had not prevented her from doing so by pulling her off the railing to which she had climbed with the intention of leaping over. The woman struggled and pleaded with Reily to let her go, saying she wanted to die.

She was taken to the Bridge A Station House, where she said she wanted to die because she could not live down her past. The Lieutenant summoned an ambulance from the Brooklyn Hospital and Dr. Gibbs, who answered the call, said the young woman was suffering from mental trouble. It was learned she was sent from Pittsburgh, where she lived with her mother and several sisters, her father being dead. The girl was taken back to the sanitarium, where she has been a patient for six weeks.

M'NARY SUGAR BILL PASSES THE SENATE

MOLLIFY LOUISIANA FOES

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The Senate, without a record vote, today passed the McNary bill, continuing through 1920 the Government control of the price and distribution of sugar by extending the life of the Sugar Equalization Board.

The measure, its sponsors declare, will go far toward relieving the existing sugar shortage, preventing a recurrence of it next year, and, above all, will keep the price to consumers within reason.

Efforts will be made to have it rushed through the House next week under a special rule, so that it may be sent to President Wilson before the board's life expires, by limitation, on Dec. 31.

The stubborn fight against the bill by the two Louisiana Senators, Ransdell and Gay, ended today when a compromise was reached whereby Government restrictions on the distribution of Louisiana sugar were removed through the adoption of an amendment proposed by Senator McKellar, Tennessee. This amendment abolishes for a year the zone system of distribution put into effect by the Equalization Board, which the Louisiana Senators declared was unjust to their constituents who produce sugar.

Pomerene Blames President.

When Senator McNary, Oregon, author of the bill, moved today that the Senate take it up, his motion was unopposed. Senator Pomerene of Ohio opened the debate by asking Senator McNary concerning the recommendation submitted to President Wilson last Summer by the Equalization Board and Herbert Hoover, for the immediate purchase of the Cuban sugar crop.

Senator McNary said such a recommendation had been made in August.

"And Dr. Taussig advised the President that purchase of Cuban sugar was not necessary?" queried Senator Pomerene.

"Yes," said Senator McNary.

"Can you tell us how the price of sugar last August compares with what we will have to pay now for the remainder of the Cuban crop which is available?" continued Senator Pomerene.

"I haven't exact figures, of course," responded Senator McNary, "but last year Cuban sugar was sold for 5½ cents a pound. In August and September, I am told, it could have been bought for 6½ cents; five weeks ago, I was told, it sold for 10½ cents, and I have since been informed, though I do not vouch for it, that some speculators who went into the Cuban market paid 13½ cents."

"So that the net result of the delay in purchasing the Cuban crop for American consumers has been an increase of 4 cents a pound, or more, to the American consumer," Senator Pomerene observed. "I want to say for the benefit of the Senate that this is an evidence of the fact that by adhering to the advice of a professional economist their sugar is going to cost the American people 4 cents or more per pound in excess of what they would have paid if his advice had not been followed."

Senator Walsh, Montana, expressed surprise that Senator Pomerene should so harshly criticise Dr. Taussig, who is a member of the Tariff Commission.

Overman Attacks Sugar Board.

The Sugar Board is incompetent, and because of this most of the recent trouble has arisen, Senator Overman, North Carolina, declared. He assailed the zone system of distribution, under which, he said, sugar is sold to consumers in one part of the country at a price much lower than is paid in another zone.

Senator Gay, Louisiana, read into the record a long statement opposing the bill on the ground that it is unjust to single out sugar for continued Governmental control while exempting many other commodities, in the sale of which, he said, the profiteering has been as evil and as widespread as in sugar.

Senator Harrison, Mississippi, said of the McNary measure:

"This bill does not go far enough, in my judgment. I hope the House will amend it so as to guarantee to the people an adequate sugar supply at a reasonable price.

"I want to emphasize to you that President Wilson is not responsible for the failure to buy the Cuban crop. The Sugar Board advised him last Summer that it might be a good thing to buy the sugar, but Professor Taussig, as is well known, held a contrary view. No action was taken, but the President had the matter before him from that time until he was suddenly taken ill.

"The sugar question came before Congress on Oct. 3 and has been before the Senate ever since, and Congress has failed to do anything. Congress therefore cannot excuse itself.

"I have no sympathy with the Louisiana sugar men, who say they must have 17 cents a pound for their product. I sincerely hope that the Department of Justice will place in jail the sugar profiteers in my State who have been charging consumers as high as 27 cents a pound."

Tinkham Calls for Data.

The House tomorrow will take up the reported shortage of sugar and probably pass Representative Tinkham's resolution, reported today by the Judiciary Committee, inquiring into the authority exercised by Attorney General Palmer in fixing the maximum price of Louisiana sugar at 17 cents.

Mr. Tinkham's resolution is as follows:

Resolved, That the Attorney General is hereby directed to report to the House of Representatives forthwith—

1. Whether he made, assented to, or approved in any way of a price for Louisiana sugar on the plantation of 17 cents per pound for yellow clarified and 18 cents per pound for plantation granulated.

2. Upon what authority of law he has fixed or agreed that the price of Louisiana sugar on the plantation should be 17 cents per pound for yellow clarified and 18 cents per pound for plantation granulated.

3. Whether it has been usual for the office of the Attorney General in advance of legal action to render an official opinion in relation to the United States criminal statutes and notify possible violators of his interpretation of them; and whether he notified Louisiana sugar producers that under laws against profiteering they would not be prosecuted if they sold clarified sugar at 17 cents per pound and plantation granulated at 18 cents per pound.

4. The facts upon which he fixed or agreed upon the maximum price of 17 cents per pound for yellow clarified and 18 cents per pound for plantation granulated, and how these facts were obtained.

OPEN FIGHT ON EDWARDS.

Drys Move to Contest His Victory—He Calls Step "Absurd."

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 12.—Proceedings to require Governor-elect Edward I. Edwards to show by what right he is entitled to become Governor of New Jersey were filed with Attorney General McCran today by G. Rowland Munroe, attorney for the New Jersey Anti-Saloon League. It is alleged that Edwards spent more than $25,000 for his election in violation of the Corrupt Practices act. Munroe also claims the election of the twelve "wet" Democratic Assemblymen from Essex County is void because of the alleged violation of the Corrupt Practices act.

Attorney General McCran has not yet indicated what action he will take in the matter.

When the attention of Governor-elect Edward I. Edwards was called to Mr. Munroe's demand he issued this statement:

"The whole matter is absurd. The campaign which resulted in my election was conducted strictly in accordance with the law. Everything required by the law to be done was in fact done. Every statute regulating elections was rigidly complied with. The fact of this last-hour attack upon my election is indicative of the feeling of that association that something, no matter how desperate, must be done to overcome their repudiation by the people of this State. I cannot imagine that this latest move will win any new friends or sympathizers for their cause."

Prominent attorneys in this part of the State tonight, in the absence of the Attorney General, stated that it is too late to "make any attempt to upset the election of Edward I. Edwards as Governor." Under the Corrupt Practices act, action must be brought within thirty days after the election, according to their statements.

to June 1, next year, by President Wilson, was received variously in financial and railroad circles. That there is every possibility for the President to extend the period of Federal control to June 1, and even longer, was asserted on the strength of the law which allowed for the taking over of the properties. This states plainly that they may be returned to private operation not later than twenty-one months after the declaration of peace.

At the same time those who drew attention to the law were not inclined to believe that the roads would be retained by the Government for the full length of time indicated therein.

In recent weeks, when it became evident that little could be hoped for from the upper and lower Houses which would allow for a safe return of the railroads to their owners, representations, it is said, were made to the Railroad Administration for an extension of the period of Federal control, by a number of corporate managers of individual properties. This, it is also believed, was passed on to the President, although there is nothing to verify this except the attitude of Congress regarding the return date.

Among local corporate managers of railroads there is a difference of opinion on the most acceptable return date. Some favor March 1, 1920, and this seems to be the most popular date. But there are others who believe that June 1, 1920, would be better. Those who favor the March 1 date do so because they believe that Congress can and will adopt legislation adequately to take care of the railroad situation by the end of January. This would allow President Wilson to announce March 1 as the return date, and would give corporate managers a safe margin of time in which to prepare for a resumption of control over their lines.

On the other hand, there are a number of corporate organizations which have prepared themselves to meet any emergency. New officers have been elected who are familiarizing themselves with the properties and mapping out their campaigns on the theory that the carriers will return to private operation on January 1, 1920. Many of the financially strong roads have done this, and will be well prepared on that date to resume control. At the same time, the heads of these companies admit freely that should the properties be returned without some measure of protection against a return of the multiplicity of State rates obtaining before the close of 1917, it would only be a question of time before the transportation tangle would become more hopelessly mixed up than ever. It is also considered as vital to the future of the corporations that the rates established during Federal control continue after the roads are returned, if they are not increased.

Steamer Reported Missing Is 150 Miles Off Sydney, N. S.—Fire Drives Mercian to Port.

HALIFAX, N. S., Dec. 12.—Fourteen vessels, wrecked, missing or making port in a crippled condition, were recorded by the marine authorities today as victims of storms which swept the North Atlantic coast during the last two days. A seventy-five mile gale from the Gulf of St. Lawrence was still raging over Newfoundland and train service there was blocked by drifting snow.

The British steamer Carmania, with many American passengers on board, which collided with the steamer Maryland about five hundred miles off this port Wednesday, is held up outside the harbor here by thick weather and will enter port tomorrow morning, according to available information tonight.

The steamer Pro Patria, reported missing last night on a trip from St. Pierre, Miq., for Sydney, N. S., advised by wireless today that she was 150 miles southeast of Sydney, making one knot an hour. She has only twelve hours' coal supply on board and has asked for assistance.

Four United States Shipping Board tugs, bound from Quebec to Boston by way of this port, which became separated in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, are believed to be safe in some of the small harbors on the east coast of Prince Edward Island.

The Canadian steamer Signor was hurrying to the assistance of the British freighter Hormsee, a former German vessel, which was in distress east of Canso.

Fire, discovered aboard the Leyland Line freighter Mercian, when about thirty-five miles off Cape Race yesterday, caused her to put in at St. John's, N. F., today. She had no passengers.

The steamer Chetopa lost two propeller blades about 250 miles southeast of Halifax, and was reported unmanageable and in need of assistance. Late messages from the American steamer Lake Dalewood, driven ashore on Port Hood Island in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, indicated that she would be a total loss. The crew were rescued by means of a breeches buoy. Another American steamer, the Lake Elmwood, which went ashore on Cape Blue, while en route from Quebec to Halifax, rested on sand and was in no immediate danger.

The United States Shipping Board tug Bison, which was believed to have been lost in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, has arrived safely at Port Hastings, Nova Scotia, according to private advices received here tonight.

The Bison, commanded by Captain Dixon, had become separated from four other tugs which left Quebec with her several days ago. She had not been heard from for three days.

The United States Shipping Board steamer Davidson County, which had been taken in tow in a disabled condition by the steamer Westologue, is again adrift and helpless in a heavy sea. The Westologue sprang a leak and is racing for the nearest port. The United States Coast Guard steamer Apache is rushing to the assistance of the Davidson County.

The British steamer Sheba, 2,000 tons, reported by wireless tonight that she was in distress, 330 miles east of Halifax. No details were given.

The steamer E. D. Kingsley, bound from Montreal to Halifax in ballast, went ashore today at the entrance to Whitehead Harbor. The Captain reported that the ship was in no immediate danger.

16 Saved of Liberty Glo Crew.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Sixteen members of the crew of the American steamer Liberty Glo, reported missing since the vessel was wrecked off Terschelling Holland, have been saved, according to word received here. The others who had been unaccounted for have perished. According to a message received by The Associated Press from the Captain of the Liberty Glo, the second officer, second engineer, and eight sailors have been landed at Emden, Germany, and six others of the crew, with the bodies of the victims, have landed at Juist Island, off the coast of Germany.

BOY IN BLACKMAIL CASE.

John K. Richardson, a 19-year-old boy, was arraigned before United States Commissioner McGoldrick in Brooklyn yesterday and held on a charge of having used the mails in an attempt to blackmail a relative. He lives with his parents at 665 Sumner Avenue, Newark.

It is charged that Richardson wrote to his prospective victim that he was in possession of newspaper accounts and court records regarding a crime which his relative was alleged to have committed twenty years ago. Instead of being frightened, the relative notified the Post Office authorities and inspectors were put on the case. The victim was instructed in a letter to send fifty one-hundred-dollar bills by mail to a cigar store in Nostrand Avenue.

A package was sent to that address, but was never claimed. It was finally sent to the Dead Letter Office. Richardson called at the office yesterday to claim the letter and was arrested. He told of a mysterious stranger who forced him to write the letters.

Are "convenient terms" worth $100.00 to you?

Pay cash and save the hundred!

Here is a "Ru-stella" selling for $184.00 (cash!) which compares favorably with other phonographs selling on the so-called "convenient payment plan" for $275.00 to $300.00. And the so-called "convenient plan" entails many inconveniences, even more undesirable than the difference in price! Alluring "easy payment terms" build up worries for the future. Far better to pay cash and have done with it!

Model A

Cash!

It is finished in mahogany only and stands 51½ inches high; all metal parts are heavily gold plated. The price includes 12 record albums.

CAPPER ADVOCATES LIMITING PROFITS

ASSAILS GREEDY BUSINESS

Senator Says It Is a Greater Menace Than the Bolsheviki or the I. W. W.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. — Senator Capper of Kansas, in a speech to the Senate today, denounced profiteers and profiteering in the strongest terms and urged as an emergency measure to combat the evil that profits be limited by the Government, as is done in Canada.

"The profiteers of big business—and this includes a lot of coal operators—are as great or a greater menace to us and our institutions than the Bolsheviki, the I. W. W.'s and the radicals who are preaching the overthrow of Government," said Senator Capper, "and let me say I will go the limit in supporting every measure which will stamp out Bolshevism and anarchy.

"Unless we speedily check price-gouging the high cost of profits is soon to be translated into the excessive cost of existence. We are beginning to hear about $18 shoes, $80 hand-me-downs, and $15 hats for next Spring, notwithstanding the people have bought and paid for all the cotton and woolen mills in a single year as during the war they bought and paid for all the shoe factories, all the big flour mills, all the steel mills, all the saw mills, the packing houses, the tanneries, the coal mines, and who knows what else, and yet do not own them and are at their mercy.

"I do not concede that as yet labor troubles and slack production are responsible, except in part, for the more and more excessive toll exacted of the consumer.

"While the people made sacrifices and fought during the war, and are still fighting and sacrificing, these industries have paid no part in the cost of the national defense, nor have they contributed anything to help the country except at war prices and for tremendous profits. And now they are collecting their war taxes from the people and exacting excessive toll besides by 'soaking' them for all they can get for their products.

"If sugar is released from Federal control Dec. 31, we may certainly expect to see that necessity soar.

"Nine months ago a dollar would buy five pounds of coffee. Today it will buy only two pounds.

"A nickel sack of tobacco now costs ten cents. In it the smoker finds a little card which reads: 'Special notice: This package should be sold for five cents. Your dealer makes a fair margin of profit at this price.'

"Lumber sells at from $70 to $102 per thousand feet. I have it from a lumberman who has spent his life in the business that this is at least 30 per cent. beyond all reasonable profit.

"And so it goes. And will continue to go until we beggar the people, lower consumption, and kill demand, unless we find and apply the means to check the game of grab which is at the bottom of most of our present troubles. Men working for wages may be expected to keep asking for more money. They must if a family of five is to be shod with $18 shoes all around and supplied with other wearables and with eatables at constantly increasing prices.

"I am inclined to think that as an emergency measure it might be well to give the Federal Government power to limit gross profits, as Canada has been doing so successfully, requiring every dealer or manufacturer, from the time the raw material leaves the hands of the producer until the product reaches the consumer, to mark the cost price to him on all his goods; also his own selling price, and be prepared to show invoices. This will make it possible quickly to spot the man who is doing the profiteering."

YALE PAYS $500,000 MORE.

Deficit Caused by Bigger Payroll to be Made Up Without a Drive.

Yale University will face a deficit of $475,544.38 for the year 1919-1920, according to an analysis of the budget of the university for the current year made by Harry J. Fisher, Chairman of the Yale Alumni University Fund Association.

At a recent meeting of the association, at which Otto Bannard, Professor Irving Fisher, Treasurer George Parmlee Day, and the Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes, Secretary of the university, spoke, it was announced that in spite of this deficit and the increasing demands on the income of the university there would be no special drive for funds conducted similar to those now under way for other colleges and universities throughout the country. In making this announcement the Chairman said that the Alumni Fund Association had managed in the past to aid the university in its fiscal problems and that the present deficit would be met in the same way.

Treasurer Day gave a brief résumé of the budget and said that the increase in payroll items alone amounts to $495,783.63 out of a total of $607,300 increased expenses. Special funds, increased income, and $15,000 from the income of the Charles W. Harkness Fund for increasing teachers' salaries have reduced the amount to be secured to $475,544.38.

"Endowed institutions," he said, "invest their funds in bonds as a rule. It is not thought conservative to invest such funds in stocks, yet in a time of worldwide inflation the value of the bond fluctuates as the purchasing power of the dollar goes up or down. Hence today, with the value of the dollar one-half what it was in 1914, the value of the bond measured in the purchasing power of the income derived has depreciated accordingly. Yale, therefore, with an endowment of $25,000,000, is deprived through this inflation of $12,000,000."

A table was shown demonstrating that the salary of the Yale instructor and professor had decreased in actual buying power almost 40 per cent. in ten years.

METHODISTS SEE EBERT.

President Commends Their Work of Reconstruction in Germany.

BERLIN, Dec. 11 (Associated Press). —President Ebert today received the members of the Methodist Commission on War Emergency and Reconstruction in Europe, who are traveling through Central Europe to extend the Church's already important charity work.

The commission, which consists of Bishops William Burt of Buffalo, N. Y.; William Shepard of Wichita, Kan.; John L. Nuelson of Zurich, Switzerland; Superintendent Richardson, Dr. Bucher of Cincinnati, and Haven Hanford Crawford, told President Ebert their impressions of the severely tried European countries, especially Germany. The President was informed what the Methodist Church had already done for charitable purposes in Germany and of what was planned in the way of the erection of permanent children's homes.

President Ebert expressed his deep gratitude to the mission for the work of the Methodists through the German Red Cross in sending packages which had helped the needy of all sections of Germany. At the same time, he declared, the visit of American religious leaders was an evidence of the reawakening of good-will between formerly enemy countries.

MAYOR THOMPSON DUBIOUS ON LOWDEN

Opposes Entangling Alliances—Poindexter's Own State Claimed for Him.

While in these days of Presidential booms, Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois is generally referred to as the favorite son of his home State, Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago said last night that it was not at all certain that Governor Lowden would have an undivided delegation.

Mayor Thompson, whose Americanism did not go unassailed during the war, said "he wanted to be shown" that Governor Lowden was a 100 per cent. American before he would give him his support, and that lots of other Republicans in Illinois "wanted to be shown," too.

Mayor Thompson, with seventy-five Republicans from Chicago, who went to Washington to press the claim of Chicago for the National Convention, was in this city on his way home. Practically the entire seventh floor at the Hotel Pennsylvania had been set aside for the men from Illinois, Mayor Thompson occupying the State suite, where he kept open house and did the honors in person to all comers.

"The fact that the Convention is to be held in Chicago should give Governor Lowden a decided advantage," was suggested to Mayor Thompson.

"Perhaps so," said the Mayor.

"The Governor, of course, will have the Illinois delegation to back his boom?" was asked.

"We have not seen his platform yet and some say he does not intend to come out and declare himself," said the Mayor. "It is serious business we are going to undertake next June and how can we pledge ourselves to any man before we know where he stands."

"But you should know him well—he has been your Governor since 1917," Mayor Thompson was told.

"We know what he has stood for as Governor, but the time has come when he should declare himself on national issues, and some of his friends are saying that he has no intention of doing so before nominations are made in the National Convention," said Mayor Thompson. "That is hardly satisfactory, and under the circumstances I am sure that many Illinois Republicans will feel that they should not give him their support, and I am one of them."

Mayor Thompson said he had been attacked from within his party when he was a candidate for renomination and re-election, but Governor Lowden had remained neutral, so that he had no quarrel with him on that ground.

"But we all want to know, and we have a right to know, whether he is for America first or whether, like so many other statesmen, he is willing to subordinate the interests of his own country to the interests of three or four countries across the water," said the Mayor. "We want to know whether he will abide by the policy laid down by Washington and pursued by every other President since Washington's time, which provides for friendly relations with all foreign Powers and entangling alliances with none."

Mayor Thompson added that a clear-cut declaration on the subject of compulsory military service was also wanted.

Another arrival from Washington was Samuel A. Perkins, Republican National Committeeman from Washington. Mr. Perkins was the right hand man of Mark Hanna in the 1896 national campaign and was in charge of Republican headquarters in this city. This year he is backing Senator Miles Poindexter of Washington with whom he has established friendly relations after a bitter fight that began in 1912 the year of the Progressive schism. Mr. Perkins said that not since the days of Mark Hanna has there been such harmony and such a hopeful feeling that the party was headed for victory as prevailed at the meeting of the Republican National Committee this week.

ANDRADE DENIES MARRIAGE.

Report of His Wedding to Actress Causes an Investigation.

Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., and Cipriano Andrade, 3d, the latter a grandson of a former President of Venezuela, are taking steps to find out the identity of a man who telephoned newspaper offices late Thursday night a report that Mr. Andrade and Miss Amy Bertholdt, an actress, had been married at the Ritz-Carlton, with Mr. Vanderbilt and Peggy Hopkins, an actress, as best man and bridesmaid.

The perpetrator of the hoax, as it turned out to be, said that prominent society persons had attended the wedding, and named Lady Herbert, who is Mr. Vanderbilt's aunt; Alan Harriman, Adrian Iselin, Thomas F. Ryan, Jr., Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, and William Cowles as among those present. Only one newspaper printed the account.

Clarence W. Gormly of 61 Broadway, attorney for Mr. Vanderbilt, Jr., issued the following statement:

"On behalf of Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., of 640 Fifth Avenue, I wish to deny that he is the Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., mentioned in the newspapers today as best man at the reported wedding of Miss Amy Bertholdt and Cipriano Andrade, 3d. Mr. Vanderbilt was not present at any such ceremony as reported, either at the Ritz or elsewhere."

Mr. Vanderbilt supplemented the statement by declaring that he had worked until midnight at The Herald office, where he is employed as reporter.

Mr. Andrade, who lives at 31 West Forty-seventh Street, said the report was untrue and declared that if he could learn the identity of the person responsible for the hoax he would take steps to have him prosecuted. The management of the Ritz-Carlton also denied that any such wedding had taken place at the hotel. Neither Miss Hopkins nor Miss Bertholdt could be found. There was no record in the Marriage License Bureau of any license having been issued to Mr. Andrade and Miss Bertholdt.

The Asia Banking Corporation paid a Christmas bonus of 10 per cent. of salaries to its employes yesterday, including those in the eight branches in the Far East.

Episcopal Church to Combat Reds.

Bishop Burch announced yesterday the selection of the Rev. Charles K. Gilbert of Scarsdale, N. Y., as Executive Secretary of the Social Service Commission of the diocese of New York. WILSON HAILS RULE BY PUBLIC OPINION

A fuller knowledge of American institutions is the cure for unrest in this country, declares President Wilson in a statement printed in the current issue of The Independent, as a foreword to a number of articles by men connected with the Government, including Attorney General Palmer and Herbert Hoover. The statement follows:

"Men today are blessed with a new curiosity about their Governments. Everywhere they are demanding that the doors behind which secret policies have been incubated be thrown open and kept open henceforth. The doors that do not respond to the keys the people hold will be battered down and free passageways erected in their stead.

"Autocratic Governments of the past have lived by concealment; free Governments must live by understanding. In the new day that is dawning only those Governments that have no secrets from their peoples can long endure. I do not say that such a Government will make no mistakes, but I do say mistakes will be fewer and more easily corrected when all Governments are guided by well-informed public opinion.

"Unrest is evident everywhere throughout the world. It is not of itself a disease, but a symptom of disease. In our own country the disease lies principally outside the Government. Those who think otherwise are mostly the newscomers and the men they have influenced. The cure for their disquiet is a fuller knowledge of American institutions. In this nation the people have in their ballots the instruments of peaceful change.

"We can know if change is desirable only by knowing all the facts about the thing we wish to alter. The journals that give the facts about Government, its policies and activities, set down by the men principally responsible for them, will perform a public service. They will afford a medium through which the Government can report continuously to the people."

O'MALLEY SUSPECTS DAY.

Thinks League Letter Was Instigated by Former Commissioner.

Edwin J. O'Malley, Commissioner of Markets, yesterday denounced the National Housewives' League as a "dead organization" existing only on paper. The remark was called out by a letter from the President of the league, Mrs. Julian Heath, to Mayor Hylan on Thursday, wherein she declared that the Department of Markets had never been the slightest benefit to the consumers of this city, and that, furthermore, by the excessive prices it placed on army food it had taken hundreds of thousands of dollars from the purses of families ill able to afford the expense.

Mr. O'Malley said he thought the letter was inspired by the Rev. Jonathan C. Day, former Commissioner of Markets, who was ousted by the Mayor.

"It is very evident that Dr. Day, having been unsuccessful in getting me into a mud-slinging contest with him, is trying to draw me into one with the lady," said Mr. O'Malley, referring to Mrs. Heath. "This National Housewives' League is a dead organization, existing only on paper. Dr. Day, when he was in office, opposed this organization, and never hesitated to state his views concerning it. I think as little of the league as he used to. When I first saw the letter it sounded to me like one of Dr. Day's."

Mayer C. Goldman of 7 Beekman Street, attorney for Dr. Day, denied that Dr. Day had anything to do whatever with the writing or sending of the letter.

TESTING DRINKS IN SALOONS

Analysis of drinks sampled in thirty saloons in Manhattan and twenty-five in Brooklyn have shown no traces of wood alcohol, Health Commissioner Copeland said last night. Inspectors of the Bureau of Food and Drugs, accompanied by chemists, have been making the tests on the saloon premises.

The department is examining formulas sold for those who wish to make liquor at home in order to determine whether they will produce beverages which contain a harmful amount of fusel oil.

Examination of "rainbow" sugar commonly used by candy manufacturers which found its way into the domestic trade during the sugar shortage, has shown, the department announces, that it contains no injurious ingredients, though there had been reports of babies having been poisoned by it.

LODGE APPROVES PLAN FOR PLATFORM

Thinks Special Advisory Committee Will Clarify Republican Issues.

SCHEME OBVIATES HASTE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. — Senator Lodge issued a statement tonight approving the appointment by the Republican National Committee of a special advisory committee to make suggestions for the Republican platform.

Mr. Lodge, who is being talked of as permanent chairman of the Republican National Convention in Chicago next June, sees in the naming of the special committee assurance of a much more intelligently worked out platform than it has previously been possible to obtain. In his statement, he said:

"I was very much interested in the plan of the National Committee to have a committee appointed consisting of twelve members of the National Committee and forty or fifty outsiders who represent different interests in the country—such as the farmers, labor, business, &c.—to consider different questions to be dealt with in the resolutions adopted at Chicago. I think that in this way much better results will be obtained.

"It so happens that I have been a member of seven National Conventions. I have presided over two of them, and I have served four times on the Committee on Resolutions, twice as Chairman of that committee. I, therefore, have some immediate and practical knowledge of the making of the declaration of principles in a National Convention. The Committee on Resolutions usually sits two days and two nights continuously. They work under great pressure. They are overwhelmed with all sorts of crude propositions, hastily prepared, and with constant pressure from local and special interests here and there. The result is apt to be, in many respects, apart from the very leading issues, a series of more or less confused compromises.

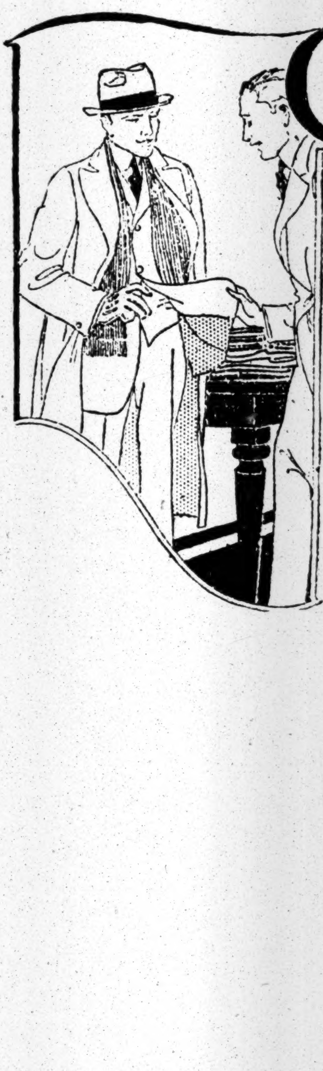
"I think the question of what is to go into a national platform ought to have longer and better consideration than this, and that all those who represent serious interests and who desire some declaration in the platform ought to have an opportunity to prepare it and bring it before the committee. Resolutions prepared in this way would represent care and thought and preparation by the people who have given long and especial consideration to the questions."

Women Defend Miss Hay.

In the absence of Miss Mary Garrett Hay, Chairman of the League of Women Voters, in Washington, Mrs. F. Louis Slade sent a circular letter to all the 1,400 leaders and election district captains of the league in this city warmly defending Miss Hay against attacks launched against her as a result of her refused to support Senator James W. Wadsworth for re-election.

To Unite Women Democrats.

Members of the Women's Democratic Club at the Hotel Commodore yesterday afternoon adopted a proposal for the formation of a national women's Democratic club, which will be circulated among organizations of Democratic women throughout the country. Mrs. Margaret Vail of 132 East Nineteenth Street introduced the proposal.



Call again!

With a big transient population like New York's it is no great feat for the ordinary run of clothiers to eke out an existence from "once-in-a-lifetime" customers.

But we take particular pride in the fact that the bulk of our big-and-growing-bigger ready-to-wear clothing business is composed of men who have "come back for more."

And they would not habitually buy their clothes here if rigid requirements were not met—for fabrics, for style, for tailoring and for price.

KHARKOV CAPTURED BY THE BOLSHEVIKI

KOLCHAK STILL RETREATS

Reds Continue Heavy Assaults in Vain Efforts to Break the Esthonian Defensive Line.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—The capture of Kharkov in Southern Russia, which has been one of the bases of General Denikin, is announced in a Moscow official dispatch received by wireless today. The occupation of Valki, about twenty miles southwest of Kharkov, also is claimed.

A Bolshevist message issued before the announcement of the capture of Kharkov recorded a general advance by the Red armies on all fronts and the occupation of Volchansk in the Kharkov region. It also told of the swift pursuit of the "hurriedly retreating" Kolchak troops in Siberia.

"The third year of the Soviet Government begins under very good omens," says the communication. "This year will be the last year of the bourgeoisie's rule on earth."

An official statement issued by the British War Office today says volunteers of General Denikin's army, eighty miles east of Kiev, have been driven out of Piratin in the Government of Poltava. The statement says the Denikin forces have fallen back to a defensive line along the Poltava-Kiev railway, but are defending themselves successfully in positions encircling Kiev on a twenty-mile radius.

Fierce guerilla warfare, with reprisals on both sides, is reported in Daghestan. The relations between General Denikin and the Georgian republic are again strained, but it is believed here that the difficulty will be settle dthrough the mediation of Great Britain.

Bolshevist attacks continue along the Esthonian front south of the Gulf of Finland and east of Narva, according to an official Esthonian statement issued Wednesday night. Bitter fighting has been going on along the Korostell-Feodorovka-Yamburg sector, but all attacks have been repulsed by the Esthonians, it is said. Claims are made in Moscow advices that a large number of prisoners have been captured by the Bolsheviki on this front.

Fighting in the South has, curiously, reverted to the type of the days of Waterloo. Cavalry has again come into its own and is proving its superiority to infantry. The major portion of the battles are being waged by well-trained mounted men.

Another queer type of warfare is being waged on the eastern front, where the infantry of both parties is supplied with sledges upon which the men ride into battle. Because of the severe weather little serious fighting is going on here, the main activity being artillery duels between armored trains. The Siberians have an enormous amount of artillery, about one gun to each one hundred men, which is out of all proportion. It has been found necessary to discard some of the pieces.

REVAL, Dec. 8.—It is reported here that General Estievar of the French Army has requested the Esthonian Government to permit the reconstruction of the army of General Yudenitch, and to allow the west Russian forces formerly commanded by General Avaloff-Bermondt to be mobilized in Esthonia for a fresh attack on Petrograd. Esthonia is said to have definitely refused to entertain such proposals.

IRKUTSK, Dec. 10 (Associated Press)—The retirement of the Siberian Army continues and the Bolsheviki are within fifty miles of Novo Nikolatvsk, the evacuation of which has been greatly hampered by a lack of fuel. Little fighting is reported, the Bolsheviki apparently being content to follow up the retreating Poles who replaced the Czechs on the western extremity of the railway.

An engineer named Tcherniakoff, who has just arrived from Omsk after having spent a week there, says the Bolsheviki shot all captive officers of the Siberian army who refused to join the Red army, and citizens who protested against night raids and other Bolshevist excesses. The prices of commodities, he adds, increased from 100 to 200 per cent. immediately after the Bolshevist occupation of Omsk.

DEADLOCK AT DORPAT.

Baltic States and Reds Unable to Agree on Frontier Lines.

DORPAT, Dec. 11.—It is officially announced that the delegates of the Baltic States in conference here have been unable to agree on the questions of establishing the frontier lines and guarantees to the Bolshevist demands, to which the Esthonians say they cannot reply until the frontier is settled.

M. Krassin, the Bolshevist Minister of Trade and Commerce, announced at the night session that he must consult his Government before answering the Esthonians on their final frontier proposition. He will proceed to Pskov tomorrow and return here Monday. Meantime the conference will continue to discuss other subjects.

Both sides are pessimistic as a result of the deadlock, and there is speculation whether the conference will break up shortly without an agreement having been reached.

The Bolshevist delegates continue to demand permission to talk with the journalists. M. Krassin threatens that if the Baltic delegates persist in holding them to silence he will employ the Moscow wireless to flash news of the conference to the world.

PETROGRAD FUEL CRISIS.

Supply of Wood for 20 Days Only—All Factories Closed.

HELSINGFORS, Nov. 23 (Russian Telegraphic Agency).—The official Bolshevist newspaper Izvestia reports that at a meeting of the Executive Committee the President of the Soviet of National Economy declared that the supply of wood in Petrograd would suffice for twenty days. All the factories are closed, and it is proposed to close the greater part of the theatres and moving picture houses, to cut down the electric supply and water works and to stop tramways. The workers of the wheeled transport service have been mobilized.

In Petrograd on Nov. 8 bread cost 300 rubles a pound; meat, 600 rubles; butter, 1,700 rubles; meal, 350 rubles; cheese, 1,300 rubles; carrots, 65 rubles, and beet roots, 70 rubles.

The Red Gazette of Nov. 13 quotes a proclamation of the Communist Party, which says that the fuel crisis threatens to destroy the work of the Soviets; that cold and hunger have caused workmen and employes to leave industrial centres, and that grain trains have come to a standstill. According to reliable reports, says the Gazette, no blast furnace in Soviet Russia has been operated since July.

Lithuanian Mission Coming.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Cable advices received today stated that members of a financial and commercial mission from Lithuania to this country, who sailed on the steamer La Fayette on Dec. 6, are due to arrive on Dec. 15. The mission is headed by M. Zadikes, former Lithuanian Minister of War, and M. Vileissis, and it is understood to be its purpose to seek to establish financial and commercial connections in the United States to assist reconstruction and industrial development in Lithuania.

Bomb Wounds Red General.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—A Bolshevist wireless communication from Moscow reports an attempt to assassinate General Baratoff. The General, says the dispatch, was wounded in both legs. The assassin threw a bomb into his motor car.

Baltic Parley with Reds Adjourned.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—A dispatch received here from Stockholm says that the conference between the Baltic States representatives and the Bolsheviki has been adjourned until the end of the month.

PRAGUE BARS HAPSBURGS.

Former Emperor Said to Have Asked Permission to Live There.

PARIS, Dec. 12.—Former Emperor Charles of Austria and Empress Zita are tired of remaining in Switzerland, according to a telegram from Prague, and have applied to the Czechoslovak Government for permission to reside in Prague. The request was refused, for political reasons.

One reason given for the request is that, owing to the low rate of exchange in Switzerland, the former royal couple are receiving only onet-enth of their income from Vienna. Empress Zita is reported to have been forced to sell more of her jewels here.

An American newspaper is understood to have offered the former Emperor $500,000 for his reminiscences, but, although financially embarrassed, he refused.

FRENCH PRICES RISE AS EXCHANGE DROPS

LAID TO PAPER CURRENCY

PARIS, Dec. 11.—Prices of all commodities in France are mounting steadily under the low rate of foreign exchange. Grocers are warning their customers that they would be wise to buy coffee, chocolate and all goods containing sugar because heavy increases over the present prices are coming "because of exchange." Other traders have joined the grocers in this admonition.

In fact, the rate of exchange has become the excuse for any sort of advance in prices, and this has brought the question of exchange to the attention of thousands who never before gave the subject any thought. The public is told by the press that exchange depends upon whether exports exceed imports. However, France's exports to Switzerland and Belgium are now exceeding her imports without improving the value of French francs in those countries, and the people, therefore, are being prepared to accept the explanation that the present crisis is not due to the commercial balance, but is a question of confidence, which will be restored only by the reduction of paper money in circulation.

The Cabinet, which met yesterday to consider the question of exchange, continued its discussion of the subject today. The draft of the new loan which will reduce paper currency is almost ready and will be laid on the table of the Chamber before the end of the month.

It is understood that Louis Loucheur, Minister of Reconstruction, at the Cabinet meeting advocated the principle of importing goods from Germany and other countries where France has favorable exchange as soon as the peace treaty is put into effect without further formalities except those arising from existing customs.

No More Dry Law Officers Needed.

William H. Edwards, Collector of Internal Revenue for the Second District, said yesterday that no more applications for appointment in the prohibition enforcement service can be considered from New York State as the number of applications now on file is so great that the full quota of appointments can be made with well qualified men immediately and it will be impossible for local officers to investigate additional applicants.

APPEALS TO US TO AID AUSTRIA

Dr. Renner Looks to America to Save the Country from Starvation.

ALLIES ARE SYMPATHETIC

PARIS, Dec. 12.—Dr. Renner, Chancellor of the Austrian Republic, asks that America give heed to tears and famine of Austria. Whether or not the United States Senate ratifies the German or Austrian treaty, he says, makes no difference, for his country's situation should be handled not only from the point of view of politics, but that of mercy as well. Declaring that Austria is starving today, he asks for food and points out that it is America that has the means to save her.

Dr. Renner and the mission of which he is the head reached Paris yesterday. He placed his case before the Reparations Commission yesterday afternoon and resumed his exposition this morning, after requesting that the American representatives here sit with the representatives of England, France, Italy, Belgium and Japan. He had his way. The Americans have no power to act, but may transmit their recommendations to Washington.

It may be stated that it is the opinion of the allied diplomats that the new Austria has played entirely fair and acted in good faith, and that they show a kindly disposition toward Dr. Renner's mission.

"Our condition is desperate," said Dr. Renner. "Think that we have in Vienna only several grams of bread to eat each day! There is no milk at all, as the result of which 85 per cent. of the children under three years are dying of hunger. Remember, also, that in this hard Winter we have only three kilograms [about six and one-half pounds] of coal each week per inhabitant, and you will understand that among adults also the mortality will be frightful. I tell you as a fact that practically every woman in childbed dies.

"I come here a very sad man. You must not let us die of hunger. And think of the danger for all Europe in a revolution in Austria! I know it is difficult to supply us with food. I know you can ask how we will pay when the crown is worth only 7 centimes. But I am convinced that the Allies will not let us die because of the question of exchange, for we have great natural resources, and somehow or other the matter must be arranged.

"The question is not only one of humanity and economics, but one of political importance as well. It is evident that little Austria is destined to disappear if the Austrian people cannot feed or warm themselves. I have promised the people of Austria to save them from cold and famine, and I am confident the Allies will aid me."

The press of Paris is unanimous in urging aid for Austria, whose downfall would aid Germany beyond any doubt. At the same time, while expressing the kindliest feeling for Austria, the editors point out that as far as the hard, cold facts go, neither France nor Italy can give the needed aid. It must come from America or England, or both.

The Journal says:

"Austria has enough to live on only until the 18th of January—if one can call living existence under the conditions which Chancellor Renner has described. After that there will be total famine if the Allies do not arrange to send to Vienna some 50,000 tons of cereals.

"There are two questions—transport and payment. The latter is more serious. One can find cars in a pinch; but, though she may have the best intentions in the world, Austria cannot find money. The crown, which is worth theoretically more than the franc, represents three sous at Belgrade and four sous at Geneva. When a nation has reached that condition there is nothing to do but arrange an agreement to mortgage the future to save her.

"The most elementary concepts of humanity impose upon us the duty of aiding her. No one can resist the misery of starving Austria. But neither Italy nor France has the means to make the financial and economic effort. Only the English and Americans can do it. In this case they should forget their egotistic preoccupation with their insularity and the benefits—greater in appearance than in reality—accruing to them from the present condition of affairs. For them also revolutionary danger is not an empty word. Let them reflect upon the deplorable outcome of the ruin of a European State. It is necessary to save Austria."

The Matin, in making its plea for Austria, says:

"All the deeds and words of the Austrian Government and the National Assembly in Vienna are considered by the Supreme Council as proofs of good faith and good intentions on the part of the new Austria. The National Assembly has modified certain laws affecting the independence of the country and has even changed the name of the State by eliminating the word 'German.' Also all high officials suspected of being pro-German have been removed from power."

The Excelsior says:

"Dr. Renner has placed in the hands of the Allies the fate of his country. She pays frightfully for the foolish policy which threw her into the German maw. Ruined, without resources, she suffers terribly. If we abandoned Austria she might in despair take steps which would compromise beyond repair the equilibrium of Europe, so laboriously constructed by the Allies, or else turn herself over to Bolshevism. Besides, there is need here for humanitarian work.

"But this task, charitable and political at the same time, cannot be accomplished by France alone. She has not the means. She ought to be aided by all the Allies, who would have here chance to prove their solidarity."

The Temps, which reflects French official opinion, says:

"This is no time to talk about what is past. The régime of Francis Joseph caused too many tears to fall and too much blood to flow in the world for us to recall it. We have no right to throw 7,000,000 Austrians into the inferno of hunger and cold on the pretext of the misdeeds of certain men who helped let loose the world conflict and who have nearly all now found refuge, whether in sweet death, like the old Emperor, or in comfortable exile like Count von Berchtold. To conquer we invoked justice; if we wish to conserve the fruits of victory we should not permit anyone to invoke justice against us. Each time a little child dies of hunger in Vienna our victory receives a setback."

After arguing that the only safe political course for the Allies will be to keep Austria on her feet the Temps says:

"Let us help Austria. Let us help her in the spirit of humanity. Let us help her in the spirit of good policy. Our interests will be safe only on the day when our conscience is in repose on this question."

Dr. Renner has been assured that his plea will be placed before the Supreme Council at its first meeting after Premier Clemenceau's return from London, which will probably be Monday.

AUSTRIA'S NEEDS AND ASSETS SHOWN

BIG OPENINGS FOR TRADE

VIENNA, Dec. 10.—Normally worth about 20 cents, the Austrian crown is quoted today at the rate of 580 to the pound sterling. This makes it really worth less than a halfpenny. Austrian finance is in a seemingly hopeless condition. The country is stripped bare of materials and of most other articles, and yet the Austrian Chancellor, Dr. Renner, and his official party are on their way to Paris in order to raise credit, and Vienna is confident of their ability to do so.

I have spoken in the last few days with business men, bankers and officials regarding the economic situation here, and the impression gathered is that Austria is a very promising subject for help, and that unless this impression is received and acted on by the Allies it will do no good to give charitable doles to starving Vienna, for that simply postpones the ultimate collapse.

Austria has resources, but these, under the terms of the Peace Treaty are all pledged to the Reparation Commission, and no private capitalist will advance money upon such secondary security. If the Allies, therefore, are to undertake the task of rebuilding Austria, they must be prepared to exempt from the provisions of the treaty certain assets on which Austria can borrow money.

Now, what are the resources and prospects of the new Austrian Republic? To begin with, Vienna is Austria, and a bit more. She has all those factories which made her such a prominent industrial city, and she has them intact and well equipped. She can still produce iron and steel work of all descriptions, and her machines and machine tools are famed throughout the world. She still has her clever workmen, and there are resources of iron ore in Styria sufficient to feed Austria's own furnaces and allow considerable exports to Czechoslovakia. Austria is capable, too, of a large output of textiles, while Viennese articles de luxe are still being made.

Her agriculture is insufficient to feed herself, but she has a considerable grazing industry in her Alpine lands. Her forests are of great value, too, while her resources in water power, which she wishes to develop in view of her loss of coal districts is very great, schemes have already been prepared for developing water power in the new Austria, but lack of capital has prevented these from being put in hand.

All these resources must necessarily lie idle while capital and raw materials are withheld. Several factories have been built lately, and many have full-capacity orders which cannot be executed owing to lack of raw materials. Lack of coal is the greatest trouble, as otherwise the iron industry could work full time, having its own supplies of ore; but everything else is urgently required. Raw cotton, wool and petroleum are among the materials in regard to which Austria is asking help. If these are supplied, her trade prospects are good. Her merkets lie at her doors. Some trade of an exchange nature can be effected with Czechoslovakia, and recent utterances of the Czechoslovakian Ministers show that they welcome the idea of a renewal of trade relations, but Austria's great markets are likely to be Hungary and Jugoslavia. These are almost entirely agricultural States.

Hungary's industry having been of artificial growth and ruined by the recent devastation, the repairs and restocking work to be done in Hungary are enormous, and Vienna will be enabled to take its full share in the process of rehabilitation in exchange for food supplies from her neighbor.

The Chancellor's journey to Paris is expected to bring favorable results to Austria. Hope is also expressed that American banks would contribute a share of the loan for which he asks in case the securities should be found sufficient.

Great importance is also attached to the Chancellor's projected visit to Prague to discuss terms for economic co-operation with Czechoslovakia, which it is believed could not fail to benefit both nations and create a bulwark against subversive influences—all the more if new economic relations should also develop political consequences.

No Agreement by American Banks.

Reports that American bankers have entered into an agreement whereby they are to supply large credits to Austria as soon as the Supreme Economic Council agrees to the transaction were generally denied in banking circles yesterday. It was explained, however, that it was quite possible that British and French bankers might be conducting negotiations with the Austrians looking to the extension of credits to the latter; and if this were done, it was said, there was a possibility that individual American banks and bankers might be invited to participate.

Arrangements of a similar nature had been started, it was said, by French bankers, who had agreed to grant credits to Czechoslovakian interests, and it is believed that one or two large American institutions will share in this business, which, however, is not expected to be large, so far as American banks are concerned. Nothing very definite could be learned yesterday as to what extent Americans were likely to be concerned in it.

VORWAERTS FLAYS KAISER.

Calls Him "Fool" and "Half-Wit" Indulging in "Clown's Business."

By GEORGE RENWICK.

BERLIN, Dec. 11.—"A Fool by the Grace of God" is the heading which Vorwärts places over its comments on the ex-Kaiser's marginal notes on Kautsky documents. It says:

"He who reads these marginal notes cannot for a moment remain in doubt that Germany before the war was ruled by a half-witted person. It is quite clear that under such a person Germany was bound to rush into war—and lose that war.

"Thus the history of the Hohenzollern ends in a fool's tragedy. It is a hideous comedy which is beyond the fantasy of a Shakespeare. It reached its final height in a telegram of the father to the son in which the Crown Prince was forbidden to make jingo utterances. It was the law of the monarchy that the All-Powerful alone was entitled to indulge in a clown's business."

MILNER REACHES CAIRO.

British Mission Arrives Without Population Being Aware of It.

CAIRO, Dec. 8.—Secrecy surrounded the arrival yesterday of the British mission headed by Viscount Milner, Secretary for the Colonies. The party was driven to a hotel before the population was aware of its presence. Detachments of troops were about the station in the rain, but they are such familiar sights in Cairo that the natives did not suspect the reason for their presence.

One newspaper, announcing the arrival of the mission, says:

"We will soon see whether the Egyptians have forgotten their ambitions, which have not been achieved, or whether they interpret the arrival of the mission as a crisis necessitating a final effort."

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Dispatches from Cairo say all is quiet there, but added that underlying the apparent tranquillity is burning resentment, which the arrival of the British mission will either fan or extinguish.

The advices indicate there are ample forces to quell any disturbances which might break out, but say the presence of these forces only makes the ultimate task harder.

DICTOGRAPH TO AID IN DANSEY INQUIRY

MORE ARRESTS EXPECTED

Defense to be an Alibi—Warrants Say Boy Lived Some Time After Assault.

MAYS LANDING, N. J., Dec. 12.—Charles S. White and his housekeeper, Mrs. Edith Jones, who are charged with the killing of Billy Dansey—White as the murderer and Mrs. Jones as accessory after the fact—were permitted today for the first time since their arrest to receive in the County Jail visits from relatives.

White's wife, father, and sister, and Mrs. Jones's sister, son and daughter were the visitors. One by one, they were admitted to talk with the prisoners, who were brought one at a time to a room in the back of the jail. The party was in the jail for more than three hours before the visits were completed.

The presence in the jail of a dictograph, admitted by an attaché of the jail, gave credence to reports that County Prosecutor Edmund C. Gaskill is depending upon confessions by the prisoners to complete the chain of evidence which he believes is sufficient to charge them with the crime. A member of the party which visited White today said the attitude of the county authorities in forbidding visits on Wednesday and Thursday and then finally granting permission for "after 3:30 Friday" had indicated such a step as the planting of the dictograph.

The dictograph was received at the jail early this week. The place where the interviews took place was a room that is frequently used to question witnesses. White was led there from his cell shortly after 3 o'clock and Mrs. Blanche White was the first visitor allowed to see him. She remained for an hour and a half.

White Silences Relatives.

White told all his visitors not to discuss the case. He reiterated his declarations of innocence and said that he wished the case brought to a speedy trial, so that he could have complete vindication. He did not discuss with them any information he may have received or opinions he may have formed as to the nature of the evidence which Prosecutor Gaskill and County Detectives Wilson and Nusbaum have gathered in their investigation of the mystery.

Mrs. Charles Wilson, White's sister; Mrs. E. A. Driesbach, Mrs. Jones's sister; Mrs. Robert Henry, her daughter; William H. Jones, her son, and Edward H. White, White's father, followed the prisoner's wife in succession to the witness room. After they had all talked with him Mrs. Jones was brought down and the visitors all saw her for a few minutes. They left shortly before 7 o'clock.

"I found Charlie in good spirits," Mrs. White told reporters as she was leaving the jail. "He told me not to worry at all about the charges that had been brought against him, and said that he would soon be cleared. He seemed in good health, but he was a little pale. He remembered that it was our seventh wedding anniversary, and he cried a little to think that he should be spending it in jail."

E. A. Burdick, a Hammonton policeman who investigated "Billy" Dansey's case for several days following his disappearance, accompanied White's relatives to the jail. He told reporters that he was certain that the authorities had planted a dictagraph.

"It won't do them any good, though," he added. "I don't believe that Charlie White had any more to do with this case than I have."

Neither the prosecutor nor his assistants nor the county detectives have questioned White since Monday night, when they brought him here from Hammonton in an automobile. The prosecutor left Atlantic City tonight with Detective Nusbaum. Their destination is a mystery. It is believed that they were on their way here.

Prosecutor Gaskill continued today his silence about the arrest of White and Mrs. Jones and the Dansey case in general, except to consent to make public the wording of the warrants on which they are held. These warrants disclose that the Prosecutor believes that "Billy" Dansey was not killed outright, but that after he was attacked he was carried to some place in the neighborhood, where he died later.

"Whereas, Charles S. White stands charged on information received from the subscriber, one of the justices of the peace of Atlantic County, by John P. Wilson, who says that on the 8th day of October, 1919, at the town of Hammonton, said Charles S. White did wilfully and with malice aforethought murder George William Dansey by feloniously assaulting said George William Dansey and giving him mortal wounds of which mortal wounds he languished and died."

Mrs. Jones, it is charged, "had knowledge of a certain crime and concealed that knowledge, thereby aiding and abetting in the said crime, and is therefore an accessory after the fact."

The warrants were made public by G. Arthur Bolte, the prisoner's lawyer, who received copies of them last night. Mr. Bolte has refused to discuss the case until the prosecutor reveals his evidence. It is known, however, that the defense will probably be an alibi.

Edward H. White, father of Charles S. White, did not know, until informed of the language of the committment, that his son was charged with willful murder.

"I went to the prosecutor's office the night Charlie was arrested, and Mr. Gaskill wanted me to go to the jail and get Charlie to tell the truth," he said. "I told him my son was telling the truth, and he replied I was not telling all I knew about the murder.

"We are prepared to establish a perfect alibi by accounting for all Charlie's movements on the day Billy Dansey disappeared and for some time thereafter," White concluded.

Hints of New Disclosures.

Sensational disclosures, equally as startling as the arrests of Charles S. White and Mrs. Edith L. Jones in connection with the death of the Dansey boy, were hinted at tonight when Prosecutor Gaskill admitted that certain persons in Hammonton, who had been deliberately endeavoring to throw the officials off the scent in their investigation of the manner in which the boy met his death, might be called before him on Monday next to explain their actions.

The reported peculiar movements of several citizens of Hammonton since the beginning of the investigation, and their insistence that certain clues be followed out, have been under investigation by the prosecutor recently. These clues, in every instance, according to a person close to the prosecutor, led in the wrong direction. The prosecutor feels that their action needs explanation and has about reached the conclusion to call them before him and interrogate them further.

The prosecutor tonight refused to intimate who these "certain citizens" were, but from another source it was learned they were persons who might be in a position to know more of the movements and actions of the man and the woman under arrest than they have so far admitted. It is probable that additional arrests may be made, but not just now.

Mrs. Dansey, Billy's mother, is close to a collapse, Detective Nusbaum said today. The recent turn the case has taken has affected her more than the disappearance of the child, the detective said. She has not left her home since Monday night, when she saw from her window White and Mrs. Jones being taken away in an automobile without understanding the reason for the incident.

Billy Dansey's body has been moved from the undertaking establishment at Hammonton where it has been since the Coroner's inquest. The undertaker said that the county officials had taken the body away. It is believed that they have tried to discover the place where it is supposed the body was hidden by an examination of the skeleton.

BARBER STRICKEN AT WORK.

Vincent Gese, who conducts a barber shop at 215 East 102d Street, was seized with an attack of vertigo yesterday as a result of which Herman Drescher of 420 East 102d Street, whom he was shaving, received a serious slash in the neck. Drescher rushed to a nearby drug store, where he collapsed. He was later removed to the Harlem Hospital. Gese, when he was revived, was placed under arrest and arraigned before Magistrate Frothingham in the Harlem Court on a short affidavit charging suspicion of felonious assault. He was held in $1,000 bail for a hearing on Monday.

ARREST SECRETARY ON FORGERY CHARGE

George Arents, Jr., a real estate dealer of 511 Fifth Avenue, obtained a warrant in the Yorkville Court yesterday for the arrest of James A. Gillespie, his private secretary, on the specific charge of forging a check for $15,000. Arents told Magistrate Sweetser that he believed the manipulations of his secretary would amount to about $136,000.

Arents said that Gillespie had worked for him eleven years and had also served as secretary to his father, George Arents, for several years. The specific charge against the secretary is that he forged the name of Mrs. Arents to a check, and deposited it in the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co. It is alleged that he drew against this account later. Gillespie pleaded not guilty and was held in $15,000 bail for hearing on Tuesday.

Inspector John J. Cray yesterday ordered the arrest of Emil Werle, who is charged with disappearing while he was under bail of $2,500 awaiting trial on burglary and assault charges in Kings County last April. By order of Inspector Cray, Werle also is being questioned about the robbery of the bank in Roselle, N. J., on Oct. 16 last, when seven men stole $31,000 in daylight after shooting a detective.

After reading the descriptions of the men who robbed the bank, Inspector Cray picked Werle's photograph out of the police records as that of one of the seven men. Sergeant George Keenan of the Roselle police, who was shot while he was pursuing the bank robbers, yesterday identified Werle in the lineup at Police Headquarters here. Werle was arrested at 103 Charles Street. He told the police that his name was Edward Kane. Werle has served four prison terms.

Two men were held for the Grand Jury in $5,000 bail each on charges of assault and robbery by Magistrate Levine in the West Side Court yesterday after a complaint had been made by George Tucker, who said he had served in Company I, 107th Infantry, and lived at the War Camp Community Hotel in West Twenty-seventh Street.

Tucker said that he was at the St. Nicholas Skating Rink on Friday night when a sailor, seeing his army uniform, came up to ask Tucker if he would not be willing to escort a girl to her home. According to Tucker, the sailor said he was due back at the Receiving Ship New York at Bay Ridge and could not take the girl home himself.

The soldier said that while he was walking in Fifty-seventh Street, near Twelfth Avenue, with the girl two men held him up and took $50, with his watch and ring. Tucker said it was the sailor who held him up, and asserted that the girl fled with the holdup men. He went to the West Sixty-eighth Street station, and the detectives there arrested Frederick E. Smith, a sailor, a soldier who said he was Corporal George Kelly of Camp Mills, and Jeanette Gaily of 429 Fourth Avenue. The soldier and sailor pleaded guilty to the charge, and told the Magistrate the girl knew nothing about their plans for the robbery. The girl said she came from Glens Falls, N. Y.

John McAllister, the convicted burglar who escaped from Sing Sing prison last June after leaving a "dummy" in his cell so that the keepers would not miss him for several hours, was held in $10,000 bail in the Morrisania Court yesterday on a charge of assault. He was arrested on Thursday night by Frederick J. Ryan, a detective from the Morrisania police station, who told the Magistrate that McAllister shot at him.

PARK BENJAMIN ADOPTS FORMER GOVERNESS

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Dec. 12.—Park Benjamin, 70 years old, wealthy lawyer and father-in-law of Enrico Caruso, famous tenor, came here Tuesday with Miss Anna M. Bolchi, whose age is given as "more than 21," a former governess of the present Mrs. Caruso, and left the following day legally as father and daughter. Judge John M. Garman of the Luserne Courts granted a decree in adoption early Wednesday.

Attorney W. Alfred Valentine of this city appeared with Benjamin and Miss Bolchi in court. He presented the affidavits and petitions and then cited several Supreme Court decisions to show that a decree in adoption may be granted to "temporary residents or sojourners." Soon as the jurisdiction of the court was established Judge Garman handed down the decree.

W. Alfred Valentine, an attorney here, said today that he was called into the case by Arthur L. Fullman, lawyer, of 302 Broadway, New York. He informed the New York attorney that the law was clear and that the decree could be obtained here. Last Monday he talked with Benjamin over the telephone, and the next day Benjamin and Miss Bolchi came to Wilkes-Barre.

C. T. BRAINARD HELD FOR ISSUE OF BOOK

Publisher Declares He Caused Withdrawal of Volume When He Returned from Europe.

Clinton T. Brainard, head of the publishing firm of Harper & Brothers and a member of the Extraordinary Grand Jury charged with the investigation of the traction situation and the conduct of affairs in some of the departments of the City Government, was held in $500 bail by Magistrate Simpson in the Washington Heights Police Court yesterday for trial in Special Sessions for alleged violation of Section 1141 of the Penal Code.

A complaint made by agents of the Society for the Suppression of Vice alleged that the publishing firm had violated the Penal Code section which forbids the circulation of questionable reading matter. It was alleged that an autobiography published by the firm had contained these violations.

Counsel for Mr. Brainard told Magistrate Simpson that the publisher had not approved the publication of the book, and that it had not even been brought to his attention, because he was in Europe when it was accepted for publication and when it was printed. Later he caused the withdrawal of the book, and offered to permit the society to send agents to destroy the plates.

Magistrate Simpson ruled that Mr. Brainard could be culpable because he was the President of the company and therefore responsible for the action of the committee of editors in printing the work. He is co-defendant with the publishing firm.

When John S. Sumner, counsel for the society, learned that Mr. Brainard had no knowledge of the publication of the book until a protest was made against it, he said he would consent to the dismissal of the charge. Magistrate Simpson said that, considering the attitude of the counsel for complainant, he had to choose between dismissing the charges or holding the defendants for Special Sessions. He held them because he had read the book and prepared an opinion in the case.

According to the complaint a woman agent of the society purchased a copy of the book from a saleswoman. The agent had filed an affidavit saying she had bought the book in October.

ADDS 6,000,000 TONS TO OUR FLEET IN 1919

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—By Jan. 1 the Construction Division of the United States Shipping Board will have delivered 6,000,000 tons of shipping within the year 1919. Figures made public today by Chairman John Barton Payne of the Shipping Board show that 5,818,500 deadweight tons had been delivered up to Dec. 1. At that date the deliveries within this year were:

	Tons.
Steel	4,472,000
Wood	1,298,000
Composite	42,000
Concrete	6,500
Total	5,818,500

The active construction program on Dec. 2 showed 2,314 vessels, of which 2,240 had keels laid, with a tonnage of 12,926,486 deadweight. There were 1,910 ships of that number launched, with a deadweight tonnage of 10,494,047, of which 1,674 vessels had actually been delivered to the Shipping Board, the deadweight tonnage delivered up to Dec. 2 being 9,189,236.

Coincident with this announcement, a memorandum from John R. Rosseter, Director of Operation, to Judge Payne, was given to the press. In this memorandum, besides outlining various passenger and mail routes, Mr. Rosseter recommended that the former German ships now held by this country should not be retained by the army as a nucleus for an enlarged transport service. He also urged that the German ships be converted into oil burners, following the changes now being made in the case of the Leviathan.

Mr. Rosseter favors the construction of high-class cargo liners rather than large passenger boats. He wishes to construct seventy cargo liners and ten small passenger craft. While he would use New York as the port for the three "capital ships," Leviathan, Agamemnon and Mount Vernon, and also for the service to the east coast of South America, Director Rosseter suggests that small ships in the Atlantic trade might operate out of Philadelphia, Boston or Baltimore, and small ships going to northern South America and the west coast of that country should use the Gulf ports as bases.

The Shipping Board this afternoon denied, in the following statement, suggestions that its fleets were not in the best of condition and were not, in all cases, composed of the proper type of vessel:

"Reports reaching the Shipping Board from outside sources indicate exaggeration as to the unfitness of some of the emergency type vessels.

"The majority of our ships are good and are performing excellent service. Class for class, they compare favorably with the ships of foreign nations. Those that were run in the war service were naturally driven beyond the requirements of ordinary commercial usage. We are now suffering the inevitable consequences in the shape of extra repairs. Within the last week the Pacific Coast needs for more ships for the Orient were called to our attention by a delegation. We are now caring for the cargo movement and expect to steadily increase our fleet there. The crying need for passenger vessels, which we realize, and which was again called to my attention by this delegation we regret we cannot fill until the Summer of next year, when the construction of our passenger ships is expected to be completed."

In his memorandum, Mr. Rosseter did not attempt to cover the entire field but outlined the more important routes to Europe, South America, Africa, and the Orient, and suggested how the board might best inaugurate these services with the ships now at its disposal, and the others which would be available during the next six to twelve months.

He supplied a table showing that the Government held twenty-nine ex-German ships, and would have twenty-six new ships, making a fleet of fifty-five vessels, with speeds running from eleven to twenty-one knots.

"Of our new ships," Mr. Rosseter says, "the so-called 535-foot class will not be available earlier than June-July next, when we may expect three, the balance extending over the next six or eight months, with deliveries probably at the rate of about two a month. Of the 502-foot class (13 K) first deliveries are expected about July, and then at the rate of about one a month over the last half of the year.

"All of the new ships are oil burners of large steaming radius, and it is proposed to convert all of the ex-German steamers from coal to oil fuel and provide sufficient oil burners to carry them from one American fuel station to another in the particular trade to which they may be allocated. Oil fuel avoids the need of the unhappy and troublesome Black Squad, and oil burners are in fact essential to economic operation.

"It seems needless to say that the allocations indicated are subject to change, according to the condition and position of the ships, and the vessels suggested are indicated only to illustrate how the fleet may best be placed according to speed and other conditions required in the different lines.

"It is impracticable, in my opinion, for the Government to undertake the construction of large first-class passenger ships, and this should be left to subsequent development by the companies interested. On the other hand, it is important that the board proceed promptly with the construction of high-class cargo liners, also a limited number of small passenger boats previously referred to.

"As to the cargo liners, I would confirm my previous recommendations that we construct:

20—12,500 tons d. w.	14-13 knots
20—10,000 tons d. w.	13-12 knots
10—11,000 tons d. w.	*13-11 knots

*Motor ships.

"As to the small passenger ships, I would suggest adding to the building program ten of about 5,000 tons cargo capacity, with accommodations for fifty first-class passengers, 100 steerage, and arrangements to take care of upward of 200 deck passengers in 'port-to-port' traffic."

GIVES LONDON PLANS TO HONOR MAYFLOWER

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Lord Weardale, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Anglo-American Society, writing to The London Times on the plans to celebrate next year the tercentenary of the sailing of the Mayflower, says:

"It is proposed in connection with the celebration to unveil in London a monument of Washington and of Lincoln, for the latter of which it is said a site has been provided at Westminster by the Government, and to welcome to our shores and hospitably to entertain important deputations of distinguished Americans representing the generous donors of those statues and many other eminent persons who see in these celebrations the opportunity for testifying to their desire to strengthen this friendship between our two nations. The program of the Anglo-American Society includes, in addition, the founding of a chair of American history in English universities and the establishment of traveling research fellowships in the United States; also a scheme to award prizes for proficiency in knowledge concerning America, which will be offered to students and scholars in the secondary and elementary English schools."

For these two objects it is estimated that a further sum of £40,000 will be required, and Lord Weardale appeals for subscriptions.

SMITH COMMITTEE ENDS MILK HEARINGS

Its Report Is Expected to Urge New Laws for the State Control of Prices.

TELLS OF TESTS MADE HERE

Miss Cauble Says Experiments with Reconstructed Product Were Very Satisfactory.

Governor Smith's Fair Price Milk Committee, of which Health Commissioner Copeland is Chairman, held its last public hearing at the City Hall yesterday afternoon and soon will formulate its plans and recommendations to Governor Smith. It is expected that the report will embrace recommendations for legislation at the next session of the Legislature that will include a State Commission for the control of milk prices. At least questions asked of witnesses by Commissioner Copeland and other members of the committee have indicated that they have had some such legislation in mind.

Commissioner Copeland remarked that he had not yet had any word from Speaker Sweet of the Assembly, or from the majority leader of the Senate, J. Harry Walters, whom he had requested to appear before the committee. The witnesses before the committee yesterday included Miss Laura Cauble, former Deputy Commissioner of Markets, and John J. Dillon, an ex-State Commissioner of Foods and Markets.

Miss Cauble told of the result of an experiment early this year with reconstituted milk, made of powdered milk, butter and water. This milk was used extensively for several months in supplying consumers in the vicinity of Sixty-second Street and Lexington Avenue, and it gave great satisfaction, she said. The milk was produced at a cost of a fraction less than 11 cents a quart. Miss Cauble said that Borden's Products Company sent one of its inspectors to her place and that subsequently the Borden Company reduced the price of loose milk in that section from 13 or 14 cents to 10 cents a quart, forcing her to sell the reconstituted milk, which was 3.5 butter fat, at the same price. This was right after the milk strike in January, she said, when Grade A milk was selling at 18 or 19 cents a quart.

The witness said she favored the reconstituted milk as a means of lowering the price of milk in this city, as the powdered milk, she explained, could be had from any part of the country. She said also that she had been informed that reconstituted milk was being manufactured and used in the hotels of the city and also that some of the milk concerns were handling reconstituted milk.

Mr. Dillon gave a review of milk production and distribution in this State for the last forty years and declared that the handling of milk had not been satisfactory to anybody, except, perhaps, the dealers, since the Federal Board took over the fixing of milk prices during the war. He said that he thought the distributors in this city were making from 2 to 6 cents a quart more profit than they should make and declared that the milk distributors had the support of the leaders at Albany, without regard to party, and that before the milk problem could be solved it would be necessary to break down this arrangement, and also to eliminate the political situation in New York City and certain other agencies, which he said were inclined to favor the distributors.

Commissioner Copeland said that his ultimate dream was to see the municipality engaged in the milk business, though he did not want to convey the idea that that would be the recommendation of the committee, and contended that there must be some legal way of establishing the basic price of milk that would guarantee to the producer cost, plus a fair profit, and at the same time give the consumer his milk at the lowest possible price.

DELAYS TRAIN TO SAVE BOY.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 12.—Chesapeake & Ohio passenger train No. 25 arrived in Louisville last night fifteen minutes late, but John Cavins, engineer, apparently soothed the anger of railroad officials with a report that he "stopped the train just outside of Frankfort, Ky., to save the life of a boy who had fell in an 'icy' pond."

Cavins said his train was going slowly around a sharp curve when he saw boys apparently failing to effect the rescue of a comrade from a mill pond.

"I stopped the train," he said, "cut the bell cord and hurried to the pond. The ice was too thin to bear me, so I threw the rope to the lad, who, though numbed and struggling to keep on top of the water, passed it around his body and I dragged him out. I took him to the railroad station and by artificial respiration resuscitated him."

WARNS LIQUOR MEN EXPORTS END JAN. 16

Roper Points Out That Law Requires All Shipments to be Out of Country by That Date.

NO RULING ON SHIPS' BARS

But It Is Expected That There Will Be No Interference if Law Is Observed While in Ports.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The Internal Revenue Board issued a warning today that any intoxicating goods intended for exportation from this country to Canada, Mexico, or elsewhere must be sent out of the country on or before Jan. 16, 1920. The warning took the form of the following announcement:

"Holders of distilled spirits, wines, beers, and other intoxicating liquors are reminded in a statement issued today by the Bureau of Internal Revenue that under Section 3 of the National Prohibition act such liquors intended for exportation for beverage purposes must have left the territorial jurisdiction of the United States on or before Jan. 16, the date when the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution becomes effective. Where the liquor is to be exported to a country contiguous to that of the United States, Canada, or Mexico, such liquors must be outside of the territory of the United States on Jan. 16. Where made from a seaport, exportation will be regarded as having been accomplished when the ship carrying liquor has left the port.

"The filing of the declaration for export, or the execution of a bond covering the tax on spirits in transit, or the fact that spirits are in transit in this country, or are in warehouses at the port of export, or are on board ship at the port of export on Jan. 16, will not be sufficient compliance, the bureau rules, with the statute prohibiting the exportation of intoxicating liquors on or after that date."

Whether passenger liners on the transatlantic or other routes may bring into and take out of American ports their own stocks of intoxicating refreshments to serve passengers outside the three-mile limit of the United States has not yet been determined by the Internal Revenue Bureau.

The probabilities are that the decision of the bureau will be that, so long as these liquors are not used inside of the three-mile territorial limit in violation of the national prohibition amendment and the law for its enforcement, the bringing of such liquor into port as part of the stock of the vessel's bar and table services will not be considered importation of the liquor, so long as the liquor is not removed from the vessel or served while the steamer is inside the three-mile limit. It is also probable that such stocks, when brought into American ports, will be permitted to go out of the port with the steamer without being regarded as "exportation" of liquor within the meaning of the national prohibition amendment.

As a matter of safety and precaution, however, the Internal Revenue Bureau may find it necessary and convenient to make certain definite regulations governing such liquor stocks while on board ship inside of American ports, making it clear that the bars must not be opened on board ship anywhere inside of the three-mile limit, that liquor is not spirited from the ship's bar to the shore for use in violation of the law, and that the liquor is merely brought in as part of the ship's stock to be used only when the vessel has left American jurisdiction.

If this is the ruling of the internal revenue officials, as it is now likely that it will be, transatlantic liners will be able to stock up their bars in foreign ports, so as to be able to serve passengers while in foreign ports or on the high seas.

OFFERED MONUMENT TO BURIED BATTALION

G. F. Rand, Killed in Paris-London Air Flight, Was a Buffalo Banker.

PARIS, Dec. 12.—The American colony here was shocked to learn today of the death of George F. Rand, the Buffalo banker, killed in an accident while in an airplane flight from Paris to London.

One of the last acts of Mr. Rand before leaving Paris was to call upon Premier Clemenceau with Ambassador Wallace and make an offer of 500,000 francs for a monument to commemorate the burial of a battalion of French soldiers who were overwhelmed in a trench at Verdun during the heroic defense of that fortress. The Premier was deeply touched by the offer and accepted it in the name of the French Army.

The trench in question, which the banker had visited last Friday, lies in the outer defenses of Verdun, between Thiaumont Farm and the village of Fleury. The men overwhelmed were the remnants of a battalion of the 136th Infantry, between eighty and ninety men. The explosion of a shell buried them in the trench as they were about to charge. They were found with their rifles, with bayonets attached, still sticking out of the earth.

Mr. Rand's only condition in the written offer to pay for the monument was that the site be secured by the French Government. Ambassador Wallace had offered to buy the site himself and negotiations were in progress to that end.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 12.—George F. Rand was chief executive and Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Marine Trust Company, until recently the Marine National Bank, one of the oldest and largest banking institutions in Western New York. He left here on Nov. 15 for England and France, and had intended to return by way of Southampton and New York on Dec. 16. It was his first trip abroad since 1914.

Mr. Rand began his career as a clerk in a bank in Tonawanda, N. Y., and at the age of 33 was made President of the Columbia National Bank of Buffalo. In 1913, when the Columbia National was merged with the Marine National Bank, Mr. Rand was made "chief executive and chairman," preferring this title to that of president. He was 58 years old.

In connection with his offer of 500,000 francs for a monument at Verdun, it is recalled that when the United States declared war on Germany Mr. Rand offered to equip an infantry regiment from Buffalo at his own expense, but the proposition never was acted upon by the War Department.

Move to Retain Foreign Labor.

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 12.—Governor Runyan is preparing to send letters to manufacturers throughout the State inviting them to a conference next Thursday at which ways and means for keeping foreign labor in New Jersey will be discussed. In his letter, Governor Runyan declared the State was facing a crisis in the labor market because so many foreigners were returning to their home countries.

THE OPERA

L'Amore del Tre Re.

It was well that the management of the Metropolitan Opera House put on thus early Montemezzi's opera, "L'Amore dei Tre Re," as it did last evening. It is one of the best of the operatic productions of recent years, an opera that endures better than many of the elaborate efforts signed by more famous names that have had but a short day and cannot hope for a longer. "L'Amore dei Tre Re" was first given in New York six seasons ago, and has been heard here every season since—the Boston Opera Company gave it—though it was dropped from the Metropolitan's list for two seasons on account of the regretted departure of Miss Bori, who portrayed the heroine in the first performances, and also of Mr. Ferrari Fontana, at whose door opportunity knocked in an unexpected fashion and brought him success.

Sem Benelli's beautiful drama is, almost as it stands, one of the most fortunate operatic librettos of recent times. It is one of the great merits of Montemezzi's setting that it is singularly successful in the evocation of the mood, the poetic atmosphere that so remarkably envelope that drama.

It is a drama of emotion rather than of action, wrought in a poetical spirit, with insight into the deeper springs of human conduct. The characters are types rather than strongly marked individualities; they move in a world of legend, before a vague and shadowy background upon which are projected feelings, passions, emotions in an expression at once poetic and noble, vivified in a potent simplicity and a subtle suggestiveness.

Montemezzi has made his music of the very fibre of Sem Benelli's verse. It is not often that a musician is so successful in conveying through music the essential quality of a dramatic poem. It is not too much to say that no other modern Italian composer, nay even other modern composer, has written an opera of such sustained power, such intensity of beauty, such poetic spirit as this. It seemed last evening again as it did when it was first heard here—one of the finest of recent operatic creations.

And yet Montemezzi has started from no new point of departure in this opera, nor has he founded any new school. He has simply written an extremely beautiful score, throbbing with passion, articulate in characterization, masterly in almost every respect, and has ventured on few of the most modern developments or experiments in melody, harmony, tonality or style.

The performance last evening was far from being so fine as those of the first seasons of the opera's appearance at the Metropolitan Opera House; missed were Mr. Toscanini's inspiring touch, the rare charm and sad delicacy of Miss Bori's impersonation of Flora or Mr. Ferrari Fontana's tender and chivalrous Avito—an achievement that he never again equalled.

Under the direction of Mr. Moranzoni it was filled with a fiery eloquence and vehement passion, but some of the finer qualities were missed. The orchestral score was placed very high in the scale of things and elaborated with much color and dynamic variety. Its scale in general was too high, and it overwhelmed the voices; it often served as a stimulant to induce the singers to force them beyond the point of beauty, a vice that was common to Miss Muzio and Mr. Martinelli. Both sang zealously and entered sincerely into the spirit of the drama, but neither caught all the poetic and appealing significance of their parts in it or discovered some of the subtler traits of characterization which are of the essence of both poet's and musician's work.

Mr. Amato's Manfredo is a fine impersonation dramatically, especially in its denotement of the manly, troubled tenderness of the husband, but the beauty of voice and the eloquence of his singing were much impaired. Mr. Didur's representation of the old man, Archibaldo, is, as it was in the beginning, a finely wrought character study. Mme. Bérat was the only one of the subordinate characters who appeared for the first time in the production, and she did so with satisfactory results.

The Philharmonic Society.

At the Philharmonic Society's concert yesterday afternoon Jascha Heifetz was again the soloist, as he was the night before, and played again Mendelssohn's violin concerto. Grieg's "Symphonic Dances," Op. 64, was repeated. The new items of the program, new so far as this season's is concerned, were César Franck's symphony and Smetana's symphonic poem "Vltava," from the set entitled "My Fatherland," with which Mr. Stransky is naturally so deeply in sympathy.

A Brazilian Prodigy.

Maria Antonia, a Brazilian child, aged 9, played the piano in Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon, as she had played before in South American cities. She has talent of a kind not uncommon in gifted children, and abundant assurance. Her playing was, of course, wholly immature, of interest only as a precocious performance. She is said to be on the way to Paris to study at the Conservatoire. There, perhaps, she may develop into another good Brazilian pianist if her talent is not burned up, as infantile talent often has been before, by the life of a public performer prematurely lived. This recital was also said to be her only one in New York, a pearl dropped in passing on the way to Paris. But the next mail brings the announcement of another one.

URGE TAX ON ART EXPORTS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Saturday, Dec. 13.—The Daily Telegraph says Sir William Davison is promoting in the lobby of Parliament a memorial to the Chancellor of the Exchequer in favor of an export duty on valuable pictures and other works of art exported from this country, excepting the works of living or recently deceased British artists.

The movement is due to nuemorus purchases of valuable works for export, chiefly to America. It is suggested that the money realized by the duty should be devoted to the enrichment of Britsh national and public art collections.

More than a hundred members have already signed the memorial. In addition thirty members of the Royal Academy, with President Sir Aston Webb at their head, have sent to Sir William notification that they support the proposal.

TO MERGE TICKET BROKERS.

Theatre Managers Plan a Combination to Check Speculation.

The plan of the theatrical managers to stop ticket speculation, something of which was made public several weeks ago, probably will be formally adopted next week by the Producing Managers' Association. This plan calls for a strict supervision of the tickets given out to agencies, which is to be made possible by bringing the various brokers together into a single corporation.

Under the purposed plan the Tyson, McBride, and Bascom agencies will combine to distribute tickets to the smaller brokers, and in this way a strict check will be kept upon the various agents. One of the results of the system will be to make ticket broking practically a closed profession, as only the brokers now in business will be taken into the combination. Until the system has been tested the various brokers will retain their present offices and do business under their own names, but all funds will go through a common clearing house.

Another result of the new arrangement will be the elimination of so-called "buys," under which an agency buys a certain number of seats for an attraction for a stipulated number of weeks. This system has been credited with causing a large part of the illegal speculation, since the brokers felt obliged to recoup on other shows the losses sometimes inflicted by these "buys." Several managers, in anticipation of the adoption of the new system, are now endeavoring to compel the agents to contract for new "buys" for eight or more weeks.

FRIARS' AUCTION, $19,100.

An auction sale of seats for the forthcoming Friars' Frolic, to be given at the Lexington Theatre a week from tomorrow night, took place yesterday afternoon at the Gaiety Theatre. About half the house was sold for premiums aggregating $19,100. Frank Bacon, Louis Mann and others had charge of the sale.

Seven boxes were sold for $1,000 each, two at $800, and two at $500. The entire gallery, six hundred seats, was bought by delegations of Friars, and the tickets will be given to wounded soldiers.

OPTICIANS ADMIT CHARGES.

Government Gets Promise That Attempts at Restraint Will End.

The complaint of the Government against the American Association of Wholesale Opticians, Inc., fifty-three other corporations, and 121 individual defendants on charges of violating the Sherman anti-trust law, was withdrawn yesterday after the defendants had admitted the charges against them, and had agreed to cease attempting to restrain trade to increase prices of cut and uncut optical lenses, or to act again in concert.

The admission of the truth of the charges was filed by Henry A. Guiler and Ryland W. Joyce, special counsel named by the Government to prosecute the defendants. Federal Judge A. N. Hand signed the decree consenting to the settlement between the Government and the defendants.

Embraced in the charges were many details describing usual acts of those seeking to restrain trade and to increase prices. It was alleged that the defendants held meetings in various parts of the United States where they fixed prices, agreed as to the output of the lenses, and decided all other matter affecting the trade to the end that larger profits might be obtained.

Under the agreement the defendants are obliged to follow current price lists and to refrain from discussing the prices with each other to the end that an agreement as to the profits to be realized might be reached. The Government charged that the defendants, by illegal practices, obtained control of 90 per cent. of the optical business in the United States.

To lose bodily strength is a calamity, to neglect to restore it is suicidal. The means adopted by Arthur McGovern to reclaim men for the Army and Navy are at the disposal of all who feel run down or played out. Mr. McGovern's success has been recognized by testimonials from Washington authorities conveying just appreciation of his methods of restoration.

McBRIDE'S POLICY

THE extravagantly high premiums that are being charged for theatre tickets at various offices all over town discourages theatre going, hurts theatre management and therefore impels us to repeat our long established policy to our patrons.
Our fixed charge for service of fifty cents per ticket over box office prices is the cornerstone upon which our business was founded forty-six years ago, and we limit ourselves to that moderate amount.
A recent law fixes that amount as the standard. This was our practice long before the law.
With the high cost of living we appreciate the theatre-going public cannot afford unreasonable prices for amusement and we want our patrons to know that so far as McBride's is concerned there is now no higher cost of tickets over box office prices than heretofore.
We are the same people who started this business, father and sons, and we propose to continue to deserve the approval of the theatre-going public and the theatre management by standing for a square deal—a square deal to one and all alike—by making theatre going a real pleasure and not carrying with it a feeling of injustice in ticket buying.
Our policy is to stabilize the business for the benefit of all.

THE RAILWAY PROSPECT.

The President has a fair grievance against the Congress in its dallying with the railway question. He notified it in May that he would surrender the roads to their owners at the end of December, and Congress has done nothing but muddle the subject. It has produced two bills which are inconsistent with each other and with the judgment of friends of the railways. That is not surprising, for Congress is far from friendly to the railways, and is still under the influence of theorists rather than practical men. For example, the Cummins bill now under discussion before the Senate proposes that rates should be made for a region, rather than with reference to any individual company. The rates are to make an average return on the investments of the roads in the region, and all above the average are allocated without reference to the wishes of the companies. Anything more fatal to initiative or efficiency by individual companies could not be imagined, and those qualities are what made our railways world models down to the time of the war. Nothing more contrary to our institutions than taking the earnings of some for the benefit of others has ever been proposed, nor can it be conceded that the Constitution will allow it.

As if the original proposal were not bad enough, there are pending amendments which would benefit waterways constructed at public expense to the detriment of the railways which are in embarrassed finances, without benefit to commerce. The arguments used on the floor of the Senate challenge credulity. It is asserted that the railways are being operated with such efficiency and profit that the continuance of Government management is justified. The latest official figures, for October, show that the net operating income for the month has fallen from $102,700,478 in 1917 to $76,397,213. For ten months ended with October the decrease has been from $833,543,384 to $481,082,531. The Government's loss is not the decrease in earnings, but the deficiency of the earnings below the guaranteed standard rental for the use of the property, and that will approximate $300,000,000 for the year. The figures cannot be exactly stated, because the official figures given out omit the comparatively small roads to a mileage as great as the total of France. For the eighteen months of Federal control the standard return has not been earned by about half a billion, and revolving funds of over a billion have revolved out of sight. Nor is the loss of earnings all that is chargeable to Government operation. There has been a deterioration of maintenance and equipment to a total of hundreds of millions. These are general figures, but the finances of individual roads are in a state calling for sympathetic attention. There are few better roads than some conspicuous ones which used to earn dividends amply, but which have not earned the Government rental for reasons of credit to them, with a claim to restoration of their old prosperity. Profitable traffic was diverted from them to other roads, while unprofitable business was given to them, and even the proceeds of that were not paid to them. All earnings were paid into the public purse as though there were but one company, and now the staffs and competitive business are in disorder.

The President's grievance is against Congress, not against the companies. Indeed, he has declared himself the particular defender of the railways, and has pledged himself to safeguard their interests. It is not to be supposed that he approves what Congress is proposing. It is not imaginable that his declaration of purpose to return the roads to private operation in a fortnight holds good under the conditions which have developed since then, nor that it is unchangeable. He may not regret present conditions, since they were part of the price of beating the Huns, and no censure is implied in the facts or in stating them. But it is beyond belief that he can contemplate co-operating with Congress in making permanent conditions which are as formidable for others as for the railways.

If the railways are not restored to credit on their own resources, there are many institutions which will be imperiled with them. There are investment institutions of many sorts which are carrying railway securities on an arbitrary valuation which would not withstand such legislation as Congress is considering, and whose condition would resemble that of the railways if hope of constructive assistance to the railways were abandoned. Congress should not even attempt to reconcile the antagonistic views within it hastily. Even though its debates are not listened to by members themselves, nor adequately reported, the subject is about the greatest next to the treaty of peace, and all the time necessary should be taken. It follows that the guarantee should be extended until an acceptable permanent solution is found, and even thereafter until results have been demonstrated.

THE CAMPAIGN OPENED.

The formal opening of the Presidential campaign of 1920 was made when the Republican National Committee issued, on Thursday, its call for the Chicago convention. It was not a mere formality, either, for the work of preparing for the convention was immediately begun. Thus is opened what promises to be not only one of the most important, but one of the most hotly contested, campaigns in our history. The campaign of 1916 was certainly important, but no one can say that there was anything hot about the manner in which it was conducted.

Never were there so many signs that the people were not only awake but feverishly interested so long a time in advance of the actual meeting of the two conventions. In the desperate condition of the world this nation is a sharer, and though its difficulties and dangers may be less than those that confront other countries, they do not seem any less to the millions who suffer from them and know little about the greater troubles elsewhere. There is always talk, sometimes vague, about the "problems" that will confront the people in a Presidential year, but this time every man knows just what the problems are and does not require to be stirred up to an understanding of them by politicians or platforms. For they touch his pocketbook, his stomach, his family, and his future.

This is one reason for the loosening of party bonds, so that a man like Senator BORAH may refer in the Senate to the "pussyfooters of my own party and the other." In times gone by it would have been high treason to admit that one's own party could contain any pussyfooters or other objectionable characters. The freedom with which men are now declaring that the responsibility for the defeat of the Peace Treaty, if defeated, will rest upon their own party, and even that disaster at the polls will come if this or that is not done, is another sign of the times. When men's own lives are affected every hour of the day by conditions which demand a remedy, they are likely to seek that remedy where they can get it, without regard to how they voted when MCKINLEY and BRYAN were running. Chairman HAYS's efforts to recreate a spirit of party, openly made and earnestly discoursed upon by him, will not make head against this feeling, for it is personal to each man who entertains it.

Thus there has grown among the politicians—we do not speak of those in the Senate, but of the party workers—an earnest purpose to deal rightly with the dangers that threaten us. Neither party is willing to make a mistake, however slight, for one mistake may be fatal. There was plenty of evidence for this in the earnestness of the National Committee in Washington, and in its breaking away from custom in such matters as the appointment of a committee to consider and thrash out problems that will come before the Resolutions Committee of the convention, and in the determination of the committee to retain Chairman HAYS—instead of having the next Chairman virtually appointed by the Presidential nominee—so that he may carry out the work already begun under his leadership.

The conditions now are barely endurable, and they grow worse instead of better. "War prices" used to be a name for high prices, but "peace prices" are making the others look cheap by comparison. Such stray items of news as that of yesterday from the Secretary of the National Association of Wholesale Clothiers and Tailors at its annual meeting in Chicago, that popular-price suits, which sold before the war at $25 and now retail at $50, will bring $60 next Spring, are evidence in the case. The labor unrest assumes the form of demands which send prices up and leave the salaried man struggling for existence. Meanwhile a form of taxation which before the war was unjust only in spots has assumed a complexion of injustice. The man of moderate means is marked, according to the reports, for a still greater descent upon his pocketbook. A fixed income, which was once thought desirable by those who did not aspire to be millionaires, has now become a mere target for slothful or uninventive taxlayers. The law is flouted here today, there tomorrow, but steadily and increasingly. The race problem has received a stimulated impetus. Ten or even two years ago the idea that there could be a serious thought of revolution in such a country as this would have been laughed at. That there could be a successful one is still laughable, but the idea that attempts at revolution are possible is one that is no longer derided.

In the presence of these increasing difficulties and dangers there is need for the most sober and serious dealing with the problems of the next campaign. It will be no log-cabin-and-hard-cider contest, and the parties can, if they will, save a good deal on bunting and brass bands. The people have anxious thoughts in their minds; red fire and torchlights would be only an annoyance.

THE HAMILTON-BURR BANK.

To "old New Yorkers" the consolidation of the Manhattan Company and the Merchants National Bank, the business of which will be continued under the name of the Manhattan Company and under the presidency of STEPHEN BAKER, has a curious interest. To sentimental students of history and watchers of the whirligig of time, this union even has a sort of poetic or romantic charm, as alien to the banking business as the now mostly forgotten poems of CHARLES SPRAGUE of Boston, "the banker poet." New Yorkers are often ignorant of the story of their city, but many of them at least know that the Manhattan Company was chartered in 1799 as a water company, AARON BURR shrewdly suspecting that the Federalists in the Legislature would not be willing to grant any financial privileges to the abhorred Republicans (Democrats).

In 1804 the Merchants Bank was founded by ALEXANDER HAMILTON, who had opposed BURR's plan. The heat and fury which the application for a charter caused in the Legislature and in this city can hardly be understood by the moderns. DE WITT CLINTON and some other influential city representatives in the Legislature were Directors or shareholders of the Manhattan Company. At Albany certain distinguished Republicans were equally interested in the State Bank there. Ostensibly, the controversy was whether another bank was needed in New York. Really, the question was, the applicants for the charter being Federalists, if a Federalist bank wouldn't hurt the Republican Party. The situation was the reverse of that in 1799. "Federalists and Tories," shouted Republican journals such as the American Citizen of New York, whose editor, Mr. CHEETHAM, let no day pass without gibing Mr. COLEMAN, editor of the then young Evening Post and a stockholder in the Merchants Bank; and the worthy Mr. COLEMAN deviated into verse in his wrath against the once famous DUANE of the Aurora and Mr. CHEETHAM:

Lie on, DUANE, lie on for pay,
  And CHEETHAM lie thou, too;
More against truth you cannot say,
  Than truth can say 'gainst you.

"The villains who are themselves "bribed or who have bribed others, "sunk deep in the abyss of infamy "and disgrace, will brave conclusive "charges of corruption and defy their "operative force," Mr. CHEETHAM was crying in the Spring of 1805, when the bill had not yet passed. Judge PURDY was knocked down by Judge TAYLOR "almost within the bar of the Senate." But the charter was granted at last. The two institutions, the list of whose officers is a sort of record of old patrician New York for almost a hundred and twenty years, have had honorable and fruitful careers. A generation ago the two rival institutions built together a fine banking building. Now they have become one, the bank of ALEXANDER HAMILTON and the bank of AARON BURR, those brilliant and deadly opposites.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS AND PRIVATE.

The fact that students from the public schools stand higher in their college classes and "bear themselves more seemly" in the eyes of the Dean does not necessarily mean that they are better equipped and trained. An undergraduate's background and ambitions have as much to do with such matters as the excellence of his schooling.

Graduates of the high schools come mainly from families that are only moderately well-to-do. They have little taste or money for the gilded joys of life, while the imminent necessity of self-support makes them estimate a college course at its true value. At most of our Eastern universities relatively few of the students take part in club or fraternity life. Boys from the private preparatory schools are mainly of the rich or the moderately rich. College life, as distinguished from college work, holds a large place in their aspirations. As each of them, on arriving at the university, is already hail fellow with a considerable group in his class, the way is prepared for a leading part in the more ornamental pursuits of undergraduate leisure. Neglect of lectures and resulting postcards from the Dean are familiar incidents which they contrive to meet in a mood of jocularity. In reading the grim statistics furnished by the Harvard Graduates' Magazine one is likely to forget that residents of the Gold Coast triumphantly tack summorses from "U. S." on their walls, together with athletic photographs and club "shingles." They are lamentably callous to the fact that five times as many boys from the high school graduate "summa cum laude."

A more significant test of the value of the two types of school lies in the entrance examination. Here the advantage is strongly with the private school. In spite of a large admixture of the gilded rich, 88 per cent. of their candidates "pass," as against only 73 per cent. from the high schools. A part of this difference is doubtless due to the fact that many public schools have no course directly leading to the entrance examination. Yet the schools of Eastern Massachusetts are of the highest order and several of them prepare directly for Harvard. Whatever its explanation, the truth remains that, for the purpose in hand, the private school boy is more efficiently trained.

Chief among his advantages is the fact that his teachers at school are themselves recent graduates and familiar with the methods and the spirit of the university. They are "tutors" in the more legitimate sense of the word. If the university fails to continue the boy "in the way he should go," the failure is properly to be laid at its own door. In all probability it arises from a lack of the personal and intimate instruction in small groups. In place of this the university supplies mainly mass instruction—in large lecture or laboratory courses and in wholesale examinations. The sober-minded undergraduate makes his own way, but the boy from the private school, released from the nearer influences, rambles at will until brought up with a turn as the result of one of those official postcards.

For upward of twenty years Harvard has tried to supply a more personal influence by means of individual "advisers" for freshmen and personal conferences as a supplement to large lecture courses; but the system has been only measurably successful. Princeton has a more thorough system of personal instruction under her "preceptors," and is now engaged in fusing it with a recently introduced system of four-year advisers. It would be highly interesting to have similar statistics from the sister university.

COMMERCIAL AVIATION IN EUROPE.

The report of the death of an American passenger by the fall of an airplane "flying in the regular London-Paris day service" might convey the impression that air travel as now conducted between England and the Continent is too hazardous to be well patronized. The contrary is the case. There is an ever-present element of risk in a journey through the air, whether by plane or dirigible, and probably a British or a Continental railway train, or a Channel steamboat, will always afford more security to the traveler, although trains are sometimes wrecked and steamboats founder. But the hazards of commercial flying do not deter people from "booking" for Paris or London. They are inclined to be fatalistic about the swift translation from one country to the other. Familiarity breeds indifference to the danger, which is not accounted serious, as there is a large and comforting margin of safety in the record.

In about four months of operation by the London-Paris Air Service there has been only one victim of an accident, the American passenger who lost his life on Thursday, when a pilot made a bad landing in a fog in Surrey. The distance made by the company's machines had been 53,000 miles. Commercial aviation is expanding remarkably in Great Britain and on the Continent. There are four services between Paris and London, two French and two British. There is a week-end service between Southampton and Havre, 125 miles; a daily service between London and Leeds, in which eight passenger planes are engaged and carry 400 pounds each of mail and express. The Nieuport Company and the General Aircraft and Alliance Aeroplane Companies are in the field, literally in the air, to carry express packages and passengers any distance upon order. The greatest expansion seems to be in Germany, where, it is said, 20,000 machines are operating, a fact that the French believe has a sinister significance. On Nov. 17 the British Department of Civil Aviation reported that since May 24,000 flights had been made and 52,000 passengers carried, with only thirteen accidents, none fatal, it appeared. In the Channel service passages are made in gales of wind. Major Gen. Sir F. H. SYKES recently congratulated Lieutenant H. SHAW upon flying across in what was officially declared a hurricane. He broke the record by twenty-five minutes.

In Great Britain it is the policy of the Government to encourage commercial aviation by selling army and navy planes at "a very cheap rate." Aerodromes are turned over to companies, while the trained personnel is encouraged to put itself at their disposal when aviators can be spared from the sea and land services. There seems to be no doubt that some of the commercial ventures are profitable. For the transportation of valuable packages when quick delivery is desired shippers are glad to pay high rates. The parcel traffic is rapidly growing and the supply of seats for passengers is not equal to the demand. As long ago as Aug. 16 fifty-three aerodromes were available in Great Britain for commercial aviation. One of the first things done by the Government to promote British prestige in foreign countries after the war was the holding of a series of demonstration flights. The result was that many orders were received by British manufacturers from the Continent. The Government has always acted upon the principle that, unless it spent money to assist and encourage the manufacturers, commercial aviation would never get a fair start. There is a lesson in the British policy for the United States, if Congress can be made to see the value of it.

THE SUPERMAN OF AIR.

Before he became a man of action, GABRIELE D'ANNUNZIO's course of literary evolution and imitation was from DE MAUPASSANT, by way of TOLSTOY, to NIETZSCHE. As a man of action he is furiously superman-like, ranging somewhere from COLA DI RIENZI to GARIBALDI, CAESAR, and NAPOLEON. It must be CAESAR who is now talking about his "legionaries who have sworn to follow" him "even to death itself." A mere Prime Minister like NITTI is but a feather in the balance against the huge and relentless ego of the poet-novelist-airman-superman. "NITTI is here today, but may be gone tomorrow," whereas the flaming Captain is immortal, like his works; nor shall the sword sleep in his hand until "Fiume is part of us." Then the poet will wing the blue deep to Japan and America. He is going to bridge the Pacific islands with wings. He loves and longs to see the people of America.

Harbingers and precursors of the airy Caesar are already scattered along the road that is to be brightened by the conqueror's pinion. He is to be colporteur of trouble, too. "The spark of protest against oppression has been kindled here by "me and my legionaries. We will "carry the torch and spread the "flame throughout the world where "oppression exists, whether it be the "gallant Emerald Isle, Belgium, or "unhappy Egypt." One wonders if the temperamental master of the legions is not a little mixed in his geography. One wonders still more what oppression he imagines Belgium to be groaning under. One doubts the reception which his legionaries will get in the Emerald Isle if they ever reach it, both from the Sinn Fein and the police. The reference to unhappy Egypt clearly shows that the Captain's multiplex genius dreams of ANTONY as well as CAESAR. Somebody ought to send him a copy of Mr. SHAW's "Caesar and Cleopatra."

Feeding on air and fire and violent sensations, the legionaries will not suffer even if their supplies are cut off. "Our spirit will be alive and aflame with the will to do or die." It would be a pity to die before Nippon and the United States have been added to the hero's trophies. A lyric master of legions is too precious to lose. When Captain D'ANNUNZIO begins to plow the ether again he should include in his traveling library LAMARTINE's "Three Months in Power" and "The Fall of an Angel."

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

He Retracts His Harsh Accusations.

It is much to be regretted that when Lieutenant BELVIN W. MAYNARD allowed himself to be persuaded into making a statement for publication about the habits of his fellow-aviators he did not remember by what organization his statement was to be used. Had he done so he would have guarded himself better than he did against the certainty that only the strongest of his assertions as to the evil effects of drink would be given out and that his qualifications and explanations would disappear.

Still more regrettable is it that, when the Lieutenant consented to talk on this subject, he did not say what he now says was all he intended to say, which is that in a group of men as numerous as that constituting our military air service there are sure to be "a few who are not discreet." To be sure, that would have been a mere platitude, and not worth saying at all, but at least it would have prevented the Anti-Saloon League from bringing, on his high authority, what amounted to the charge that overindulgence in intoxicants was characteristic of the army aviators, and that to this were due the fatalities that marked the transcontinental race as well as his own victory in that contest.

As the case now stands, Lieutenant MAYNARD has convicted himself of indiscretion equaling, though different from, the indiscretion as to drink, which, he admits, is confined to a small number—the inevitable number—of his associates in the flying corps.

In explanation of his hasty speaking it has been suggested that he forgot that he was not talking with the freedom from criticism, or at any rate from immediate reply, which the occupant of a pulpit enjoys. There may be something in that, and something in the probability that the Lieutenant's early training may have made him view declinations from absolute verticality as little different from complete prostration, but—well the Lieutenant will be more careful next time he has or makes occasion to discuss the air service personnel, and he is too good, both as a man and an aviator, to be scolded severely for his single slip.

Anybody who has been privileged to have more or less intimate and confidential communion with army aviators, especially with those who flew day after day across and behind the German lines, has learned—and was not surprised to learn—that they have the reverse as well as the obverse of their magnificent qualities. They resent being called "temperamental," because they take the word in its invidious sense. So used it certainly is not deserved by men who have lived day after day much closer than have the vast majority of their fellow-men to the very sternest realities of life and death, and have adjusted themselves to those realities with a success that proves the possession of as much sense as courage.

But they were all young—still are, for that matter—and their peculiarities are those of youth in its very finest flower. During the war and since they have had many difficulties and some bitter grievances with which to contend, and if at times they manifest an irritability of which philosophers with long gray beards are free—or pretend to be—that does not put them in the class of the grand opera prima donna of tradition. Recklessness is among them the rarest of traits, and most of them know too well the perils of their art to increase those perils by such eating or drinking as experience has shown to be injudicious.

If, something oftener than ordinary humanity, they feel the need of relaxing in one way or another the cruel strains under which they live when on active service, that does not make them "temperamental" except in the sense that they have the temperament without which they would not be aviators.

Following a Good Example.

Now it is the large State of Massachusetts that is preparing to follow the example of New York City and to pass a daylight-saving law of its own, regardless of what Congress, in its weakness and unwisdom, did about the regulation of clocks.

As part of Massachusetts's population is rural, and as farmers almost everywhere have been persuaded into thinking that they think daylight saving is to their disadvantage, the proposal that the State legislators shall ordain the longer day as far as their power extends already is encountering opposition and protest; but Boston and the other cities of the State know what they want and are expressing their desire in the tone that means so much to men regardful of public sentiment as expressed in votes. So there is hardly a chance that Massachusetts will not have daylight saving next Summer. That, with New York already in rebellion against Congressional deprivation, gives practical assurance that all through this part of the country—along the North Atlantic coast and for a long distance inland—the "dark forces" by which a beneficent reform was seemingly ended will have their victory turned into defeat. For this land is not going to live half daylight saving and half daylight wasting.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Senate has failed to ratify the treaty of peace with Germany. The majority in control, masquerading under the banner of "Americanism," is continuing the world in turmoil. Suffering from the after effects of the most devastating experience in the history of man, Europe—almost bankrupt, financially and industrially—lies prostrate before the looming spectre of political disorganization. Would the vindictive leaders of the slender majority in the Senate have us believe that a "splendid isolation" will render us impervious to the penetrating influences of chaos; that a so-called "Americanization" will keep us immune from the diseases which are attacking civilization, or that a defiant spirit which blatantly barks "I am fighting President Wilson" (Senator Lodge, Boston, Nov. 26) will overcome the obstacles that lie in our path or contribute to the adjustment of the unsettled circumstances of the world?

Europe has so far depleted its resources that each of its countries has become a consumer instead of a producer. Each must buy in order to sustain life till it can again produce and sell. Production cannot begin without our help and friendly co-operation. The establishment of peace is a condition precedent to production and to trade.

But the Senate has failed to ratify the treaty.

The rates of exchange are prohibitive. The English pound is under four dollars. The French franc is at nearly ten to the dollar. The German mark is near 2 cents each. How long can Europe afford to buy at such figures?

In the meantime the cry of "Americanization" goes forth to a war-sick America and to a bleeding and war-torn world. To the country's desire for fulfillment of the obligation of the United States, Senator Lodge interposes "I am fighting President Wilson." The cry of "no compromise" is flung out under the label of "Americanization."

With the industrial and financial condition of Europe in shattered shape Europe cannot long continue to buy. We will then be overloaded with products Factories will close—for they can work only when they can sell. Labor will be unemployed—for it can work only when its product can be disposed of.

"Americanization" bars the way. "No compromise" keeps closed the door to peace.

The President has said there can be no reasonable objection to interpretations (White House conference with Foreign Relations Committee). He has also said: "I do hope that we are at liberty, contemporaneously with our acceptance of the treaty, to interpret our moral obligations under that article."

In opposition, the spirit of "no compromise" has decreed an "irreducible minimum."

Can any reasonable man argue this is "Americanization" or in the interest of the cause for which we gave so much? PROGRESS.

"WE ARE THE DEAD."

The last faint murmur of the guns is stilled.
Upon the stricken desert quiet reigns,
And on the hills the miracle of peace.
This barren earth is ours! Mark you not
To have and hold until Eternity.
For evermore the sacred soil of France
The hallowed dust that was America.

To you who loved us—nay, who love us still—
We lift our voiceless prayer. Ah, stay the hand
That would disturb these bones. The mortal frame
Is nothing. Neither monument of stone
Can curb the spirit's fire, nor marble tomb
Conceal the soul set free. Here would we lie,
Beneath the hills, where first we looked on God.
Then, when the brazen trumpet summons us,
When man's last enemy shall be destroyed—
Yea, Death itself shall yield the Victory—
Then shall we rise triumphant, banners bright,
Our spirit armor gleaming, and at last,
Shoulder to shoulder, comrades evermore,

WOULD CUT NEWSPAPER SIZE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Increase of the postal rates on newspapers printing more than twenty-four pages was proposed in the Senate today by Senator Jones of New Mexico as a means of curtailing the use of newsprint paper by big dailies and insuring country papers an adequate supply.

Senator Jones introduced a bill to make the postage on papers of more than twenty-four pages five times the present rate. It was referred to the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads.

Mr. Jones read a telegram from newspaper publishers in his home State, charging that big city newspapers are wasteful of newsprint, and that as a result the small town and country dailies have been unable to obtain enough for their needs. Especially is this true, the telegram said, of the Sunday editions.

"I believe something should be done at once to curtail the use of print paper," said Senator Jones. "It seems to me that one very effective remedy can be provided, and that is to increase the postal rates on newspapers exceeding a definite size. With that in view I have drafted this bill, proposing an increase of postal rates by five times the present rate on newspapers exceeding twenty-four pages in size. The purpose, of course, is to curtail the use of print paper by large daily newspapers, especially in connection with the Sunday editions.

"It seems to me that if a paper contains as many as twenty-four pages that ought to be sufficient to give the current news of the country, and also provide a sufficient amount of space for advertising matter. We know that these newspapers are carried at a loss under present rates.

"A bill of this kind would serve two very useful purposes, to distribute the print paper throughout the country without requiring the country papers to pay an excessive price and also add to the postal revenues if any paper should decide to publish a paper exceeding the size specified in the bill."

Senator Smoot of Utah urged Senators to refrain from inserting trivial matter in the Congressional Record while the paper famine lasted. He said it now cost nearly $60 a page to print the Record, and that it was almost impossible to get the needed paper. Vice President Marshall said he would be very glad "to ask the Senate, if the Senator desires him to do so, whether the publication of the Congressional Record should not be suspended during the famine in print paper."

Senator Thomas of Colorado observed that it would be a good idea to stop printing the Record altogether. That would curtail the output of Senatorial oratory, he said, to do which no other means had yet been found. He said he thought the scarcity of print paper was largely due to the fact "that so much of it is consumed in propaganda against the Government of the United States. If, in order to limit the output of that kind of daily literature hardships are visited upon the remainder of the press for a while, it will not be entirely an unmixed evil."

The bill introduced by Senator Jones reads:

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that the postal rate on newspapers or other periodicals published daily which contain more than twenty-four pages or twelve single sheets exceeding twenty-five inches in length and nineteen inches in width at any one issue shall be five times the rate now provided law.

"Section 2. This act shall take effect and be in full force and effect from and after five days succeeding the date of its passage and approval."

Reports in $42,000,000 Drive Show Many Quotas Oversubscribed.

Partial returns of the $42,000,000 drive of the Episcopal nation-wide campaign show a majority of quotas either subscribed or oversubscribed, according to an announcement made yesterday. Advance reports of the canvass reveal the strongest showing in the South. Incomplete returns from the Diocese of Central New York show subscriptions varying from 30 per cent. of quotas to oversubscription.

Norfolk and Southern Virginia have passed the $600 000, and Richmond reported that 170 parishes have pledged $270 000 annually for the three years covered by the program. The report from the Diocese of Kentucky stated that it is close to its $86,000 quota.

Prospects of a total subscription of $3,000,000, which is double its quota, were reported from Philadelphia for the Diocese of Pennsylvania. From Chicago word came to the committee here that the entire period is being devoted to the canvass. West Texas has oversubscribed and the Diocese of Oregon reported to date $75,428.

FAVOR BROADWAY BUSES.

Association Directors Regard This as Best Solution of Transit Problem

Directors of the Broadway Association at their regular meeting yesterday appointed a transportation committee and voted in favor of the use of motor buses as the best solution of the transportation problem on Broadway. The committee will make a report "concerning the street surface transportation on Broadway with a view of submitting the information to the entire membership of the association for a referendum vote and later to submit the question to the entire business population of Broadway."

The members of the transportation committee are John David, Chairman; Frank G. Carrie, J. E. Harrington, Thomas D. Breen and Glenn A. Tisdale.

The tentative plan of the Public Service Commission for the removal of the subway entrance on Broadway near the McAlpin Hotel at Thirty-fourth Street and Broadway was approved.

TO EASE TRANSIT JAMS.

Express Service Installed on Broadway, Brooklyn, Lines.

In an effort to relieve the congestion on the Broadway elevated lines in Brooklyn, which carry the heaviest traffic of all of the Brooklyn lines during the evening rush hours, the Broadway-Jamaica trains, which now run to Eastern Parkway as locals, will hereafter run through from Chambers Street to Eastern Parkway as express trains, eliminating six stops.

The Broadway-Metropolitan Avenue trains will hereafter start from the opposite side of the platform at Chambers Street to facilitate loading and unloading, and will also operate as express trains as far as Myrtle Avenue, Brooklyn, stopping only at the Bowery station.

Because of the elimination of several stops formerly made by these trains, a new local service will be built up between Canal Street and East New York, with more cars and, if necessary, more trains.

METAL EXPORTS DECREASE.

Loss of More Than $49,000,000 Caused by Decline in Imports.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Large shipments of precious metals are being made from the United States to Oriental countries, according to the Federal Reserve Board's figures on the movement of gold and silver in November. Exports amounted to $51,857,796 and imports to $2,396,770, a net loss of more than $49,000,000. Most of the outgoing metal went to Japan, which took $23,518,395, exports to other countries being $8,900,000 to Argentina, $5,362,790 to Hongkong, and $3,953 780 to India.

Exports of silver amounted to $19,052,177, of which $13,264,020 went to China. Imports during the month were $6,931,486.

ACADEMY WINNERS OF WINTER EXHIBIT

CURRAN PICTURE CHARMING

The Academy this year is—the Academy. Why ask for anything different? The general effect of the galleries is sedate, but why should we wish the Academy to turn frisky? It is not a youthful institution, but it has kept its healthy complexion, which, without the aid of artifice, has grown a little brighter as palettes have brightened under the influence of the younger schools. And it has kept its standard of good manners, paying deference to the elders and making the young behave themselves when they are allowed in the drawing room. There have been years when this somewhat old fashioned idea of discipline and this absence of cosmetics have made the exhibition a pretty dull party. Not this year. It is a pleasant party. We are used to taking our stimulant in the form of sugar and to taking our sugar in the form of molasses, and the honest crystal sweetness of many of the exhibits is not at all unwelcome, and should not be mistaken for an irritating saccharinity.

The Carnegie Prize is given to Emil Carlsen's "Surf at Skagen," a remarkable piece of craftsmanship. No painter knows better how to handle his material, and the size of his canvas has not made his task any easier. The color is lovely, like the color in old Chinese pottery, and the surface is beautifully free from the oiliness of oil paint. The picture wins the prize, no doubt, on these merits and not for shifting clouds and fluent water, since neither clouds nor waves have any appearance of movement. A sound philosopher says that the only way to be happy is not to expect opposite qualities from the same people; it is merely flippant to expect Mr. Carlsen to give his first attention to the mobility of nature.

The Altman $1,000 prize goes to Charles C. Curran's "The Top of the World." The breezy little girl with her skirts blowing, silhouetted against an open sky, is a familiar figure in Mr. Curran's work. Sometimes she is one, sometimes two or three, but always young, slim, alert—a "sweet pretty" girl, to use an old phrase that never has been bettered for this type. And Mr. Curran never has done her more charmingly, wrapped her more tenderly in the painter's substitute for light and air, made her more appealing to the wide public. Of course she deserves a prize, only one feels that it ought to be a tremendous box of candy, which at the prices quoted today would be about the equivalent of the Altman thousand.

R. McLellan of Boston takes the Isidor Medal for the best figure composition by an American artist 35 years of age or under. So the subject naturally is "The Old Lady." Only quite a young artist could have such keen eyes for the slipshod comfort of age. The old lady is knitting and is round shouldered and has a good warm shoulder shawl, and her hair is thin, with many a strand loose from its moorings. Mr. Huneker, when he came back from Europe a few years ago, found the greatest change in the women; they were all so young, he said, "except the young ones." This is not one of the young old ladies to be seen in New York, and one has a sneaking suspicion that she may have taken her prize for just this reason, for the painting is somewhat lacking in distinction.

Gifford Beal takes the Altman $500 prize with a picture called, in one part of the catalog, "Balmy Days," and in another part, "Palmy Days." It must be the latter, or why the old fashioned steamboat and the hoopskirt? It is a riverside scene, and Godey's Lady's Book must have sat for the costumes. In the reproduction it looks like an illustration, but the original shows such a lively and well organized march of color that you get from it the effect of picture. The movement of the figures against the background of the boat at anchor is admirable.

The Thomas R. Proctor prize for the best portrait in the exhibition is taken by Walter MacEwan with his portrait, "The Painter." It is a good portrait, painted in a good way, with the freshness of a sketch and the fulness of adequate preliminary thought and preparation. The color is delightfully blond and mellow, pink fleshtones, a white shirt and flannel-white trousers, a pale green tie, a flicker of ruby red in the cuff links. The brushwork is loose and casual and extraordinarily sure. The draftsmanship is impeccable. And nothing is insisted upon. Even Whistler might have envied the nonchalant way in which the picture frame on the wall is indicated. It is the best of good breeding in art. Also it illustrates as prettily as may be the modern type of artist. The subject of the portrait is a painter, and he affirms his calling with his paint brush in his hand. Think what he would have been in Rembrandt's day, or in Courbet's! Slouch hats do not an artist make, and the superbly high and polished collar about this painter's neck is as eloquent of his time and environment as a Van Dyck ruff, and every bit as beautiful.

The other three prizes go to sculpture. The Julia A. Shaw memorial prize is won by Laura Gardin-Fraser's ingratiating goat, the Elizabeth N. Watrous gold medal by the "Boy and Panther" of Rudulph Evans, and the Helen Foster Barnett prize by Victor Salvatore's head of "Big Oak," three notable works that must wait with the rest of the exhibition for further comment. A landscape by the late Ralph Blakelock, an early and handsome work, although it takes no prize, becomes, through the nature of its inclusion, a stepping stone to an award. It is one of the pictures belonging to Henry Ranger's collection that came to the Academy when Mr. Ranger died, as the foundation of a Ranger Fund. These pictures are sold by the counsel of the Academy for the fund, the interest on which is used to buy pictures that have been painted by men over the age of 45. The pictures thus bought are to be presented to museums. The plan, carefully formed, seems to embody the spirit of the Academy.

LADY DUFFERIN WEDS EARL HOWE

CODE MESSAGE TO FATHER

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 12.— Flora, Marchioness of Dufferin and Ava, widow of the second Marquis and daughter of John Davis of New York, was married yesterday afternoon very quietly in Christ Church, Mayfair, to Earl Howe, formerly Treasurer of the Royal Household, and now Lord Chamberlain to Queen Alexandra.

Although the King and Queen and Queen Alexandra knew of the wedding, and a few of the intimate friends of the bridal couple were present at the ceremony, the marriage has come as a surprise to society at large. The bride's first husband died more than a year ago, but, although she and Lord Howe were old friends, they took great precautions to prevent any one guessing of the attachment that had sprung up between them. They never appeared together in public restaurants unless they were members of a party.

Mr. Davis, Lady Dufferin's father, was informed of the engagement by cable, but the friends who sent the message for her, in order to prevent the news leaking out, invented a code. The result was that Mr. Davis failed to understand it and had to cable for a translation.

As Earl Howe has a Household position he had to obtain the Royal permission for his marriage. This was granted only a week ago.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Edgar Sheppard, subdean of the Chapel Royal, assisted by the Vicar of Christ Church. The present Marquis of Dufferin and Ava gave the bride away, and the honeymoon is being spent at Woodlands, the bridegroom's country estate.

TO OPEN CALLIESS GRAVE.

Prosecutor Will Watch Disinterment of Taxicab Victim.

Assistant District Attorney Lazarus, who is making an investigation of the hasty removal from the morgue of the body of Mrs. Anna Calliess of the Hotel Bristol, who was killed by a taxicab, and buried the following day without notice to her daughter, Miss Charlotte Calliess, it is alleged, announced yesterday that he would be present today when the body is disinterred at the cemetery at Kensico. Mr. Lazarus will also carry his investigation into the inquiry to be made this morning by Dr. William H. Guilfoy, Register of Records of the Department of Health.

Dr. Guilfoy said his inquiry was to determine if there had been any violation of the sanitary code relating to falsification of certificates or reports made to the Department of Health concerning the vital records in the case of Mrs. Calliess. Miss Calliess and the undertaker will be among the persons he will question.

The attorney for Miss Calliess had complained that the permit for the burial or removal of her mother's body bore the name of a person who claimed to be her son-in-law, but who, in fact, was not related to her. Mr. Lazarus questioned R. J. Kelly, an adjuster for the Town and Terminal Taxicab Company, who said Mrs. Calliess had died from injuries caused by a cab of this company at Broadway and Eighty-third Street. Kelly said he had sought to find Mrs. Calliess's relatives, and, finding no one to care for the body, he had ordered the burial, which cost his company $75. Mr. Lazarus said he would question the undertaker today or Monday.

INDICTS SHOE OFFICIALS.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 12.—Indictments charging the exaction of excessive and unfair prices for shoes, found by the Federal Grand Jury against the F. G. Collins Shoe Company, Inc., of 232 Westminster Street, this city, and four of its officers, were made public today.

Joseph Fredberg, formerly of Providence, appeared this morning before Judge Arthur L. Brown, in the United States District Court, pleaded not guilty to the charges, and was released on $3,000 bail. George M. Goldsmith of Providence and Samuel F. Flansbaum and A. M. Collins of Boston, named in the indictment with Mr. Fredberg, will enter pleas here later.

The indictment against the F. G. Collins Shoe Company, which is incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts, charges that the company, on Oct. 30, 1919, "did unlawfully, knowingly and wilfully make an unjust and unreasonable charge, to-wit: Six dollars for the sale of one pair of ladies' shoes, and did then and there engage in a discriminatory, unfair, deceptive practice and device," inasmuch as the company "had fixed as the true selling rate and charge for said shoes the amount of $3.90, which said rate and charge was marked on said shoes."

SEES NEW CANAL IN FUTURE.

Secretary Baker Predicts Great Benefits for Porto Rico.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Dec. 11.—Discussing new world trade routes which are being developed because of the Panama Canal, Newton D. Baker, United States Secretary of War, said today that it was of common interest "that the main port in the Caribbean should be on Porto Rican soil."

Mr. Baker pointed out the importance to the United States of sharing fully in the activities and benefits accruing from increased world trade, and emphasized the fact that Porto Rico was an important station on new routes passing through the canal. Transportation between the United States and the island must be immediately approved, he said.

"With shipping through the canal increasing each month," Mr. Baker said, "I see the time when a second isthmian canal may be necessary."

When he arrived here last evening Mr. Baker was tendered a reception. He congratulated the island people upon the part they played in the war, and asserted it was the desire of the people of the United States that relations between the island and the nation should be much closer.

PLAN BERGER PROTEST.

Special to The New York Times.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 12.—If Victor Berger is returned to Congress by the Fifth Wisconsin District and Congress again refuses to seat him, thousands of followers of Berger principles will move on to Washington and stage a mighty demonstration on Pennsylvania Avenue. In bold-face type, covering half the first page, The Leader, daily Socialist paper, today announced the program.

Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of The Nation, who declares he is not a Socialist, and who inaugurated the movement, made this statement:

"The question of whether the lawyers of Congress shall be permitted deliberately to slap the voters of the Fifth District in the face by depriving them of the right to have their own Representative in Congress should be made a national issue. Any attempt to subvert the will of the voters in the Fifth District would find liberty lovers all over the land registering their protest most emphatically."

MRS. SMITH VERY ILL.

Governor Will Remain with Mother Until Crisis Is Passed.

Dr. John H. Reb of 328 Jay Street, Brooklyn, said late last night that the condition of Mrs. Catherine Smith, mother of Governor Smith, was more alarming than it had been at any time since she first became ill a month ago. The Governor is almost constantly at his mother's bedside at the house of his sister, Mrs. Mary Flynn, 9 Middagh Street, Brooklyn.

It is expected that a crisis will occur today which will definitely determine the outcome of the illness. Governor Smith will not return to Albany until this crisis is passed.

NEW CITIZEN SOON WEDS.

Ex-Soldier's Bride Made His Naturalization a Marriage Preliminary.

Jacob Shulman of 1,103 Washington Avenue, the Bronx, became a citizen of the United States yesterday and within an hour afterward married Miss Florence Hirsh of 783 East 181st Street. His appearance before Justice Tierney in the Bronx Supreme Court was the condition that made his marriage possible.

Shulman served with the 309th Machine Gun Battalion overseas. Miss Hirsh waited for his return. When he asked Miss Hirsh to marry him she pointed out that her husband must be 100 per cent. American. So the soldier took out citizenship papers and later was married by Deputy City Clerk McCabe.

Within three months a final decree of divorce will be entered and Mr. Keating will be free to marry again. The judgment prevents his wife from remarrying until he is actually dead. Mrs. Keating is the daughter of the late Oscar Hammerstein.

PHONE SERVICE HURT BY LACK OF GIRLS

HEARING REVEALS FAULTS

A shortage of 643 operators in the Boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx alone, an annual labor turnover of 37 per cent., a serious lack of equipment, a 20 per cent. increase in traffic and a 25 per cent. increase in the length of call since last year—these were the principal reasons given yesterday for the present poor telephone service by representatives of the New York Telephone Company at a hearing held in the Hall of Records by the Public Service Commission. Several of the chief operators of various district exchanges admitted that the service had reached a point at times when calls could not be answered.

The two principal officials of the company to testify were H. C. Carpenter, chief plant engineer, and T. P. Sylvan, chief assistant to the President, while J. L. Swayze, general counsel, assisted in the examination of the witnesses. The employes who appeared were Miss K. M. Schmitt, manager of the training school, and the following chief operators: Miss A. M. Stack, Orchard exchange; Miss J. T. Mooney, Bowling Green; Miss M. G. Cox, Main; Miss H. M. Prendergast, Richmond Hill, and Miss K. V. Pettitt, Audubon.

The fact was revealed that despite the increase of the annual wage of the girl operator from $659.80 to $841.91, since the first of the year, and the utilization of means of advertisement and inducement, the company has not been able to recruit a normal force of operators. At the present time the training school is supplying only enough new girls to take the place of those who are resigning. While Commissioner Fennell suggested through his questions that the condition might be remedied by paying the girls more than they were receiving, and that six years was too long a time during which to reach a maximum of $20 a week, the company's representatives insisted that the girls were satisfied with their wages, but that the chief cause was a dislike of night, Sunday, and holiday work. The rapid change in personnel is indicated by the fact that 50 per cent. of the losses are of girls who have been less than six months in the service. Of the present force 63 per cent. have been with the company more than two years, 50 per cent. more than three years, and 23 per cent. more than seven years.

The worst condition is apparently that revealed in the Orchard Exchange. Miss Stack testified that she was short thirty girls, and the traffic increased to such a point at times that it was impossible for the girls to answer the calls. Although she sometimes loses as many as fifteen operators in one month, she felt, as did the other chief operators examined, that an increase in pay would not hold the girls, as their chief objection was to the evening and night "tricks." She said the trouble was that the girl of today was thinking more of her evenings than she was of advancement.

Mr. Sylvan opened his testimony with an account of the elaborate device by which it has become possible to make a complete test of any exchange without the individual operators being aware that they are being tested.

An analysis of the causes of leaving the service was presented by Mr. Sylvan. A comparison of the figures of the first ten months of the year in New York State showed little difference in the total from the same months of last year. The individual causes were much the same except that during the present year twice as many gave marriage as a cause. From Jan. 1 to Oct. 31 the following numbers left the service:

Home duties	659
Return to school	182
Leaving city	266
Physical disability	269
Other employment	951
Hours of work	456
Wages	17
Other working conditions	333
Discouraged or indifferent	44
Miscellaneous causes	78
Reason not obtained	15

To cope with the situation in this city the company, Mr. Sylvan said, has brought into New York 147 out-of-town operators for whom it has provided dormitories and board. It has induced a certain number of former operators who have married to come back to work during the evening hours, and each of the girls now at work receives $5 for every friend she brings into the service. However, of the 14,889 girls who made application during the first ten months of this year, only 3,400 actually reached the switchboard, the others having been rejected.

The rapidity with which the demands for service overtook the plans of the company as soon as the armistice was signed was told by Mr. Carpenter. "In Manhattan and the Bronx, for example," he said, "the telephone engineers estimated that 13,800 subscriber lines would meet all needs for the year. They revised this estimate four times to meet conditions which no one could anticipate, and their last estimate, made on Aug. 15, called for nearly 41,000 new lines as compared with the original 13,800. On Jan. 1 it was figured that 16 switchboard sections and 8,200 switchboard lines would meet the needs of Manhattan and the Bronx. In August of this year the revised schedule of construction called for 266 switchboard sections and 45,400 switchboard lines."

Fred B. Gleason, General Contract Sales Manager of the Western Electric Co., which furnishes the telephone company with the greater part of its apparatus, denied that his company was paying more attention to foreign business because of large profits resulting from them, and said that none of the telephone equipment needed in this country had been diverted to foreign fields.

At the close of the session Commissioner Fennell said that since the officials of the company had testified that they "saw daylight ahead" as a result of the new equipment that was being installed, the Chief of the Division of Telegraphs and Telephones would visit the city frequently in the future to determine whether that daylight was actually appearing, and that another hearing would be held upon the matter as soon as the Chief or any one else interested calls for it.

MUFFINS TO AID COLLEGE.

Extensive plans for the Smith College $4,000,000 Endowment Fund Campaign were divulged yesterday at a meeting of the New York Smith Club at the Women's Cosmopolitan Club, 133 East Fortieth Street, chief of which was the sale of the Smith College muffin, made by Mrs. Allen Rushmore McKeon of 31 West Eleventh Street. Mrs. McKeon won the muffin championship for three successive years while she was in college.

ITALIAN SOCIALISTS ASSAIL UNITED STATES

ROME, Dec. 10.—Russia was to the fore again today in the Chamber of Deputies, when the Socialists branded England and the United States as most plutocratic of all States.

Deputy Ciccotti, Socialist, declared that an Anglo-American combination existed to make Odessa, Danzig, and Fiume centres from which to reach out and strangle Continental Europe.

The Socialist Deputy Professor Graziadei said:

"The Entente recruits adventurers against Russia and starves Russian women and children, as it has already starved those of Germany. We must proclaim our solidarity with Soviet Rus-

"The war was caused by Germany's opposition, first to British capitalism and plutocracy and then to American capitalism and plutocracy. For the same reason the Anglo-Saxon bloc is now against Russia, fearing the economic resurrection of Continental Europe. Everybody complains of the rate of exchange, such as that with America. That is because the war was a result of American plutocracy."

Deputy Graziadei urged opposition to Anglo-American hegemony, saying that for centuries Continental Europe had been covered with blood for the especial purpose of serving England's policy.

At the conclusion of the session Deputies Abbo and Capna rushed at each other in an effort to come to blows, but other members interfered.

ITALIANS ACQUIRE BIG AUSTRIAN IRON FIELD

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MILAN, Dec. 11.—One great stride toward freeing industrial Italy from its dependence upon foreigners for its supplies of iron ore and steel is announced. This consists in the acquisition of the rights of a big Austrian mining company hitherto known as the Alpine Montan Gesellschaft. These rights comprise control of one of the largest steel-producing districts in Europe. From its foundries at Erzberg in Styria alone the annual pre-war output exceeded 1,000,000 tons of finest quality steel. Experts estimate that the mine there can be worked advantageously for at least 200 years to come.

Among the industrial concerns connected with the purchase is the celebrated Fiat Motor Company of Turin.

Should the expectations of the Italian metallurgical world be justified Italy will within another twelve months or so be no longer under the necessity of seeking its steel and iron abroad. A considerable slump may be foreseen also in imports of finished metal goods, particularly agricultural and industrial machinery.

WHERE ARE THEY ALL?

Only Three Bow-Legged Girls Applied for This Job.

It appears that even in these days of common sense and practicability women are allowing vanity to rule them. The fact that there were only three girls who answered the following advertisement is significant:

GIRL wanted — one who is bow-legged — to play part of country girl in theatrical production; previous experience unnecessary. 423 Putnam Building, Times Square.

"We might have been misled a few seasons ago," said G. Gordon Bostock, who is conducting the quest, "for then the fashions were such that they concealed the extremities of the fair sex, but now they can't fool us. You just have to walk down the street to get a pretty good idea whether or not a girl is bow-legged now that they are wearing these Paris clothes.

"I thought, of course, that it would be a simple task to find some one for the place and believed that after the 'ad' appeared my office would be filled. Why, when I came in this morning a lot of the men I know were lined up in the lobby waiting for the procession to start, but it didn't start and it looks like I am going to have some trouble filling the place. I saw one girl on the street today who would have been just right, but I did not have the courage to speak to her and she was soon lost in the crowd.

FRANK WORK HEIRS BROKE WILL TERMS

GRANDSONS SHARE CUT

Roche Brothers Forfeited Half Interest by Failing to Assume Grandfather's Name.

An application filed in the Supreme Court yesterday by William H. Truesdale and Frank K. Sturgis, as executors under the will of Frank Work, financier and dry goods merchant, who died in 1911, leaving an estate of $14,000,000, for permission to file a final accounting of a fund created out of the estate, discloses for the first time the family settlement under which his daughter, Mrs. Frances Ellen Burke-Roche, and her twin sons, Edmund Maurice and Francis Roche, were permitted to share in the estate after they had violated the terms of the will. The trustees asked permission to account for a fund created by Mrs. Burke-Roche for her two sons.

The will left $2,716,917 to each of the grandsons, $2,682,202 to their sister, Cynthia, now the wife of Arthur Scott Burden; an equal amount to Mrs. Burke-Roche, and $1,177,287 to Mr. Work's other daughter, Lucy, who obtained a divorce several years ago from Peter Cooper Hewitt. The document provided that Mrs. Burke-Roche's income was to be $80,000 a year, but she was to be limited to $12,000 if she had anything further to do with her former English husband, James Jeffrey Burke-Roche. One of the codicils provided that if she was separated from Aurel Batonyi, formerly employed by Mr. Work as whip, and from whom she was divorced later, she was to get some allowance to be decided upon by the executors. Peter Cooper Hewitt became one of the trustees, but resigned after he had been divorced by Mr. Work's daughter.

The petition by the trustees for an accounting yesterday shows that the twin grandsons, who were to get nothing if they failed to take the name of Work and did not become naturalized Americans and make their permanent home in this country, have not complied with the terms, although their sister complied with the provision that she must marry an American and remain away from England while her father was living.

As disclosed by the petition, the heirs of the Work estate reached an agreement after Mr. Work's death by which the residuary estate was created into trust funds for the benefit of Mrs. Hewitt, Mrs. Roche and the latter's three children. Under this agreement the grandsons were to forfeit half their interest in the estate by wilfully violating the terms of the will in failing to assume the name of Work and becoming American citizens within a year. The trustees declared this share forfeited on Oct. 25, 1912, and out of their share paid Mrs. Hewitt $500,000 for her own use and put $500,000 in trust for such use as their sister, Mrs. Burden, might determine.

The trustees say they limited Mrs. Roche's income to $12,000, which was the sum fixed in one of the codicils, and gave the remaining $68,000 income from her share to her daughter, Mrs. Burden, and her sister, Mrs. Hewitt. Mrs. Burden on Feb. 20, 1914, established seven trust funds for the benefit of her mother and two brothers from the $500,000 in securities left to her, and it is for this fund that the trustees now ask an accounting.

When this country entered the war the Roche brothers sought an appointment to Plattsburg but found that their failure to become American citizens prevented it. It was reported in May, 1917, they had surmounted their difficulties in seeking to enroll for this country, and that Maurice had been admitted to the Harvard Unit, Officers' Reserve Training Corps, and Francis was a third-class yeoman in the Naval Reserves at Newport. They were graduated at Harvard in 1909.

NATIONAL COMMISSION HOLDS MEETING, BUT FAILS TO ACT ON YANKEES' THIRD PLACE CLAIM

COMMISSION HOLDS IMPORTANT MEETING

After numerous attempts to persuade Ban Johnson to attend a meeting of the National Commission the efforts of President Heydler of the National League, and Chairman August Herrmann were finally successful, and before Johnson left the city Thursday afternoon, the commission got together and inished up the business affairs of the ast world's series.

The meeting was a locked-door affair nd the Johnson policy of secrecy was losely followed. The recent announcement of August Herrmann to retire rom the commission within thirty ays probably means that Johnson's ower on the commission is at an end. or many years, club owners of both agues have objected to the Johnson-errmann combination in the baseball ourt for, as in the American League, ohnson has held sway also on the commission.

Thus far Johnson has successfully ocked all attempts to name a new hairman as authorized by a joint meetg of the major leagues here a year o. Johnson appointed Colonel Ruppert id Frank J. Navin to his committee id the National League appointed William F. Baker and William Veeck of hicago. Navin resigned and Johnson fused to meet the National League mmittee if Colonel Ruppert was esent.

The old Board of Directors of the nerican League passed a resolution me time ago asking the commission turn over its share of the world's ries receipts to the league and not to hnson, and this is one of the matters ich came before the commission at meeting here. The American League ht has upset all the routine plans of commission, and it is difficult to how they can be straightened out til the American League fight is setd.

World's Series Umpires.

The commission Thursday took up the tional League's request to establish a form plan of remuneration for the ld's series umpires. The umpires' nand for a $2,000 fee for the series ween the Reds and White Sox last ll was the reason for this action. commission will probably adopt a n whereby all the umpires on both National and American League ffs will benefit by the world's series tead of four of the umpires getting all. The fee used to be $500, then it is boosted to $1,000, and last Fall they manded $2,000. This demand was comomised in some manner which was identy satisfactory to the umpires, they have said nothing about it ce.

The National Commission lost much its effectiveness when the Athletics pealed from its decision in the Scott rry case a couple of seasons ago, an tion which resulted in President John Tener refusing to serve on the comission. Soon after this Governor ner resigned as President of the National League because of Johnson's acn in backing one of his club owners appealing from the decision of the mmission. It was the first action of kind since the baseball court was ganized, many years ago.

It is significant that the commission ok no action on the appeal of the Deoit Club against the Yankees' demand r third-place money. This is taken an indication that Johnson's attitude the Mays case is unchanged and at the New York Club's only redress ill be in the courts.

It was also significant that at the ajor leagues' meetings here during the st week no mention was made of the ne-game world's series, which was put to effect last Fall. No action was ken by the commission on the subect, so it is believed that the commison is in favor of the long series and ill not change the nine-game series hich was tried last season. President omiskey of the White Sox opposed the ng series from the start, and Johnson ow takes the opposite view. Several the National League club owners are id to favor the long series.

Work Is Held Up.

The annual meeting of the National ommission will be held in Cincinnati the first Monday in January, and, ith baseball in such an unsettled contion, it is difficult to see what the sult will be. There is a new agreeent with the minor leagues to conler, but nothing can be done until e committee of the minors meets the nt committee of the majors in Februy. All this was to have been done at meetings here this week, and the tional League was ready to proceed, t the American League appointed no ommittees, so it is doubtful if a new reement can be reached in time to go o operation by next season. In the antime, the majors will probably go ht ahead and do business with the nors in a haphazard way, which is e to result in endless complications r players.

f Mr. Herrmann lives up to the stand ich he took before his own league mbers and is not a candidate for reection at the meeting in Cincinnati in nuary, the commission will be witht a chairman because as Johnson has t filled the vcancy on the American ague committee caused by the resignan of Mr. Navin of Detroit, there is no ssibility of the joint committee naming ndidates for the chairmanship. The surgent members of the American ague are trying to force Johnson to ke some action in this matter, but this, e all the affairs of the American eague, is just now in a very chaotic ate.

When a new commission is organized a w arrangement will probably be folwed about that body being the custon of all moneys coming from the rld's series. The insurgent club owns have taken up this point in their ve for a new condition of affairs. ey believe that the world's series ney piles up to too high a sum for the mmission to hold, and they believe t the two leagues should handle their res separately.

While the so-called sinking fund over ich the commission has had jurisdicion in the past may have reached a large sum, these funds were pretty well depleted because of the cost of the Fedral League war. At one time Chairnan Herrmann received a salary of 12,000, but this was reduced when the Federal League war was on. The Baltimore suit cost considerable money and t is not yet settled, the forces of oranized ball having taken an appeal rom the decision of Judge Stafford in Washington declaring baseball a violaon of the laws against the restraint of rade.

Seek Prompt Action.

Herrmann's withdrawal in January, which would leave the commission without a head, would result in a deadlock in all matters of dispute between the two major leagues. This would tie up the affairs of the leagues in a bad way. The club owners of the two leagues have been considering for some time what the future has in store, so it will not be surprising if strong influence is brought to bear on Johnson and his league to confer with the National League as soon as possible on the selection of a new Chairnan.

The National League's attitude is known, and President Heydler and his league are willing to take action on the new Chairman at any time. It is President Johnson and the five club owners who are supporting him in his present policies which are holding up the smooth working of the executive end of the game.

Warrant for Jess Willard as Profiteer in Cordwood

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 12.—A Federal warrant charging profiteering in the sale of cordwood, a violation of the Lever act, was issued late today for Jess Willard, former heavyweight champion. Willard, who was at his home near Lawrence, Kan., when notified by telephone of the Federal action, said that he would appear voluntarily tomorrow in the Federal Court at Kansas City, Kan., to answer the charge.

The warrant names members of a fuel committee of Topeka, Kan., as having purchased cordwood from Willard. It is alleged that Willard asked and received $3.50 a cord for wood on the stump from his farm near Topeka. That amount, the District Attorney asserts, is double what it should have been. Attorney General Palmer has been notified of the action taken.

JOHNSON APPEALS IN CARL MAYS CASE

League President Carries Fight to Appellate Division—Yanks to Battle for Money.

President Ban Johnson of the American League made another move in the legal fight with the New York Club yesterday when it was announced that his attorneys had taken an appeal from the decision of Justice Wagner in the Carl Mays case. Mr. Johnson had intimated when he came here from Chicago to attend the league meeting on Wednesday that no appeal would be taken and his secretary, William Harridge, also stated that he did not believe the legal fight would be continued.

These intimations were taken as an indication that Johnson would probably let the Mays case drop and thus take a long step toward restoring normal conditions in the league. The time limit for ta'ing an appeal expired yesterday and, after the courts closed, Mr. Johnson's attorneys filed their appeal. They served notice of appeal to the Appellate Division, Part 1, from the order made by Justice Wagner granting a temporary injunction, pending the trial of the case.

Attorneys for the New York club stated yesterday that they would grant no extension of time for the appeal, as they want to have it come to trial as soon as possible. The appeal will probably be heard some time in January. Whether Justice Wagner's decision is sustained or not the Mays case will eventually come to trial and this means that third place money, which is claimed by the Yankees, will be held up until the case is finally settled.

Decline to Split Money.

In the meantime, the New York club's attorneys will carry the claims of the New York club for third place to the courts, and it is not unlikely that the controversy will be carried along for a long time. President Frank J. Navin of the Detroit club, while he was in this city at the league meeting, made a proposition to the New York club to split third place money. This offer was flatly refused by the New York club on behalf of their players. The amount due the players is something over $19,000.

All talk of a reconciliation with Johnson is frowned upon by the three insurgent clubs, New York, Boston, and Chicago, and if Johnson should call a special meeting, Colonel Huston said yesterday that the three clubs would not recognize his authority by attending. They assume that the February schedule meeting will be called legally as authorized in the constitution, and they do not expect to meet their fellow club owners until that time.

The insurgents mean to stick to their legal campaign in their effort to prove that Johnson is holding office illegally under his alleged twenty-year tenure of office contract. The existence of such a contract is denied by the insurgents, and all attempts thus far to have Mr. Johnson produce the paper have been unsuccessful. Judging from their present attitude, the insurgents do not plan to show any quarter until they bring about a condition in the league where its affairs will be conducted by the Board of Directors and not by the President alone.

Real Battle Promised.

If the present strained relations should continue after the baseball season opens next Summer, the pennant fight is sure to show the effects of the ill-feeling which exists. The teams will battle with bitter rivalry and with the American League pennant winners, the Chicago White Sox, the Yankees and Boston on one side and Cleveland and Detroit on the other, the games promise to develop into real battles.

There is already bitter feeling between the Yankee and Detroit players over Detroit's protest of the third place money, and no matter how this is settled it will be a long time before the bitterness dies out. President Navin disclaims all responsibility for the protest and said that his players demanded it.

Manager Miller Huggins of the New York club returned to his home in Cincinnati yesterday very much disappointed that he could find no one ready to talk trades with him. While in the city Manager Connie Mack of the Athletics said that he had taken a firm stand on selling players and would never sell any of his players again. When he met Colonel Huston of the Yankees at the meeting he said: "Colonel, you said one thing about me that was true when you said that I didn't have a ball club. I guess I haven't one, but I hope to get one together before the season is over."

Huggins had a long talk with Manager Clark Griffith before he left town. Griffith is looking for pitchers and Huggins is searching high and low for a good outfielder. They talked for an hour about possible trades, and when they finished they were just where they started. Manager Huggins expects to get back here after the holidays and send out the contracts for next season.

"ARMED TRUCE" IN LEAGUE.

Comiskey So Refers to Situation in the American League.

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—Whatever peace may exist in the American League as a result of the meeting in New York may be described as an "armed truce," Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago Americans, said today on his return from the East. Comiskey is a member of the faction opposed to President Johnson.

The business of the league is at a standstill and another meeting will have to be called to lay plans for the 1920 season, according to Comiskey.

"We have no Schedule Committee nor have we transacted any other business usually cleared up at the December meeting," Comiskey said. "I have not changed my mind in any way about the American League and I am convinced it will do no good to talk compromise. What will be done hereafter remains to be seen.

"I have been quoted as having suggested a peace proposition. I never did any such thing. Neither did I vote for myself as Vice President of the league."

Game for Holy Name Five.

CARPENTIER SEEKS MATCH FOR TITLE

French Heavyweight Challenges Jack Dempsey Through International Boxing Union.

The French heavyweight, who recently won the championship of Europe by knocking out Joe Beckett in one minute and ten seconds, addressed the challenge, through his manager, Descamps, in care of the Secretary of the International Boxing Union. Carpentier offers to meet Dempsey at any place for the best purse offered at any time mutually agreed upon. Manager Descamps, it is announced, has deposited the sum of 50,000 francs with a Paris sporting publication as a guarantee to bind the match and a pledge of Carpentier's sincerity.

The direct challenge issued by Georges Carpentier to Jack Dempsey to fight for the world's heavyweight championship virtually assures a match during the coming year. The American titleholder has expressed his willingness to face the French boxer and there remains only the agreement on the terms and conditions to govern the contest.

When the articles of agreement finally are signed it will be found that all former purses and other inducements given to champion heavyweights in the past will have been dwarfed into insignificance by the sums to be handed to the boxers for the first international ring battle of importance in many years. Johnson and Jeffries divided $101,000 for their Reno bout and the Willard-Dempsey purse at Toledo amounted to almost $150,000. Dempsey and Carpentier are quite likely to battle for a purse approximately twice as large as that offered for the Willard-Dempsey match. The division probably will be arranged upon a 60 and 40 per cent. basis, the larger share to go to the winner, or as the agreement may call for.

Several American and European fight promoters of strong financial standing are already endeavoring to sign the two heavyweights to binding contracts. The contest to secure their signatures promises to be a bitter and exciting struggle in which sums running into hundreds of thousands of dollars will be offered in turn by rival promoters.

The date of the bout can be set down for midsummer, but the location of the ring is a matter of much speculation. Shrewd ring followers express doubt that England would supply the huge gate receipts necessary to successfully finance such a match as neither of the contestants would have the drawing power of a Briton. Owing to the intense French pride in the ring achievements of Carpentier, France probably would supply a record gate, but there is some doubt whether Dempsey would agree to box Carpentier there unless certain restrictions were placed in the articles of agreement.

The impression appears to be growing in America that Carpentier will prove to be one of the best opponents to face the champion since the latter donned gloves. The Frenchman, a ring veteran of long experience, is credited with being an exceedingly clever boxer and a fast two-handed, hard-hitting fighter.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 12.—Jack Kearns, manager for Jack Dempsey, said today he had not heard directly from Georges Carpentier, who was said by a Paris dispatch today to have issued a challenge to Dempsey for a bout for the heavyweight championship of the world.

SPIKED SHOES UNDER BAN.

Compaign Is Started to Punish Athletes Violating the Rule.

Drastic measures will be taken by the Metropolitan A. A. U. Registration Committee to prevent athletes from wearing spiked shoes in indoor competition. This was disclosed yesterday by Jacob W. Stumpf, Chairman of the Registration Committee, who said he was prepared to deal out punishment to offenders against this A. A. U. rule, who are brought before his committee and found guilty. Disqualification for an extended period and perhaps permanently, Mr. Stumpf said, would be the penalty.

Chairman Stumpf was discussing rumors which had reached him concerning reported attempts at violation of the A. A. U. rule, which prohibits the use of spiked shoes in indoor meets. The rumors were heard soon after the board floor season started, and members of the Registration Committee have been vigilant, in succeeding meets, in their effort to detect the culprits. Armory officials have been enlisted in the search for offenders.

It was learned last night that the Registration Committee had under consideration a plan which would stop any tendency to violate this rule. Chairman Stumpf is advocating the use of a paper arrangement upon which runners would be requested to tread before going to the starting mark.

Reports have reached the committee that spikes have been used on several occasions in the local indoor meets and have at times left plainly visible tracks in the armory floors. The tracks, however, were not discovered until it was too late to conduct an investigation. A double reason is furnished for the eagerness of the athletic authorities to secure evidence against an athlete who violates the rules in this respect. It is pointed out that not only is it unfair to other runners to be asked to compete against a man who wears spiked shoes but the practice is detrimental to the amateur sport, inasmuch as armory officials are incensed over the ruinous effect spiked shoes have on the floors where meets are conducted.

LAFAYETTE PURSE GOES TO THE BOY

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 12.—Threatening clouds had their effect on the attendance at the Jefferson Park race track, but a fair-sized crowd was in attendance and saw some good sport, as the course had dried out and was in prime condition. For a time it looked like another field day for the form players, for two favorites and two second choices galloped home in front in the first four events. Then the long-shot artists got busy and put over the last three in a row at 8 to 1, 10 to 1, and 12 to 1.

The featured event on the card this afternoon was the Lafayette Purse, a six-furlong dash for horses of all ages, in which there were ten starters. The winner turned up in The Boy, Turner's fleet chestnut son of Celt, which moved up with a rush after the first two furlongs had been covered and held the challenging favorite, War Garden, safe in the flash down the stretch, winning by half a length. War Garden saved much ground, but was in close quarters during the last half furlong. Ira Wilson was well up all the way and had no difficulty whatever in annexing the third segment of the purse.

Seven good youngsters entered the lists in the Hammond Purse, a race at six furlongs for two-year-olds, run as the fourth on the card. Attaboy II., owned by J. O. Talbott, carried most of the wise money, and evens was the gelding's price at post time. Bread Man was next in favor with the crowd, and they finished in that order, with Swirl coming along to take the small end of the purse.

Attaboy Never in Trouble.

Attaboy was away forwardly when the barrier was lifted and Coltiletti took him into the lead in the first quarter, passing Red Domino, which flashed a bit of early speed and then quit. Bread Man got off poorly, but moved up steadily under the urging of Williams, and ran a nice race, although unable to come nearer the winner than a length and a half at the finish.

There were thirteen starters in the mile and a sixteenth race for three-year-olds and upward, and Capitol City was the one to catch the eyes of the judges in a driving finish. The winner got as high as 15 to 1 in the early betting, and then was backed down to tens. He ran a good race, moving up steadily and passing Willigan in the last sixteenth. The latter was a length and a half ahead of Indian Spring, which finished third.

The first race on the card was a mile scramble for maidens of all ages, and it developed a "good thing" in Courcelles, C. Buxton's three-year-old daughter of Macdonald. Bob Baker was favorite in the early quotations, with Courcelles held in respect at 4 to 1. The respect increased rapidly as the money began to pile in, and the best obtainable at post time was 5 to 2, while there was 5 to 1 in plenty to be had against Bob Baker. The Gallant and Revolution carried a good bit of the public's money, too.

Courcelles Shows Speed.

Courcelles was away in the ruck at the start, and young Buxton rated her along well back in the field of twelve. On the first turn Bob Baker, out in front with Montague, swerved, and caused a bad jam. Courcelles avoided this, and when let down ran as if she outclassed the others. She came away in the stretch to win as her rider pleased, which was by a margin of four lengths. Revolution moved up with a rush after passing the four-furlong pole, and held on in the stretch with sufficient obstinacy to stand off The Gallant for the place honors. The latter was easily third best.

Another large field went to the barrier in the six-furlong dash, which was second on the program. There was another good thing in this event. It was Phrone Ward, which opened on even terms with Little Maudie at 3 to 1. Phrone Ward receded to fives, and then the "educated money" piled in, and 5 to 2 was the best available when the starter let the fourteen three-year-olds go.

Phrone Ward turned out to be a false alarm when it came to racing, tiring badly after flattering its backers in the early stages. Little Maudie made every post a winning one, and had five lengths on Miss Manage at the wire. The latter held on well in the stretch, and finished gamely. Sarasota had trouble to get through until the stretch was reached, but then had clear sailing and made up lots of ground, nosing out Discord for the show money.

BILL SIMMONS WINS.

Eight-to-One Shot Captures Six-Furlong Dash on Havana Track.

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 12.—The card offered by the Oriental Park management today was made up of six claiming events, and the racing was of the ordinary kind. In the opening event, a six-furlong dash, Bill Simmons opened at 20 to 1, but the play was so strong on him that he was knocked down to 8 to 1 at the close. He was off none too well, but was fortunate to get an opening on the inside and, taking the lead in the last sixteenth, won easily by two lengths from Quin, which in turn was a length in front of Tranby. The even money favorite, Robert L. Owen, was never troublesome.

Major Domo, in winning the fourth event, showed that he is a sprinter when he easily led home a good field. He was last at the far turn, but raced up fast, was fortunate all the way and won by a length from the favorite, Marion Holins, which in turn was a nose ahead of the fast coming Goldstone. Pierrot made it two in a row when he won the third race by a head from King Tuscon, with Legacy third about three lengths back. King Worth quit badly in the sprint and was beaten by Magnet Land, which came with a rush and won by half a length. King Worth was one and a half lengths in front of Harlock. O'Malley, under Crump's good ride, managed to win the fifth race by a neck from Duke of Shelby, with Little Nearer third. The last race went to Silver Sandals.

May Maulsby, in the third race, fell soon after the start, and Archambault was shaken up and forced to cancel all of his remaining engagements for the afternoon.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE—For three-year-olds and upward; claiming; six furlongs; purse $600. Bill Simmons, 113 pounds, (Finley), 8 to 1, 4 to 1, and 2 to 1, first; Quin, 113, (Smith), 7 to 1, 5 to 2, and 6 to 5, second; Tranby, 114, (Maderia), 4 to 1, 8 to 5, and 4 to 5, third. Time—1:14. Commerce Wins in Basket Ball.

High School of Commerce's basket ball quintet closed its Public Schools Athletic League championship series last night with a victory over the Stuyvesant H. S. five at the C. C. N. Y. gymnasium by a score of 31 to 13. The first half of the game was closely contested, and ended with Commerce leading by 13 to 10. In the second half Commerce's offensive improved, and the team buried Stuyvesant in defeat. Ely Jacobs and Rosenberg led the Commerce team to victory, accounting for twenty-three of their team's points between them. This success gave the Commerce five its fourth victory over Manhattan and Bronx schools, and as a result the west side lads are claiming the Manhattan-Bronx P. S. A. L. title.

RALPH GREENLEAF IS POOL CHAMPION

STANDING OF PLAYERS.
Pocket Billiard Tourney.

E. Ralph	2	7	22	.222

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 12.—Ralph Greenleaf of Wilmington, Del., won the pocket billiard championship of the United States tonight by defeating Edward I. Ralph, Hightstown, N. J., 125 to 53 in the national American pocket billiard tournament. Greenleaf has one game to play, but even though he should lose this match he would still win the title. He has won eight straight.

Greenleaf, who is 22 years old, won tonight's match in eighteen innings, the third shortest of the tournament. He had a high run of 70, which stands second to Bennie Allen's world's record run of 81, made in the present competition. Ralph's high run was 22.

The youthful star outclassed his veteran opponent and had a high run of 70, which started in the third frame. The run included all fourteen balls in the fourth, fifth, sixth, and seventh frames and nine balls in the eighth frame. This took all the heart out of Ralph and he missed shots after that which a tyro could have made with ease, Greenleaf winning by an unfinished run of 5 in the fourteenth frame. This victory gave Greenleaf eight consecutive triumphs.

Keogh and Allen are tied for second place, each having won six games and lost two. They will meet tomorrow in the final match of their schedule. There is a triple tie for fourth place between Louis D. Krueter, New York, Concannon, and Seaback. They have completed their schedules and each has five victories to his credit and four defeats. John M. Layton, Columbia, Missouri, stands seventh, Maturo is eighth, Ralph ninth, and Morris D. Fink, Philadelphia, tenth. Layton won three games and lost five. He still has one to play, but the result will not change the standing. Maturo won three and lost six, Ralph won two and lost seven, while Fink won but one of his nine matches.

Greenleaf has one more game to play, meeting John M. Layton of Missouri tomorrow evening in the final match of the tourney, but even if Layton should pull the unexpected and stop the sensational youngster, the title still goes to Greenleaf, as both of his nearest opponents, Bennie Allen and Jerome Keogh, have lost two games. The score by frames:

Greenleaf—0 6 8 14 14 14 14 9 13 5 6 14 8 5. Total, 130. Scatches, 5. Net score, 125. Safeties, 4. High run, 70.

Ralph—14 8 6 0 0 0 0 5 1 9 8 0 6 1. Total, 58. Scratches, 5. Net score, 53. Safeties, 3. High run, 19.

By defeating James Maturo of Colorado Springs, by a score of 125 to 70, Jerome Keogh of Rochester tonight tied with Benny Allen of Kansas City for second place in the tournament, each man having won 6 games and lost 2. They meet tonight in the curtain raiser to the final game between Greenleaf and Layton.

The veteran Keogh clearly outplayed his Western rival at every stage of the game, and, with high runs of 17 and 26 in close proximity, soon took a commanding lead. Keogh played a remarkable position game, and his judgment on safety play was almost perfect. Maturo's best effort was 19.

The score by frames:

Keogh—8 12 14 3 12 9 1 8 0 13 13 10 14 6 5. Total—128. Forfeits—3. Net score—125. Safeties—7. High run—26.

Maturo—6 2 0 11 2 5 13 6 14 1 1 4 0 8 0. Total—73. Forfeits—3. Net score—70. Safeties—5. High run—19.

Referee—Peterson.

Joseph Concannon, the Brooklyn pocket billiard expert, lost a golden opportunity to tie for third money when he dropped his last game in the tourney this afternoon to Charles Seaback. The final score was 125 to 54 in favor of the Hartford man. This leaves a three-cornered deadlock for fourth money, $750, between Seaback, Concannon, and Krueter, their totals standing five won and four lost.

The score by frames:

Seaback—4 14 8 14 1 10 14 9 14 14 5 7 12. Total—126. Scratches, 1; net score, 125. Safeties—6. High run—34.

Concannon—10 0 6 0 13 4 0 5 0 0 9 7 0. Total—54. Scratches—None. Safeties—7. High run—16.

POSTPONE BILLIARD GAMES.

Fuel Regulations Cause Action in National Class C Tournament.

Play in the national Class C 18.2 balkline billiard tournament, under the auspices of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players, has been indefinitely postponed. It had been in progress at Lawler Brothers' Academy in Brooklyn, but it was found advisable to postpone the matches because of the fuel regulations. Following this action the players who have qualified to compete in the final round for the championship requested that the tournament be postponed until after the Christmas holidays. The Executive Committee has the matter under consideration, and is expected to hand down its decision today. It is believed that the request of the players will be granted.

DUNN DIES FROM WOUND.

Was Well Known in Sports Circles as Announcer and Promoter.

The funeral of John P. Dunn, known in the sporting world as "Johnny" Dunn, who a few years ago was popular as an announcer and promoter of fistic and wrestling bouts, will be held from his home, 543 Pine Street, Brooklyn, tomorrow afternoon. His death occurred yesterday at the Kings County Hospital from stab wounds self-inflicted a week ago yesterday.

Dunn, for many years a manager of boxers, later acted as announcer at local boxing clubs. He was at one time manager of Matty Matthews. He was identified with the Broadway Sporting Club in Brooklyn when boxing flourished here.

88 PLAYERS ENTER SQUASH TOURNEY

With eighty-eight of the leading squash tennis players of America in the draw, one of the largest entry lists on record, the national handicap tournament begins this afternoon on the courts of the Columbia University Club, some of the first round matches having been moved forward from Monday, the date originally scheduled for the start, because of the unexpected size of the event. An attempt will be made to clean up the opening brackets of the entire upper half, although no defaults will be registered until next week.

On the eve of starting the annual handicap race, however, several competitors announced their intention of dropping out, among them being Anderson Dana of the Harvard Club, whose absence from the city will necessitate his defaulting. Dana carried one of the heaviest handicaps in the list, minus 9, having earned the honor by winning the Fall open scratch tournament, with second place in the Yale Club's invitation event. His brilliant play will be sadly missed next week.

But there are plenty of stars competing and the allowance and imposition of aces promise to make practically every match close. Charles M. Bull, Jr., winner of the Yale tourney, and A. J. Cordier are adjudged the strongest racqueters in the draw, both being handicapped by the necessity of starting each game from minus 10. Jay Gould, the open court tennis title-holder and squash champion of the Columbia Club, ranks just below these two experts with an imposition of minus 9. C. J. MacGuire, W. J. Knapp, F. Sellars, A. E. Ells, H. R. Mixsell, Livingston Platt, W. H. Putnam, H. D. Harvey, J. A. Richards, R. E. Fink, E. J. Clapp, Harold Tobey, H. Satterlee, A. W. Riley, E. C. Olds, Donald Mackay, W. P. Sanger and Kenneth Bulkley are the other players below the line of scratch and represent the solid class of the tournament.

This talent is distributed fairly evenly through the draw, and, if there are any early upsets it will be chiefly because of the wide latitude of the handicaps, some of the newcomers receiving as many as five aces above the line in every game.

First Round—Upper half: J. Turner, Harvard, plus 5, vs. A. Jenkins, Montclair, plus 4; C. J. MacGuire, Yale, minus 3, vs. R. B. Luchers, Montclair, plus 4; Anderson Dana, Harvard, minus 9, vs. F. Sellars, Montclair, minus 2; W. J. Knapp, Squash Club, minus 3, vs. R. G. Coburn, Harvard, minus 2; C. W. Dingey, Crescent A. C., plus 5, vs. C. M. Bull, Jr., Squash Club, minus 10; W. S. Seamans, Harvard, plus 5, vs. H. W. Warner, Columbia, plus 4; G. Piel, New York A. C., scratch, vs. L. Bradford, Yale, plus 2; A. E. Ells, Harvard, minus 3, vs. J. N. Burden, Harvard, plus 5; W. C. Fink, Englewood, minus 5; E. J. Clapp, Yale, minus 3, vs. F. S. Whitlock, Harvard, plus 3; R. E. Wigham, Columbia, plus 3, vs. R. Catlin, Princeton, plus 2; Harold Tobey, Princeton, minus 5, vs. H. SUBMITS TENNIS RANKING.

Committee of National Association Reports to Executive Board.

The Executive Committee of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association held its annual meeting at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel yesterday afternoon and evening, transacting a great variety of business and hearing the reports of a number of sub-committees, including that which ranks the tennis players for the season of 1919. The details of the meeting and the findings of the committees will be officially announced later by Field Secretary Paul B. Williams.

The actual executive board of the association was represented by eleven members—Julian S. Myrick, Acting President in the absence of George T. Adee; Edwin F. Torrey, Secretary; Alfred H. Chapin, Treasurer; Edwin Sheafe of Boston, Joseph W. Jennings of Philadelphia, A. Y. Leach, Jr., of Chicago, Clinton L. Childs of Pittsburgh, Craig Biddle of Philadelphia, Richard Norris Williams, 2d, of Boston, H. W. Slocum and Watson M. Washburn of New York.

Abraham Bassford, Jr., reported for the ranking committee, whose work this year has been based upon a system of mathematical calculations by means of actual scores throughout the season, rather than by the old-fashioned general comparison of victories and defeats. G. A. L. Dionne represented the Ball Committee, Edward C. Conlin the Umpires' Association, and S. Wallis Merrihew the Rules Committee, all of whom have been exceedingly active of late.

It was understood that the Rules Committee would take action on the peculiar decision which has stood unchallenged for years, that a ball may be played after it has hit the back-stop, provided it bounced fairly within the court, and has not again hit the ground.

Watson M. Washburn was an important speaker of the evening as chairman of the committee on the revision of the constitution. Altogether no less than thirty-four different matters of business were brought to the attention of the Executive Committee.

Among the minor committees to report were those on the Davis Cup, the qualifications for the national doubles, the Women's Advisory Committee, and the committee on the regulation for junior and boys' tournaments. The Ranking Committee, whose report this season is awaited with unusual interest, includes Walter T. Hayes of Chicago, Harry C. Johnson of Boston, Paul W. Gibbons of Philadelphia, and Conrad B. Doyle of Washington, in addition to Abraham Bassford, Jr., of Hartsdale, the Chairman. Last night's session of the lawn tennis executives lasted until a late hour.

NICKALLS TO COACH YALE.

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 12.—Guy Nickalls was invited today by the Yale Board of Athletic Control to become head crew coach at the university to succeed Professor Mather Abbott, who has left Yale. The appointment of Nickalls was recommended by the Graduate Rowing Committee, which had received assurances from Nickalls, who is in England, that he would accept the post.

Nickalls coached Yale's crews for four years, 1914 to 1917, inclusive, leaving to enter the Engineering Corps of the British Army, in which he served until the end of the war. Before coming to this country he had gained prominence in rowing at Oxford and as coach of the Leander crews. He held the Diamond Sculls championship for two years. He is a brother of Vivian Nickalls, former Pennsylvania crew coach.

ASKS FOR STADIUM IN CENTRAL PARK

A. A. U. Submits Plan to Board of Estimate—Fund of $1,000,000 Provided.

RESERVOIR SITE FAVORED

A stadium embodying all the essential features for the holding of important amateur athletic events, including international, national, and Olympic games, competitions on track and field, swimming, tennis, basketball and important collegiate football games, will be installed in Central Park, if plans of the Amateur Athletic Union materialize. The funds for the stadium will be provided by Mrs. Isaac L. Rice and the children of the deceased submarine and torpedo boat inventor, who are willing to provide a fund of $1,000,000 to erect a fitting memorial to the memory of Mr. Rice.

The first step towards a realization of the plan was taken yesterday, when the details for the proposed stadium were submitted for consideration at the meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. Plans were furnished showing that the stadium would include all the essentials for a huge public playground and athletic field, which would furnish the recreational facilities on an extensive scale so long sought by local A. A. U. officials and many prominent citizens. The request for official sanction to the project was referred to the Committee on City Plan and Public Improvements and Chief Engineer Nelson P. Lewis. The committee and Engineer Lewis will investigate and report back to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment at the next meeting of the board.

Sentiment in local athletic circles is strongly in favor of such an athletic field in the metropolitan district. For years a campaign has been carried on in which prominent citizens and leaders in athletics sought to impress upon city officials the necessity of such a field and the benefits which would accrue to the city's population. The first request for such a stadium was made as far back as almost twenty years ago, and from year to year since, through successive administrations, efforts have been renewed to have the city supply this long wished for necessity. Always, however, the financial expenditure entailed in such a plan has blocked all efforts to install the stadium and playground.

Would Use Reservoir Site.

Officials who support the present plan are hopeful that the project will receive official sanction and that work will soon be begun to make a reality of what has long been a dream. It was pointed out yesterday that the greatest objection which has been encountered heretofore is eliminated in the present case. Mrs. Rice and her children are prepared to furnish the funds necessary for the project and a site has been specified. It remains, however, for the plan to receive official sanction before further progress can be made in the matter.

The plan submitted yesterday provides for the conversion of the northern reservoir of the two old reservoirs in Central Park, which were abandoned by the Board of Water Supply several years ago. One-half of this site, the northern half, could be utilized, say A. A. U. officials, for the playground and stadium, without conflicting with the proposal to erect a memorial to the late Mayor John Purroy Mitchel, which is now under consideration by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

This northern reservoir lies between Eighty-second and Eighty-fifth Streets at a point which would be marked by Sixth and Seventh Avenues if those thoroughfares were prolonged. A wall completely shutting it off from the rest of the Park, surrounds this reservoir, and in the plans of the architects for the proposed stadium provision is made for the retention of this wall. The entrance to the field would be through an archway on the transverse road which crosses Central Park at Eighty-sixth Street. This plan has been adopted in order to overcome the objection raised a few years ago when the late James E. Sullivan sought to have a stadium built in Central Park. At that time opponents of the plan raised the point that the crowds attending the events held at the athletic ground would trample the grass and shrubbery and otherwise deface the Park property.

If the present plans are carried through, the crowds would only be able to reach the field by way of the transverse road, which is utilized by surface lines and public vehicles at the present time. The level of the field would be about thirty-five feet below the grade of the surrounding park property.

Rubien Discusses Plan.

Frederick W. Rubien, Secretary-Treasurer of the Amateur Athletic Union, who divulged the plans for the proposed stadium yesterday, was hopeful that the matter would receive official indorsement. "The need for recreation facilities is becoming more evident every day," said Mr. Rubien in discussing the plan. "As these reservoirs in Central Park are useless and neglected, this space could be used to good advantage for a playground, athletic field, and stadium, and would help beautify the park. The work of increasing the recreation facilities in New York has been sadly neglected during the last fifteen years and little or no improvements have been made in the last ten years.

"If the plan of the Rice memorial should be carried through, the new field would be available for important fixtures in the athletic world, and at the same time would afford an ideal place for the development of the city's young. After all, that is and has been the important desire—to provide plenty of facilities where the youngsters of the city could romp and enjoy themselves to their hearts' content outdoor and at the same time, through activity on modern athletic paraphernalia, obtain exercise which would make of them better and healthier men and women in later years. If the field is indorsed, too, it would be possible to conduct important international, national, intercollegiate, and public school track and field activities, together with Olympic tryouts, tennis matches, basketball games, swimming championships, and important football games. This city, therefore, would take its place as the greatest athletic centre in the world."

The plans for the proposed playground and athletic field include a quarter-mile track with a 220-yard straightaway, a football field, a stadium capable of accommodating a crowd of 10,000, basketball courts, open air swimming pool measuring 100 by 300 feet, with grand stands erected on both ends of the pool, and men's and women's dressing rooms, mothers' and children's house comfort and milk station; children's wading pool, children's play field, fountain, outdoor gymnasium for boys, outdoor gymnasium for girls, and tennis courts.

Revelations anent the physical condition of the nation's young manhood, furnished when the Draft act was put into operation, impelled Mrs. Rice to offer to provide the proposed stadium as a memorial to her late husband. It is understood that Mrs. Rice at first planned to have a hospital erected to the memory of Mr. Rice, but when the Government statistics on the draftees disclosed the enormous percentage which was absolutely ineligible for service because of physical disability, Mrs. Rice decided to alter her plans and substitute a huge playground and athletic field where it would be possible to provide early physical development. With this plan in mind Mrs. Rice conferred with Amateur Athletic Union officials and a committee was appointed to consult with Mrs. Rice on the project.

The committee consisted of Justice Bartow S. Weeks, Commissioner Murray Hulbert, Jeremiah T. Mahoney, Gustavus T. Kirby, and Frederick W. Rubien. This committee submitted its plans and subsequently Mrs. Rice summoned her architects and requested that they prepare plans embodying the ideas and suggestions of the A. A. U. officials.

COLUMBIA TO MEET N. Y. U.

The intercollegiate basket ball season in this city will get under way this evening, when Columbia and New York University play their annual game in the Morningside gymnasium. It will be the Violet's first appearance at Columbia in several years, and judging from the form displayed in practice by Coach Ed. Thorp's charges the revival of the traditional clash will see a close score game.

A stiff workout yesterday afternoon completed Columbia's preparation for the opening contest, Coach Claus D. Benson putting the five through a long scrimmage with the second team. He also made a change in the makeup of the 'Varsity, sending Johnson, the negro star, back to his old position at centre in place of Horowitz, who has been showing uncertain form in practice. To fill the gap left at forward Benson shifted Tynan from a guard position and gave Stutz, a second string player, his first chance with the regulars. The latter will be the only new face in the Blue and White lineup, the rest of the team having seen service last year.

Captain Farrell will again be at forward and will share with Johnson the foul throwing assignment. Tynan will act as a running mate of the Blue and White leader, with Sam Weinstein, the football end, playing at his usual post at guard.

As a preliminary to the main game the freshman teams of the two schools will come together in their first contest of the season. Pullyn, who starred in the Columbia yearlings' back field this Fall, will start tonight's game, but the rest of the lineup is still in doubt. The preliminary game will begin at 7:30 and the main clash an hour later.

COLUMBIA.		N. Y. U.
Tynan	R. F.	Storey
Farrell	L. F.	Cann
Johnson	C.	Mooney
Weinstein	R. G.	Delaney
Stutz	L. G.	Goeler

ROTH'S GOAL WINS GAME.

Basket Made in Final Minute of Play Gives Pratt Institute Victory.

Buddy Roth's spectacular goal from the field in the last minute of play gave the Pratt Institute basket ball team a victory over the St. John's College of Brooklyn quintet in a keenly contested game last night on the Pratt court in Brooklyn, by the slim margin of 32 to 30. The victorious goal by Roth ended the keenest college game of the early local season.

From start to finish of the contest the teams battled along almost on even terms, the lead alternating frequently up to the final minute of play. In the first half the Pratt Institute players managed to emerge with a three-point advantage in a score of 14 to 11, but this lead was soon overcome in the second half by the St. John's collegians. The lead changed from one team to the other over the greater part of the second half until Roth shot his winning goal. This counter was one of the six the Pratt forward accounted for during the struggle. Roth also scored ten foul tallies. Damico, a St. John's forward, was the big gun in his team's play, scoring eight field goals and five from foul.

The lineup:

PRATT (32).		ST. JOHN'S (30).
Roth	R. F.	Damico
Schafran	L. F.	Keenan
Kruser	C.	Froehlich
Hanau	R. G.	Murphy
De Land	L. G.	Circillo

Field goals—Roth (6), Schafran (4), Kruser, Damico (8), Froehlick (4). Goals from foul—Roth (10), Damico (5), Froehlick. Referee—Ed Thorp, De La Salle Institute. Time of halves—Twenty minutes.

Ten Games on Penn Schedule.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 12.—The Athletic Council of the University of Pennsylvania announced tonight that ten games had been scheduled for the football team next season. The dates will be adjusted later. The teams are Delaware College, Bucknell, Swarthmore, Lafayette, Virginia Military Institute, Pennsylvania State College, Pittsburgh University, Dartmouth, Columbia, and Cornell. 'Varsity letters were awarded to all the regular members of the football squad with the exception of Ben Derr and Walter I. Pearce, whose names have been linked with professional sport.

COLUMBIA TO MEET PENN ON GRIDIRON

For the first time since 1905 Columbia and the University of Pennsylvania will meet on the gridiron next Fall. Details as to the date and place of the match have not yet been fixed, but if the game is played in New York, Penn will express a preference for appearing at the Polo Grounds rather than on South Field.

Columbia dropped football in 1905 and restored the game in 1915, though arranging a limited schedule. It was decided by those in charge of the Blue and White's gridiron fortunes that, for a period of five years, certain of the stronger elevens, such as Harvard, Yale, Penn, Cornell, &c., would not be included on the schedule. This period will have expired next Fall, and Columbia will return to the arena with a willingness to take on the strongest opponents available.

Pennsylvania is the first of the larger college elevens to find a place on the Columbia schedule in line with the new policy. Negotiations are understood to be in progress for a Cornell-Columbia game, and it would not be surprising if Harvard, Yale, or Princeton should also be encountered by the Blue and White eleven.

HARVARD ELEVEN AT WORK.

Special to The New York Times

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 12.—Although he practiced with the Harvard football team today, "Tubby" Clark, Harvard's left guard, may not be available as one of the players for the Crimson's coming trip to California. Clark hurt his back early last Fall and, while he played through the Yale game, has not been in the best of shape since. It is very doubtful whether he will go West. If not, his place may be taken by Fiske Brown, who played guard early in the year. Philbin, one of the centres, also will not be available, and this doubtless will mean that Harvard will use Arnold Horween at centre, holding Havemeyer as the first and only substitute, and will use Ralph Horween at full back.

Owing to rain, the practice today was held in the baseball cage. Harvard's lineup was the same as in the Yale game after Arnold Horween replaced Havemeyer at centre.

COLUMBIA BEATS SAILORS.

Swimming Team Scores Victory Over Battleship Pennsylvania.

The Columbia swimming team opened its season auspiciously yesterday afternoon in its home pool by overwhelming a team from the battleship Pennsylvania in a dual meet. The Blue and White watermen carried off first place in every event, the tars winning only one second and three third places. The final score was 34 to 5.

Both 'Varsity and freshman swimmers represented Columbia, Coach Kennedy using the meet as a practice event for the intercollegiate season that opens next week with City College. The first-year men showed encouraging form, and in the 200-yard relay race, the first event of the meet, carried off the first three places. Paul N. Garrigus, the Blue and White's best performer, met little opposition in the 50-yard swim and won handily.

At a meeting held before the meet Garrigus was elected captain of the watermen. He prepared at Stuyvesant High School, and in 1916 and 1917 was P. S. A. L. champion in the 50 and 100 yard swim.

220-Yard Race—Schiff, Columbia, first; Roth, U. S. S. Pennsylvania, second; Shane, Columbia, third. Time—3:00.

C. C. N. Y. SWIMMERS BEATEN BY TIGERS

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 12.—Princeton's swimmers completely immersed the men from the City College of New York in Brokaw Pool here this evening in the first league meet of the season. The final score was 41 to 12.

The water polo game was a runaway for the Orange and Black team. The visitors were able to run up but 3 points, while the Princetonians were annexing 75.

The New Yorkers captured only one first place in the swimming events. Lieberman won the 220-yard race with ease, finishing practically the length of the pool ahead of Gould, who led the third man by about the same margin.

Driscoll, with a first place in the plunge and a second in the fancy dive, led in individual point scoring. Thuor, plunging for C. C. N. Y., would probably have won his event if he had been able to hold his course. He had too much leeway each time he plunged, however, and finished both attempts headed directly across the pool.

The relay race furnished the best time of the evening, the Princeton four being clocked in 1:45 3-5. The Tigers led all the way, but Harris, swimming third, opened up a gap and contributed in a large measure to the fast time.

Gray took the fancy dive by a wide margin, Paas, the visiting diver, failing to do better than third. The fifty-yard event gave Princeton eight more points, Murrey and Hurling finishing close together.

The water polo game resolved itself into a mathematical problem as to how many goals could be scored in a given time. The New York team was unable to score a field goal. Their total was restricted to two foul throws in the first half and one in the second.

Botting, Captain Beuchner, and Hillegas were responsible for Princeton's scoring, with the first-named in the lead. Hillegas played through the middle part of the game in Botting's place and Beuchner alternated throughout with both players in annexing touch goals.

The summary:

Fancy Dive—Gray, Princeton, first; Driscoll, Princeton, second; Paas, C. C. N. Y., third 102.1 points.

Relay Race—Won by Princeton (Shriver, Stinson, Harris and Johnson); second, C. C. N. Y. (Ledrman, Poxdos, Bauer, and Ashworth). Time—1:45 3-5.

A severe decline of stocks yesterday seemed to be directed primarily by the action of the money market, although there were several other important influences at work upon sentiment. After opening at 8 per cent., a rate which also prevailed for renewals of standing loans, the cost of over-night credit advanced to 15 per cent., the highest quotation since Nov. 16. The strain evidenced by the rise of the rate clearly resulted from arrangements by the banks and the Government to meet the large mid-month interest disbursements on Liberty bonds and victory notes at the same time that income tax payments fall due and a Treasury certificate issue has to be paid off. Traders in stocks evidently attributed the movement partly to the effect of the new rediscount advances by the Federal Reserve Bank, and there was considerable liquidation of speculative holdings as bearish impressions over the credit outlook gained ground. Naturally, the ever-watchful short seller became active, and sales of investment holdings were reported. In looking for explanations of the day's output it would be well, also, to think of further sales by owners who desired to record losses in their income tax statement next March. At the lowest levels many industrial issues were from 4 to 6 points under their final quotations on Thursday, while the rails were appraised from large fractions to more than a point less than the day before. When the money rate fell back to 9 per cent. in the last hour of business a quick and substantial rally occurred, which was not sufficiently potent, however, to prevent an array of weakened prices at the close.

The Street has acquired a lot of information this week about the foreign exchanges, and at the same time attention has become more directly centred than before upon some important domestic problems. Suggestions from Washington that the railroads might be retained by the Government until the end of the fiscal year in order to allow time for permanent legislation came yesterday, not as a complete surprise, but as an element for further puzzlement over the entire railway outlook. Quite possibly, it had considerable to do with sales of railroad stocks both by speculators and investors. As regards the exchanges the situation was made no less unsatisfactory by yesterday's developments, although the slump of Canadian rates which had brought a discount of Montreal funds here of 11 per cent. the day before was checked by the receipt of about $5,000,000 gold from Canadian Government coffers, with the promise of some $15,000,000 more to come. Canadian dollars were quoted at a discount of 9⅝ per cent. for practically all the business done. The outlook here is for improvement shortly, when an embargo upon the shipment of Dominion wheat is lifted. Also, the position of exchange is attracting purchases of Canadian securities and this demand may create a round volume of exchange.

Sterling advanced nearly 3 cents to the pound in the morning, but headed into a powerful wave of new offerings with the result of forcing a decline to 3.65¾ for checks. Francs, on the other hand, continued the preceding day's strengthening process, gaining 29 centimes, to a final quotation of 11.48 for demand bills. The market contained various cross movements. Spanish quotations, for instance, which had been rather firm around 19.50, declined to a level under the par rate of 19.30. A renewed demand for silver at London sent the price up a full penny to 78¼d. per ounce, exceeding the previous high record of the Autumn. The depreciation which has occurred in sterling was reflected in the fact that the local silver quotation was no higher than $1.31¼ per ounce, compared with $1.37½ when the London price was 76d. a few days ago, and sterling stood above $4 to the pound. Buying for account of the Far East was reported somewhat more active than early in the week.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Next Week's Money Market.

If one journeys around among the banks in Wall Street he will get the idea first that money rates next week are to be extremely low, and then, at the next place he stops, he is likely to be told that next week will see considerably higher rates than we have been having this week. The whole thing hinges around whether the Government will have to pay out more in meeting Treasury certificates which mature on Monday than it will receive in tax payments due on that day. Nobody, outside of official circles, knows how this will be. But if any one thinks the Government will pay out more than it will receive then he must look for high, or higher, rates, while if he subscribes to the idea that payments to the Government will exceed payments by the Government, to be consistent he must talk about lower rates. For when the Government pays out funds those funds become ordinary deposits, against which reserves have to be carried at the banks, while when the Government receives on balance it can deposit with the banks and they do not have to carry reserves against the deposits, thereby expanding their loaning capacity.

This Week's Tightness.

This week money has been fairly tight. Not so tight, of course, as it was a few weeks ago, but tight enough to cause a flurry every day and a renewal rate yesterday, which carries over to Monday on Stock Exchange loans, of 8 per cent., with 15 per cent. the maximum in the afternoon. This week's tightness, in all probability, has been caused more by the Government's preparations for Monday's disbursements than by any other one factor, and almost equally probably this influence has exerted a greater effect than all other considerations. After Monday, with the big turnover passed, there should be a much greater degree of stability, but whether it will be at a higher or at a lower level remains to be seen.

The value of this year's crop, according to yesterday's official report, is $14,092,740,000, compared with $12,600,526,000 last year. Here is an apparent gain for the farmers of $1,492,214,000, but if the two sums are reduced according to the general index number of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the difference is nearly $300,000,000 less, because, if the bureau's index number is accepted, the true value of this year's crops is only $6,376,805,000, whereas last year it was $6,176,728,000.

Cotton and Grain Exports.

While cotton and grain exports this week have fallen off somewhat from the high records they were making in November, the movement, nevertheless, has been well above the average for the year. This is especially true concerning cotton, for 139,032 bales has gone forward in the period. What is, perhaps, more to the point, is the fact that arrivals of American cotton at Liverpool for the five days from Monday to Friday, inclusive, have totaled 192,000 bales, as against less than 150,000 bales in the same days of last week. These big arrivals supply one very conclusive reason for the sharp break in sterling, considering that British imports of the staple are now being financed almost exclusively through sales of sterling bills, with virtually nothing to compensate for these sales on the other side of the account.

In the absence of definite news regarding provisions for meeting the $4,000,000 or $5,000,000 cash requirement of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company at the close of the year, and probably in sympathy with the general price trend, local traction issues moved off yesterday. Brooklyn Rapid Transit showed a fractional loss for the stock, and more than one point for the receiver's certificates at the close, and Interborough Consolidated preferred and common both moved into lower ground, as did other traction stocks. In the bond market Interborough-Metropolitan 4½s and Interborough Rapid Transit 5s both sold off. The former rallied and closed unchanged, but the latter failed to regain all of its earlier losses, and closed with a net loss of 1½ points.

Retail Price Reductions Expected.

In the dry goods trade it is reported that retail buyers for the first time in months are beginning to show signs of unwillingness to pay high prices asked by merchants. In this connection it is asserted in some parts of the trade that goods which have been made up will accumulate, and material price reductions may be expected if the condition is maintained for any appreciable length of time. The demoralization of foreign exchange is also a bar to exporting of dry goods, and imports of textiles are said to be in fair quantity.

Capitalizing Inflation.

Whatever may be the forces at work it has been evident for some time that the curb on speculation was a step taken toward the ultimate aim of deflation. Thus far the brunt of the blow has been borne by the stock market with little appreciable success for the proponents of deflation in other fields. In real estate endeavors are being made actually to capitalize inflation, in this wise defeating the effort to bring deflation. This is accomplished in the case of some of the large new office buildings by demanding that all leases be signed for a long period of years. One building which is leasing from plans is giving no lease for less than 21 years, thereby assuring the inflated prices for office space for the term of years. Some of the older buildings are adopting similar tactics. In many cases it is difficult to obtain leases for less than ten years and there are comparatively few buildings which will give leases for less than three years. In this way inflated values will be carried as an asset against any efforts toward a return to normal conditions. The stock market, on the other hand, cannot safeguard itself by similarly effective measures.

Heavy Trading.

A declining market brought a high degree of activity on the Stock Exchange yesterday, the turnover amounting to nearly 1,500,000 shares. It was evident from early morning until late afternoon that stocks were being pressed for sale, and recessions were substantial as the day advanced. Many forces were at work to make for liquidation, not the least among them being an advance in money rates. In the last half-hour it appeared almost as if this was the dominant factor, for as money rates eased prices advanced, and while all of the losses of the day were not recovered prices in many instances were not far below the opening.

Bearish Letters.

After the decline in the late trading of Thursday, commission houses were inclined to be bearish in market letters which went forth during the early morning. All of the unfavorable factors were recounted at length, some houses which had been bullish a day or two, before completely switching their position. The result of this wave of depression sweeping out to the branch offices was to invite some real selling, and in conjunction with this a goodly amount of short selling. Both kinds played a large part in the decline. Apparently no effort will be made to curb speculation on the short side, hence the bears are making merry and planning a Christmas celebration of extensive proportions.

Deferred Maintenance Gossip.

While no definite figures are available on the question of deferred maintenance of railroads during Federal control, rumors are being circulated in railroad and banking circles that the figures when finally made public will prove a general surprise. Replacement of rails, ties, and ballast is known to have been below that of the pre-war years, but it is understood that the amount of replacements actually effected during Federal control are, on some roads, very far from normal. In more than one railroad report for 1918 figures have been shown indicating that in that year replacements were not what they should have been, and some of the corporate managers report now that 1919 replacements have been even less than then.

CANADA SENDS GOLD TO STEADY EXCHANGE

Finance Minister Announces Shipment of $20,000,000—$5,000,000 Has Arrived.

DISCOUNT RATE GOES DOWN

Canadian exchange, after its violent movements of Thursday, when it went to the record discount of 11 per cent., was performing much better yesterday, and although the rate was 9⅝ per cent. discount all day for sales, and closed at 9⅝@10¼ per cent. discount, there was a supply of exchange on the chief Canadian cities throughout the session, whereas on Thursday there were times when virtually no exchange was to be had.

The announcement that $20,000,000 in gold was to be sent here from Canada, the announcement coming from the Canadian Finance Minister at Ottawa, did much to improve sentiment. Of this gold, $5,000,000 has already arrived, and $5,000,000 is expected early next week. This gold is being handled by the Bank of Montreal through its New York agency, and yesterday it was said at that institution that no official information concerning $20,000,000 to arrive had been received. But, it was added, definite word had been received concerning $10,000,000 in the metal, and there was no disposition to question the accuracy of the Ottawa dispatch which spoke of $20,000,000 to be forwarded.

Bankers here with affiliations in the Dominion do not look for any considerable gold movement. They say that, while Canada has a large supply of the metal, most of it is needed at home to support the general financial structure, and most of these bankers will be surprised if more than the $20,000,000 already announced is sent across the border.

The sharp break in Canadian exchange on Wednesday and Thursday served to attract a considerable amount of buying of Canadian bonds by American interests. One institution here in particular was a large purchaser of Canadian provincial and municipal bonds in the last few days, and an officer of this bank estimated that the total of American buying since Tuesday afternoon had amounted to more than $20,000,000, with a chance that the full amount had gone close to $25,000,000.

This banker also expressed the belief that these purchases had contributed substantially to establishing a supply of Canadian exchange here, for, as he pointed out, the money which Americans thus invest will count quite as materially in Canada's favor as will the funds created through the importation of Canadian gold.

An improvement in the Canadian exchange situation is looked for next week, when the embargo on Canadian wheat probably will be lifted and a large amount is expected to flow into the United States. However, it is believed here that the Canadian financial authorities will not be displeased to see their exchange stand at a discount of 4 to 5 per cent., as a rate of that kind will act as an unofficial tariff on American goods, and in the Dominion there is said to be a growing feeling that too much Canadian money is being spent here. At the same time, the Canadians do not approve of a discount of as much as 10 or 11 per cent., and it is thought they will take steps to correct the situation if those already under way do not serve the purpose.

Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, General Manager of the Bank of Montreal, at the recent annual meeting of that institution called attention to the exchange situation and the premium on New York funds in Canada.

"The purchasing power of the Canadian dollar in the United States," he said, "has decreased, as reflected in the premium on New York funds. A year ago it cost $2 to send $100 to the United States of America; today the cost is $4.75.

"It is true the balance of trade was in favor of Canada to the extent of $340,000,000 for the year ended Oct. 31 last, but, whereas we paid for all our purchases abroad, we have in the same period shipped goods on credit to England and Continental countries to the extent of many millions not easy to estimate, besides sending out of Canada annually about $200,000,000 interest on our recorded indebtedness abroad, mainly to Great Britain and the United States. These facts alone would not create an adverse exchange to the extent that exists, but, in addition, there are the invisible earnings in the Dominion of foreign business corporations, chiefly American, seeking return to proprietors abroad.

"The disadvantage Canada is under in respect to the premium on New York funds will last until the ebb and flow of such funds are equal. Repayment to Canada of the moneys, aggregating $420,000,000, owed us by Great Britain and the Allies would quickly cause the premium in question to disappear. The true remedy lies in increased production and the economy that would be reflected in resumption of those personal sacrifices of pleasure made during the war. It is here in place to remark that in the eyes of Europeans the people of North America are extravagant and wasteful."

EXCHANGE STOPS IMPORTS.

OTTAWA, Dec. 12.—The Government and business interests are deeply alarmed at the unfavorable exchange rate with the United States. The Government hopes, with the lifting of the embargo on Canadian wheat on Dec. 15, to sell to the United States hard wheat to the value of $50,000,000, which with gold shipments will equalize trade for nearly six months. In the meantime, Canadian importers are urged to cut purchases in the United States except essential raw material. Many contracts for American goods have been canceled.

Among lines which will be affected are all United States dry goods novelties, many lines of silks and of boots and shoes, anthracite coal, several popular makes of automobiles and musical instruments, American fruits, tobaccos, cigarettes and cigars, as well as certain groceries and articles largely sold in drug stores.

Post office money orders have been stopped to the United States. This decision was reached by the Post Office Department following a conference with the heads of the Finance Department and is a direct outcome of the present low rates of exchange. Post office officials say it is the first time in history that post office money orders have been stopped for payment in the United States. It also means that there is now no means of sending money to the United States by mail except banknotes in registered letters, which means a heavier discount on the other side.

The last money orders were issued yesterday and the discount rate collected was 9 per cent., but at one time yesterday the discount rate rose to 11¼, which meant that the Post Office was losing 2½ cents on every dollar.

Extend Red Cross Seal Drive.

Because returns have fallen far below the mark set for New York in the Christmas Seal campaign, local headquarters, at 145 West Forty-seventh Street, yesterday announced that the sale would be extended to Dec. 20. An urgent appeal has been sent out to relief organizations and individuals for more volunteer workers. They are urged to report at the headquarters, 145 West Forty-seventh Street.

SCHWAB BUYS UNITED ZINC.

Charles M. Schwab has purchased control of the United Zinc Smelting Corporation through buying all of the company's stock and outstanding bonds. It is understood that the properties will not be merged with others, but will be operated by the steel man. The new personnel of officers of the company will be B. Lissberger, President; Otto Proles, Vice President, and H. W. Lohman, Treasurer. It was learned last night that no new financing is contemplated by Mr. Schwab as the result of the deal, and that the company will be continued as a producer of about 60,000,000 pounds of spelter a year.

The United Zinc Smelting Corporation was organized under the laws of New York in May, 1916, and owns 98 per cent. of the common stock of the Kinefinck Zinc Company, as well as all of the capital stock of the Pearlman Company, Inc., which in turn owns the Clarksburg Zinc Company. Five zinc mines are owned through subsidiary concerns which produce a high grade of zinc concentrates, and the Smelting Corporation operates two large smelters and refineries, one at Clarksburg and the other at Moundsville, W. Va.

The capital stock of the corporation is 600,000 shares of capital stock without nominal or par value, a part of which was offered for public subscription at $12.50 a share in 1916, and there is a bonded debt of approximately $350,000 in 8 per cent. serial bonds.

PUT VALUE OF CROPS AT $14,092,740,000

CORN LEADS ALL PRODUCTS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Record prices and bountiful production sent the value of farm crops harvested this year to the unprecedented total of $14,092,740,000, exceeding the value of last year's crops by almost $1,500,000,000.

Final estimates of production were issued today by the Department of Agriculture, and values were based on prices paid to producers on Dec. 1. The area of harvested crops this year was more than 2,600,000 acres larger than last year, amounting to a total of 359,124,473 acres.

Corn easily maintained its place as king of crops with a value of $3,934,234,000, while cotton, including cottonseed, was second with a total value of $2,332,913,000. The hay crop was third with $2,129,087,000. Wheat, combining the Winter and Spring crops, was fourth with $2,028,522,000. Oats, a billion-dollar crop last year, reached a total of only $895,603,000 because of decreased production.

Record crops of Winter wheat, rice, sweet potatoes, and hay were grown, while the production of all wheat, rye, and tobacco was next to the largest ever harvested.

Prices paid producers were higher this year for every crop than they were last year with the exception of beans, cranberries, and oranges.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER—Receipts yesterday, 2,369 packages. Not enough of the fine grades of fresh creamery to supply immediate needs, and prices are ruling steady to firm. Market overstocked with other qualities, and prices are largely a matter of negotiation. Renovated a little easier. Ladles and packing stock steady. Creamery, higher than extras, a lb., 73½@74c; extras, 92 score, 73c; firsts, 90 to 91 score, 65@72c; firsts, 88 to 89 score, 61½@64½c; seconds, 83 to 87 score, 56@60c; lower grades, 53@55c; held, higher than extras, 69@69½c; extras, 68@68½c; firsts, 61@66c; seconds, 56@60c; unsalted, higher than extras, 76@77c; extras, 74½@75½c; firsts, 65@73c; seconds, 58@62c; State dairy, tubs, finest, 69@70c; good to prime, 63@67c; common to fair, 52@62c; renovated, extras, 58½@59c; firsts, 56@57½c; imitation creamery, firsts, 54@55c; ladles, current make, firsts, 52@53c; seconds, 50½@51c; lower grades, 48@50c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 49½@50c; No. 2, 48½@49c; lower grades, 46@48c.

EGGS—5,933 cases. Market for fresh eggs has broken heavily under accumulations in first hands, resulting from some increase of receipts and a decided curtailment of demand. Values at the close are unsettled and not well defined, and the feeling is weak and uncertain. It is easy to buy at the reduction quoted. Storage eggs of very fine quality are in relatively light supply and meeting a fair demand. Some sales of exceptionally fancy goods have been made even a little above our recent quotation. On general offerings, however, there is no change in the range of values, and the undergrades are still pressed for sale at any reasonable offers. White eggs have accumulated heavily, chiefly from the Pacific Coast, but including increasing quantities from near by, and there are free sellers at the reduction quoted. Fresh-gathered, extras, a dozen, 81@82c; extra firsts, 79@80c; firsts, 76@78c; seconds and poorer, 65@75c; held, fresh, firsts, 65@70c; seconds, 56@62c; no grade, 48@55c; fresh-gathered, dirties, No. 1, 56@58c; checks, good to choice, dry, 48@50c; refrigerator, special marks, fancy, charges paid, 54@56c; firsts, 52@53c; seconds, 46@51c; under grades, 30@45c; sterilized, 56@62c; dirties, 38@44c; checks, 36@38c; whites, 52@60c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western hennery whites, extras, 89@91c; firsts to extra firsts, 85@88c; undergrades, 75@83c; gathered whites, common to choice, 75@88c; pullets, 70@76c; Pacific Coast whites, express, extras to extra firsts, 88@91c; firsts to extra firsts, 82@87c; pullets, 70@76c; other Western and Southern gathered whites, 75@85c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby hennery browns, fancy, 85@86c; gathered brown and mixed colors, graded, fancy, 81@83c; fair to choice, 75@80c.

OLER ANSWERS CRITICS.

American Ice President's Letter Approved by Directors.

Wesley M. Oler, President of the American Ice Company, yesterday made public a letter in answer to a letter recently sent to stockholders asking for proxies to vote at the annual election scheduled for the middle of January. Mr. Oler's letter, which was approved by a big majortiy of the directors of the company, stated that the company is engaged in the manufacture and sale of ice and not "to manipulate our stock."

This was in answer to the letter asking for proxies in which it was charged that he was not paying attention to the selling price of American Ice stock. The letter issued yesterday by Mr. Oler also states:

"I have been importuned again and again to use my influence to merge this company with a number of others, which, in my opinion, will be helpful to them and injurious to our company."

"The question for the stockholders to decide," continued Mr. Oler's letter, "is whether they desire to continue the present conservative successful management or replace it with one 'more broad and progressive,' as proposed by its critics; in other words, do they want this company managed as a business proposition for the benefit of all the stockholders or for the benefit of stock pools and speculative purposes?"

Following the statement was one signed by thirteen of the company's fifteen directors, in which they concurred with Mr. Oler, and in which they gave him credit for the present successful financial position of the company.

TO REORGANIZE LOCOMOBILE

The Locomobile Company of America, a manufacturer of high priced motor cars, is to be reorganized by the sale of all its assets to a new corporation which will be known as The Locomobile Company. The new company will have an authorized capital of 300,000 shares of common stock of no par value, and $5,000,000 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock of $100 par value. Of this capital, 200,000 shares of common and $3,500,000 of the preferred stock will be issued at once. The authorized bonded debt will consist of $2,500,000 first and refunding mortgage 6 per cent. bonds, due in 1933, of which $1,416,000 will be outstanding.

The Mercer Motors Co. will purchase 100,000 shares of the common stock, provided its stockholders approve, and it is said that this may mean ultimate control of The Locomobile Company by Mercer Motors, which will be the largest stockholder.

The Locomobile Company plans to manufacture, in addition to its present high-priced car, a medium sized and lower-priced car. This, however, will not compete with the Mercer. Furthermore, the company plans to build commercial trucks, ranging in capacity from three-quarters of a ton to five tons. At present the company makes only a four ton truck.

SEEK SCHOOL LUNCH FUND.

Controller Says Legislative Action May Be Necessary in Matter.

An act of the Legislature may be necessary to enable the city to provide lunches for school children next year, it was asserted by Controller Craig at yesterday's meeting of the Board of Estimate. When the communication from the Board of Education requesting an appropriation of $50,000 for providing for lunches came up a representative of the Women's Civic Club said she hoped the board would not abandon the school lunch system, with consequent suffering by the children, because an error had been made by the educational board. Controller Craig explained that it was entirely the fault of the Board of Education that the necessary amount had not been put in the 1920 budget.

"It is not our fault that the appropriation is not in next year's budget," he said. "Now the educational authorities must find some way to raise the money. It may take an act of the Legislature."

"If Ettinger, Cook & Co. would mind their own business and not try to run the finances of the department we would not be in this trouble," said the Mayor. The Mayor added that no member of the Board of Estimate was against maintaining proper school lunches. The matter was referred to the Finance and Budget Committee.

LONDON EXCHANGE BETTER.

Postponement of Interest Due on Allied Loans Responsible.

LONDON, Des. 12.—The conference in Downing Street on international financial problems and the definite statement that the payment to America of interest on loans to the Allies had been postponed three years created a better feeling on the Stock Exchange today, where the quotations on most of the securities were improved. French exchange also eased slightly, but American exchange did not respond. The market was less wild and the feeling in exchange was more cheerful.

The slump in American exchange was responsible for another rise in the price of silver, to 78¼, and also induced an advance in the price of gold to 111 s. 3 d. per ounce. Japan, India and Spain absorbed the bulk of the arrivals from the Transvaal.

PROBLEMS OF CANADA IN FIRST YEAR SINCE ARMISTICE—BANK OF MONTREAL ANNUAL MEETING

Sir Vincent Meredith, President, Reviews Many of the Difficulties Which Have Arisen During the Year and Suggests Manner in Which Many of Them Can Be Overcome—Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, General Manager, Deals Particularly With the Problem of Exchange.

The annual meeting of the Bank of Montreal this year proved of very special interest, owing to the important matters dealt with in the addresses of Sir Vincent Meredith, Bart., President, and Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, General Manager.

During the past year Canada, along with the rest of the world, has been passing through very exceptional conditions, and it is generally recognized that there are very many problems ahead that will have to be carefully worked out. Many of these problems are not confined entirely to Canada, as they relate to the exchange situation between this country and the United States.

There is also the difficult problem of equitable taxation, which must be worked out in Canada and Sir Vincent referred to the handicaps suffered by Canada as a result of the business profit tax and made the recommendation that taxation should be placed on all classes of the community who have the ability to pay.

Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor made an interesting statement in connection with the policy followed by bankers during the war period, showing that there had been absolutely no profiteering whatever by the banks of Canada, for the price of money had not been raised, and that alone of all commodities the cost to the borrower of loanable funds of the banking institutions of this country remains unchanged. Sir Frederick also dealt particularly with the position of the Bank of Montreal, and stated that it had never been in a healthier state than at present, and on this account was well prepared to meet any conditions and contingencies that might arise.

Sir Vincent Meredith, in his address to shareholders, said in part:—

Foreign Trade Well Maintained.

The foreign trade of the Dominion has been well maintained, and the outlook gives no cause for apprehension of an early recession. The latest available figures, those of the seven months ending October 31st, show imports to have been $543,670,000 and exports $688,890,000. As compared with the corresponding period last year, there was a decline of $16,400,000 in imports and of $31,200,000 in exports, a relatively insignificant decrease, while the favorable balance of trade has this year been $145,200,000. The price index of commodities not having materially varied during the periods under review, the deduction may be made that the volume of our foreign commerce has not greatly changed, although the figures of particular products have fluctuated considerably. Thus, the export of foodstuffs was larger in value by $114,200,000 this year than last, in the seven months, and the export of wood and wood products, including paper, $25,800,000 larger. On the other hand, miscellaneous exports, which include munitions, show a decrease of $141,600,000.

Immigration and Production.

There are three indispensable factors to the upbuilding of Canada—immigration, production and exports. Immigration during the last five years has been negligible owing to the war.

In my judgment, it is of vital importance that our unoccupied areas be settled and made productive with as much rapidity as possible, the future prosperity of the country and ability to meet our debts largely depending on increased production. It is believed that nations will not war again in this generation, and the objection to the incoming of alien people is in consequence mitigated. The combing should not, therefore, be made too fine.

There arises the question of methods of taxation, which may require readjustment to meet post-war conditions. Trade is being hampered by a somewhat penalizing excess business profit tax, and unless this impost is speedily reduced or abandoned altogether, we cannot meet unencumbered competition on equal terms. Furthermore, enterprise and expansion are stifled and foreign establishments deterred from entering the Canadian industrial field. Taxation should be so distributed that it will not have the effect of making this country too dear to live in and thereby divert intending residents to other countries.

Doing away with many exemptions and imposing taxation on all classes of the community who have the ability to pay, and placing a high tariff upon imported luxuries would, I believe, cause little hardship and considerably ease a strained financial situation, besides giving all persons in Canada a more immediate interest in the economical administration of our public affairs.

Canada can and will meet all her obligations, and of her ability to do so no more conclusive evidence need be given than the immense subscription to the recent Victory Loan.

With regard to the subject of foreign trade, it is only a matter of time before increased production will overtake domestic demands, and unless preparations are made in advance for finding markets overseas for our exportable surplus of raw materials and manufactured goods, our uninterrupted prosperity may be checked. The needs of foreign countries are great and pressing, and profitable business awaits the Canadian exporter, but it cannot be acquired unless long term credits are provided.

Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, in his review of the business year, said in part:—

No Profiteering by Banks.

It seems to me of sufficient importance to bear repeating that there has been no profiteering whatever by the banks of Canada, for the price of money has not been raised. Alone of all commodities the cost to the borrower of loanable funds of the banking institutions of this country remains unchanged. Not only is this the case, but, speaking for ourselves, it seems only proper for the shareholders to know that in handling business entrusted to us by the several Governments during the war and since, our policy has been to charge only the narrowest of commissions and minimum interest rates. In many instances, where the services were of a war character, we have acted free of charge.

Problems of Exchange.

The premium on New York funds, the increase in our national debt and in our Canadian currency circulation, are matters of deep interest and should be studied by all.

The purchasing power of the Canadian dollar in the United States has decreased, as reflected in the premium on New York funds. A year ago it cost two dollars to send one hundred dollars to the United States of America; today the cost is four dollars and seventy-five cents.

It is true the balance of trade was in favor of Canada to the extent of $340,000,000 for the year ended 31st October last, but whereas we paid for all our purchases abroad, we have, in the same period, shipped goods on credit to England and Continental countries to the extent of many millions not easy to estimate, besides sending out of Canada annually about $200,000,000 interest on our recorded indebtedness abroad, mainly to Great Britain and the United States. These facts alone would not create an adverse exchange to the extent that exists, but, in addition, there are the invisible earnings in the Dominion of foreign business corporations, chiefly American, seeking return to proprietors abroad. The disadvantage Canada is under in respect to the premium on New York funds will last until the ebb and flow of such funds are equal. Repayment to Canada of the moneys, aggregating $420,000,000, owed us by Great Britain and the Allies, would quickly cause the premium in question to disappear. We naturally shall be repaid in the fullness of time, but it is well to bear in mind that an alleviation of the penalty can as surely be found by diminution of imported luxuries as it is certain that the penalty, in part, is caused by such importations. Also, the situation could be relieved by borrowing in the United States, but this course is to be deprecated and would not be a cure, but merely postponement of payments. The true remedy lies in increased production and the economy that would be reflected in resumption of those personal sacrifices of pleasure made during the war. It is here in place to remark that in the eyes of Europeans the people of North America are extravagant and wasteful.

WIDE RANGES RULE IN COTTON OPTIONS

LIVERPOOL HAS BIG DROP

There was the greatest irregularity in yesterday's cotton market, with prices moving up sharply in the first hour or two and then breaking a good deal more sharply in the afternoon, only to recover briskly before the closing. On the day the options to move over the greatest ranges were January and March, which covered a span of close to 160 points, while December ranged over 130 points and May and July of this year's crop did almost as badly.

The early strength was directly attributable to the surprisingly strong display at Liverpool, where the futures market, notwithstanding our very bad break on Thursday, opened up at advances of 25 to 32 points. The fact that Liverpool might be adjusting itself to the weaker foreign exchange market did not seem to occur to local traders, who bought rather freely here on the Liverpool cables. But the Liverpool market faltered later in the day, although exchange continued weak, going to new low records, and closed at losses of 12 to 40 points. This fact rather upset the local traders, and when big selling orders began to come in from the Wall Street houses, selling around the ring became general.

The temper of the trade was rife for a good sized selling movement, for Thursday's final crop report, which came out at figures considerably higher than expected, together with the demoralized condition of the exchange market, has begot some apprehension over the final disposal of all the cotton likely to come into sight this year.

That this apprehension dates back somewhat beyond the publication of Thursday's Department of Agriculture display is evident from the fact that at the low level yesterday, prices were down anywhere from 250 to 400 points from where they were the middle of last week. A scaling down of such proportions, while not altogether unique, is sufficient to indicate that there is a great deal less bullish enthusiasm now than there was a week ago last Wednesday, when the December contract sold at 40 cents for the first time since the civil war.

THE CONDITION OF TRADE.

The trade reviews this week agree that while the strike settlement has had a cheerful effect on trade, the conservation orders will be reflected for some time. Dun's Review says:

Settlement of the coal strike this week, while a favorable development of far-reaching significance, unfortunately does not mean immediate ending of the inconvenience and loss sustained by business through six weeks of interrupted mining operations. Measures of fuel conservation, impelled by conditions that had daily grown more serious, will not be abandoned with the return to work of many thousands of bituminous workers, and some time must necessarily elapse before various important industries and trades will fully recover from the deleterious effects of the recent controversy. Shortened hours in not a few mercantile establishments have been forced in a season when the early activities of Christmas shoppers have been a conspicuous feature, and production and transportation have been further impeded at a period when the call nearly everywhere is for more goods with which to satisfy current extensive requirements.

Bradstreet's says:

Fuel restrictions, such as never before ruled, light, heat, power, and working time being curtailed the country over, intensely cold weather, with heavy snows North and West, and heavy rains, with resulting floods in the Eastern South, find far more reflection in industrial and manufacturing lines than in purely distributive trade. Still the coal shortage and resulting restrictions have put trade, like industry, on a thirty-six hour week schedule, and, coupled with climatic conditions, have alike vexed and hampered wholesalers, jobbers, and retailers. Notwithstanding this fact, trade shows really wonderful resiliency, and the relief at the settlement of the strike, as yet purely mental, because many of these drawbacks must of necessity continue for some time to come, is deep and profound.

National Surety Co. Increases Stock.

Stockholders of the National Surety Company voted yesterday to increase the capital stock by issuing 10,000 shares at $150 per share. This action gives the company a capital of $5,000,000 and a surplus of more than $5,500,000.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

The early 15 per cent. call money rate gave rise to liberal offerings throughout the list during the first four hours on the Consolidated Stock Exchange yesterday, with resulting losses of from 3 to 9 points. Reduction in the rate on call loans to 8 per cent. and evening up of contracts by shorts paved the way for a strong rally at the end, with gains of from 1 to 2 points in many of the active issues. Mexican Petroleum, at the minimum, fell back 9, Sinclair 3⅝. Crucible Steel was offered down 4⅝, U. S. Steel common 1⅝ and Baldwin Locomotive 3⅞, with later advances averaging more than a point. Studebaker rallied 1¾ from its low and Pierce-Arrow 2⅝.

This company owns and operates 106 W. L. Douglas shoe stores located in the large cities. W. L. Douglas shoes are also sold by over 9,000 shoe dealers in the United States.

The past few years our shoes have been more extensively advertised than ever before. Stamping W. L. Douglas name and the retail price on the bottom of the shoes before they leave the factory has saved the wearers millions of dollars, and guarantees them the best shoes in style, comfort and service that can be produced for the price.

A great demand for W. L. Douglas shoes has sprung up in leading countries in Europe and Asia. Our domestic business has increased so that our sales have actually doubled in four years. In 1915 the sales were $8,069,628.41 and in 1918 $16,660,343.46. The past six months' business was at the rate of over $20,000,000 per year.

In common with other great businesses we need additional capital to meet the urgent requirements of increasing domestic and foreign trade. The new conditions of business also demand more capital. The cost of labor and material has nearly doubled so that twice the amount of capital necessary under the old business conditions is now required.

Imported woolens now being shown in the local market for the Fall 1920 season are remarked for their brightness of patterns. Stripes, checks and plaids are used in a great number of cases and colors, when they are not almost on the sport cloth order, are in the so-called heather shades. Plaids are to be obtained in both large, overplaid designs, and in small conservative patterns which are nevertheless carried out in colors that could almost be called brilliant. Although production abroad, so importers say, is still in a rather unsettled state the mills are not sparing any effort to produce novelties that will please buyers.

In the dress goods market there is likelihood of the demand for novelty fabrics overtaking that on staple goods. This situation has already occurred in the coating branch of the industry, where materials bordering on sport fabrics are more active than cloths recognized as staples or semi-staples. For the coming Spring, polo and camel's hair cloth are the two leaders in the novelty field, and the response to garments made from these materials has been so good that the mills see difficulty ahead in producing all the fabrics of the sort that will be needed.

Lace Prospects Very Bright.

As the season advances prospects are considered even brighter by the lace and embroidery trade. From the importer's standpoint conditions have improved, and there are not the difficulties that were encountered in getting shipments to this country. While some of the foreign markets appear to be stocked up on orders well ahead, the local trade has been relieved by the easier situation on present deliveries. From reports received both from Paris fashion houses and the local manufacturers, laces will be used in increasing quantities. A lingerie season is now regarded as a settled thing for next Summer.

Will Help in Several Ways.

The right to use light eight hours a day, instead of six, that has been won by retail stores here by reducing the amount of current consumed by 25 per cent. is going to help business in more ways than one, according to a well-known member of the cutting-up trade. "Not only would an enforced curtailment of selling hours probably have resulted in loss to the stores through decreased sales of holiday goods," he said, "but it would have meant loss to the manufacturing trades later on. Particularly would it have hit the ready-to-wear trades, after the rather irregular season many of the stores have just experienced in their garment departments. The merchandise men of any store that expected a given volume of sales in the month of December, but did not reach that volume because of handicaps put upon the business by fuel curtailment orders, would doubtless feel impelled to lessen Spring buying appropriations proportionately. There is no telling, with things as uncertain in the business world as they are today, just where this would have led."

French Factories Moved.

As one reason why no great competition may be expected from the large woolen dress goods houses of the Continent, a mill representative said yesterday that the latest reports he has received from that section indicate that it will be a year or two before the mills there will be in a position to ship in quantity. The mills in the war region, he said, instead of rebuilding on their former sites, are moving to other sections of France, where the latest factory equipment will be installed. The materials now being shipped to this country, he said, have more or less the look of makeshifts, and do not represent the best that has come from France.

May Shade Silk Prices.

With the end of the year drawing close, there seems to be a tendency among silk jobbers to offer their stocks a little more freely. This, with a little slower buying on the part of all consumers of the material, may have the effect of shading the prices now asked. The manufacturers who still have a little further production to put under order are also disposed to do business on a little closer margin than has been the case in some months. The real factor in the condition of the market at present, however, is the air of caution with which transactions are now made, in contrast to the feverish buying that was formerly done.

Leather Is Getting Cheaper.

One of the chief reasons advanced for the noticeable declines that have taken place in hides and leathers in the last few weeks is the decrease in exports of the latter, which has grown out of the upset exchange situation and the marked gain in imports of hides that has been seen during the period. With the raw material dropping and stocks of finished leather accumulating, it is intimated here that speculative holdings of the latter are being liquidated as rapidly as possible. While it is not thought that dealers who bought leather for speculation have yet had to sell under the prices they paid for it, well-posted factors in the market say that many lots bought just before the break came have been let out with very little profit to the men who took chances. In some cases, it is asserted, speculators have unloaded at cost.

Dry Goods Exports Dropping?

While reports concerning export purchases of dry goods in this market vary somewhat as to the amount of business that is actually being put through at the present time, the best indications are that it is not so large as it has been in the recent past. The steady drop in exchange has militated against increased, or even normal, activities on the part of European buyers, particularly those who have to deal in sterling, francs and other exchange media that have depreciated sharply. At the moment the best business is coming from the Latin-American and Scandinavian countries, but even in this case more attention is being paid by buyers to getting shipments of merchandise previously purchased, but held up for one reason or another, than to making new commitments.

Late Buyers Getting Busy.

The "last minute brigade," the dealers who hold off to the last possible moment each year before placing their special orders for holiday jewelry, are getting busy with a vengeance now. The result is a stream of hurry calls for all varieties of goods on memorandum that is assuming the proportions of a flood. In spite of the fact that the manufacturers have been tied up with a strike for about three months, a considerable number of retailers have, as usual, held back their memorandum orders until forced into line by pressure of the consumer demand, and it is an open question now whether or not they will suffer from their procrastination. While the actual business resulting from memorandum orders now being placed will not be known until the early part of next month, the trade, as a whole, is now closing the best year on record.

Gray Goods Sales Light.

The further break in cotton yesterday again limited buying of gray goods in this market. In the sheetings some business was reported on five-yard goods, for nearby delivery, at 18 cents, but beyond this there was not much of interest in that branch of the trade. The fine-yarn goods and the specialties also were void of particular features for the day. In the printcloths most of the goods sold were of Southern make. Neaby 38½-inch 64-60s of this type sold at 19¼ cents, with similar lots of February-March goods disposed of at 19¼ cents. Small sales of nearby Eastern 38½-inch 60-48s were reported at 18 cents, and Southern at 17¾ cents. For delivery in early 1920, 39-inch 68-72s brought 23¼ cents.

COMMODITIES PRICES.

Revisions of Them More Numerous This Week Than Usual.

Not only were there more changes than usual shown in Dun's list of wholesale commodities prices this week, but the advances and declines were more evenly divided than for some time. Ninety-one revisions were shown by a list containing more than 300 items, including 49 advances, against a total of 76 changes last week. Then there were 39 advances. Though there was again an excess of advances in the general list, and the important foodstuffs were for the most part firmly sustained, more downward revisions were shown by the various edibles than upward. Numerous increases in metals prices and a further softening of hide and leather values were among the other features of the week.

The following list gives the minimum wholesale prices quoted on selected standard commodities this week. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for last week and the corresponding week a year ago:

While Spring patent flour did not advance in this market during the week, there was another rise of 25 cents a barrel in Winter straights, which brought this grade to $10.50. Hams did not change, but for the first time in several weeks there was a drop in bacon. In the major provisions at Chicago the advances were shown by live beef and mess pork. Live sheep were unchanged, but declines were shown by live hogs, short ribs, and Middle Western lard.

The best creamery butter, while firmly held, showed no further advance this week, while State dairy stock, common to fair, fell off a cent a pound. Nearby fancy eggs also declined, registering a drop of 3 cents a dozen for the week. This was the first sign of weakness displayed in them for some time. The best Western eggs, on the other hand, moved up a cent a dozen, under the bullish influence of lighter receipts and a steady demand. The latter are now nearly 20 cents a dozen higher at wholesale than they were a year ago at this time. The nearby eggs showed a gain of 9 cents a dozen for the year.

Fancy apples moved up to $8 a barrel, this being the only change in the listed fresh fruits. In the dried ones there were advances in choice apples and apricots, and declines in lemon and orange peel. A reflection of the sugar shortage was shown in the higher quotation on open-kettle molasses at New Orleans. Teas showed no change for the week, but the leading Brazilian coffees dropped again. All of the revisions in the spices were downward. The trend of the vegetable prices was upward, being marked by a sharp advance in cabbage, a rise of 25 cents a barrel in potatoes, and a marked upturn in the price of choice white kidney beans. Choice marrow beans declined.

Prime timothy hay produced the only decline in the grains list for the week, which was more than offset by rises in oats, rye, and malting barley. The week in the textiles brought lower prices to the burlaps and higher ones to several varieties of gray, bleached, and printed cottons. In the combined list for drugs, chemicals, and oils the advances far outnumbered the declines. Among the features was a drop in quicksilver. Save for hemlock No. 1 sole leather, every item listed in the hides and leather divisions showed a decline for the week. Included in the recessions was the price of calfskins. Tallow was lower, and so was hemp.

A general advance in pig iron again took place, and most of the billets went up again, as well. Wire rods, steel bars, and wire nails all were higher at Pittsburgh. Furnace coke was lower. Tin and electrolytic copper declined, but against this were higher prices for antimony, lake copper, spelter and lead.

Chinese and Japanese silks continued to advance, and practically all varieties are now at record levels. The same was true of news roll. Platinum also exceeded all previous price records. A rise in turpentine and a decline in Brazilian crude rubber completed the week's miscellaneous revisions.

Bronx Man Asks $50,000, Alleging Loss of Wife's Body.

Charles Siegrist of 920 Forest Avenue, the Bronx, filed a summons and complaint yesterday in a suit for $50,000 damages against the trustees of St. Raymond's Cemetery, the Bronx, for the loss of the body of his wife Catharine. In his complaint, Siegrist alleges thedayafter his wife died last October he arranged with the cemetery officials for burial. When the funeral cortège arrived, he asserts, he was informed the grave had not been dug and the body would have to be placed in a receiving vault until later.

The plaintiff alleges that the body was lost after it was placed in the vault. He says that he has made constant inquiry regarding the whereabouts of his wife's body, but had not received any satisfactory answer.

"By virtue of the facts," the complaint read, "he has suffered great pain, which has been aggravated because of the great love and respect which plaintiff had for his wife during her life time and which he has for her memory now."

REAL ESTATE FIELD

The Holland House Hotel property, on the southwest corner of Thirtieth Street and Fifth Avenue, has been resold to a syndicate headed by Harry Fischel, for about $1,200,000.

Plans have been prepared by the buyers for altering the structure into high-class offices and showrooms to meet the constantly increasing demand for space in this section of the avenue. It is probable that another story may be added, as several applications for floors have already been received. The building, which occupies a plot fronting 100 feet on the avenue by 150 feet on the street, adjoins the Marble Collegiate Church. It was sold by the Little Streets Company, R. C. Turner, President, which purchased it about six weeks ago. Frederick Fox & Co. represented the buyer in both transactions.

This will be the last holiday season to be celebrated in the old building, which at one time was considered the premier of New York City Hotels. The furniture and fixtures will be offered at public sale shortly after the New Year and the work of altering the building will be started on Jan. 15. It is expected that the new Holland Building will be ready for occupancy as a commercial building not later than May 1.

The estate of Ralph M. Ward sold to an investing client of William H. Whiting & Co. the three-story building at 243 Broadway, including a 12½-foot "L" known as 2½ Murray Street. This property was purchased by the late Mr. Ward about three years ago, at which time he erected on the Broadway end of the property a new three-story building, which was leased for a long term of years. The property has been held at $350,000.

Tenants Buy Pearl Street Loft.

The Charles F. Noyes Company resold to Clinton K. Scofield for all cash 277 Pearl Street, a five-story and basement building, covering a lot 25 by 101. The property was valued at $40,000. The firm of Rudman & Scofield have been tenants in the building for over twenty years.

Richard S. Elliott, operator, increased his holdings in the shipping district yesterday by purchasing through the Charles F. Noyes Company the two five-story loft buildings at 192 and 194 Front Street, each building covering a lot 24 by 84. Possession of the property is to be had on May 1, and negotiations are pending for the sale of both properties. The property was valued at $100,000. In the same block is the National Aniline Company, which occupies a ten-story office building, and which has acquired additional properties on Front Street and Burling Slip. This is the eighth building that Mr. Elliott has purchased and his ownership of property in this district is second probably to that of Joseph F. Cullman only.

The Noyes Company also resold for Mr. Elliott 73 and 75 Gold Street, two loft buildings, on a lot 50 by 25, to Benjamin V. Harrison, owner of 42 Spruce Street, abutting. Mr. Harrison now controls at this point a plottage of about 3,000 square feet.

Elias A. Cohen bought yesterday from David Wilson & Co. the Wilson Building, a six-story structure, on a plot 60 by 80 feet, at 73 to 79 Fulton Street. The property will be converted into an office building and devoted to the insurance interests. The holding price was $325,000. A. H. Mathews was the broker in the transaction. Mr. Cohen also resold the ten-story Morris Building, on a plot 98.7 by 69.1 feet, at 31 Beaver Street, the northwest corner of Broad Street. Charles F. Noyes negotiated the deal.

$350,000 Chelsea Loft Deal.

Elias Gussaroff and Harry Matz purchased the twelve-story loft building at 148 and 150 West Twenty-fourth Street, on a plot 50 by 100. The building brings in a rental of $40,000 and has been held at $350,000.

32 Union Square Sold.

The twelve-story loft at 32 Union Square with an "L" at 104 and 106 West Sixteenth Street, the sale of which was rumored recently, has been sold by its builders, the Merchants Exchange Realty Corporation, to the Winter Realties, Inc., at a figure close to $750,000. This structure, which was built fifteen years ago, occupies a plot 26 by 125 on Union Square with an "L" 46 by 103 on Sixteenth Street. The property rents for $120,000. Robert McGehee was the broker and Gettvez, Simon & Asher represented the seller.

Lofts for Merchants and Investors.

Hattie M. Frank of the P. M. Frank Disinfecting Company bought from the Albany Savings Bank, 492 and 494 Broome Street, a seven-story loft held at $90,000.

E. Sharum bought from Ida Emily J. Mommer and Frederick Ewald Mommer 13 and 15 West Twenty-fourth Street an eleven-story loft, 52 by 98.9 feet, renting for about $35,000 and held at $330,000. The Alpereau Corporation was the broker.

E. H. Ludlow & Co. sold for Eugenia Kelly Davis the five-story building, 39 White Street, between Broadway and Church Street, on lot 24.6 by 100 feet. The purchasers are Turtle Brothers, importers of linens, who will occupy the premises.

The Dallieu, a twelve-story apartment on a lot 117 by 100 feet at the southeast corner of 101st Street, known as 838 West End Avenue, was sold yesterday to Bernard Reich by Mrs. Edmund B. Thompson and Mrs. Margaret R. French through Frederick Zittel & Sons. This structure, held at $1,000,000, was built for Julius Tishman & Sons in 1913, and was bought by the present sellers while under construction.

E. Clifford Potter sold to Julius Tishman and Sons the Wyoming Apartments at the southeast corner of Seventh Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street. The Wyoming is a thirteen-story modern apartment house, on plot 125 by 150. It was held for $1,600,000 and is rented for $190,000. It is the intention of the buyers to convert the building into a modern hotel.

SAYS DETZER FORCED A FALSE CONFESSION

ADMITS LYING TO CAPTAIN

Forced at the point of a pistol held by Captain Karl W. Detzer, who is before a court-martial on Governors Island charged with cruelty to prisoners at Le Mans, France, Fred M. Yates testified yesterday that he signed a false confession that he had stolen army property. Yates is now serving a two-year sentence at the Atlantic Branch, United States Disciplinary Barracks, on Governors Island for having drawn a pistol on Detzer.

Clad in olive drab with plain buttons substituted for army brass buttons, with his prison number stencilled across his back, Yates told the court how he was stopped by Detzer when coming out of a cafe with two other enlisted men. The Military Police Captain demanded his pass, the witness said, and Yates told him that he was a special railroad guard taking two prisoners to the Assistant Provost Marshal's office. Yates said that the party had gone a short way along the street when he dropped his hand to his holster and said, "All right, Captain, I guess you had better beat it." The Captain did, he continued.

Yates admitted that he lied when he told Detzer he was a railroad guard, explaining that he thought the Captain himself was absent without leave and was trying to arrest him. Asked how he thought an officer in such a position would arrest him, the witness replied, "It has been done," and he told how when he was absent without leave on one occasion he cleared himself by arresting a Frenchman whom he had caught stealing from a railroad car.

The witness said that later he was arrested and brought to Detzer's office. While he was dozing in a chair, Yates said, Detzer entered the room, jerked him from his seat, and "slapped him about." He was taken to another part of the building, he said, where Sergeant Madden, the First Sergeant of the 308th Military Company, beat him in the face in the presence of Detzer. Yates stated he then signed a statement confessing to a theft he said he never committed, and was ordered to stand at attention for a long period.

Continuing his testimony, Yates told the court how, when he was ordered to a confinement camp, his hands were bound together so tightly that the ropes "cut to the quick." When Detzer placed two guards in charge of him and Gonzales, another prisoner, who is alleged to have swallowed a lighted cigarette at Detzer's orders, Yates said the Captain told the guards that if Gonzales "made a crooked move, knock his head off with the butt of a pistol, and if the other (Yates) makes a move shoot him so full of holes that he'll look like a sieve."

Testifies He Saw Others Attacked.

Yates said he had seen Detzer beat other prisoners, one of whom was yanked from a chair b his hair and knocked about. The witness denied that he was a member of any gang stealing Government property stored at Le Mans.

Arthur R. Graham, a bank clerk from Sioux City, Iowa, who was a desk sergeant in Detzer's office, told the court he once saw the defendant strike Yates, saying "Oh, how I love you" as he did so. Similar testimony was given the first day of the trial by Samuel Roth. Graham said that Yates had shown a "contemptuous attitude" toward Detzer. After his attention had been called to his testimony that Sergeant Hoyt was allowed to remain in Detzer's company after beating prisoners, the witness admitted that Hoyt's transfer was halted by order of a judge advocate, who wanted Hoyt as a witness in a robbery case. Asked who the officer was, Graham replied "I believe Captain Weir." Captain Weir is assistant judge advocate in this trial.

Graham stated he never had seen Detzer menace prisoners either with pistol or blackjack. He said he had heard Detzer order his men not to use blackjacks on prisoners except in self-defense.

"Was Captain Detzer cruel toward prisoners in the company?" he was asked.

Samuel Roth, another desk sergeant in Detzer's company, who testified Tuesday, was recalled yesterday afternoon, and said "I have seen the accused, Captain Detzer, enter a room where prisoners with black eyes were sitting and ask, 'What brick wall fell against you?'" The witness stated he saw Yates, Lacey and Gonzales enter Captain Detzer's room and come out "all beaten up." He added that it was sometimes four days before prisoners received medical attntion.

The court asked Roth whether he had ever had trouble with Sergeant Hoyt. "Yes," he answered, "Hoyt abused men in the company with words as he did prisoners with his fists." Although he had complained about Hoyt to Detzer, Roth said, no action had been taken. Lieutenant Heffernan, counsel for the defense, asked Roth if he felt bitter toward Detzer because he had not removed Hoyt. "Indirectly, yes," the witness replied.

Roth denied he was anxious to see Captain Detzer convicted, but that he "would travel from coast to coast, even to Europe, at my own expense to testify against Hoyt. In the organization I was in, all I saw was bloodshed. The Sergeants were inhuman to all of us, ordering us around like dogs."

At the conclusion of testimony by Fayette M. Elliott, a farmer from Grenada, Col., who stated he had seen prisoners with bruised faces at Detzer's headquarters the court adjourned until Monday morning.

ENGINEERS CLUB ABLAZE.

Six Employes Rescued in Fire Which Did $100,000 Damage.

Six women employes were rescued by an elevator runner, who made a trip through a smoke-filled shaft to their dormitory on the thirteenth floor, and 350 guests were driven from their rooms by a fire in the Engineers Club, 32 and 34 West Fortieth Street, which started shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday morning. For a time the fire, which did more than $100,000 damage, threatened to spread through the rear of the building to the Engineers Society Building, 29 to 35 West Thirty-ninth Street, which houses one of the most famous engineering libraries in the world. It was confined to the twelfth and thirteenth floors.

Leo T. Hart, night clerk in the hotel, with Albert Galloway, an elevator runner, roused the guests in the club. Three alarms were turned in. The origin of the fire was not discovered.

The Union League Club, as a result of the fire, extended the privileges of its organization to the Engineers Club.

VAN ALEN SELLS HOME HERE

Advent of Prohibition Responsible, It Is Said, for Giving Up Residence.

Carrying out his determination to dispose of his New York home if prohibition went into effect, J. J. Van Alen of New York and Newport has sold his four-story house, at 15 East Sixty-fifth Street, to Rufus L. Patterson, Vice President of the American Tobacco Company.

The house, which was held at $300,000, is a copy of a famous house in London, and was completed about a year ago. It is just east of the Astor mansion and opposite the house recently purchased by E. H. Litchfield, formerly the residence of James J. Hill. Mr. Patterson, it is said, will occupy the house early in the new year.

Mr. Van Alen said that he believed prohibition would be disastrous for this country, and added: "I know of lots of people that will leave the United States and make their home in countries where the laws are not so strict." It is said that he will make his home hereafter in England, but will return to summer at Newport.

Gerard Gives Talk on Mexico.

James W. Gerard, ex-Ambassador to Germany, delivered an address on Mexico at a luncheon under the auspices of the New York Association of Advertising Agencies, yesterday at the Hotel McAlpin. Mr. Gerard did not take up any of the current problems in Mexico, but confined himself to the history of the Southern republic. The luncheon was attended by about 300 business men.

CITY WILL SHARE IN ROCKEFELLER TAX

TAXABLE ASSETS LISTED

Has No Open Accounts or Current Bills—Furnishings of New York House Put at $20,000.

Although John D. Rockefeller, Sr., swore off approximately $3,000,000 on his personal property assessment this year, thereby occasioning a loss to the city in taxes of about $78,000, the city will more than get it back in the form of its share of the State income tax levy on Mr. Rockefeller's fortune, said Jacob A. Cantor, President of the Department of Taxes and Assessments, yesterday. Mr. Cantor explained that the city has no right to levy taxes on income-producing personal property, but it will receive its proportionate share of the income tax paid by Mr. Rockefeller.

"The assessment of John D. Rockefeller was reduced from $5,000,000 to $2,000,000 upon his sworn statement of his taxable personal property," said President Cantor. "Under the income tax law, passed at the last session of the Legislature, this department had no right to tax income-producing personal property. The city will receive its proportionate share of the income tax paid by Mr. Rockefeller, which will be far greater than the apparent loss in the personal property tax."

President Cantor made public a statement of the net assets of Mr. Rockefeller in this city on Oct. 1, 1919, which were subject to the personal property tax and which were furnished to the Tax Department by W. S. Mitchell, attorney for Mr. Rockefeller. The list follows:

LIST OF TAXABLES

Tangible property, including household furniture, goods, wares, and merchandise, horses and wagons and personal effects, including jewelry, office furniture, &c., $1,000,000.

Bills receivable and open accounts, not bearing interest, including Everett Timber & Investment Company, $971,677.

DEDUCTIONS

Open accounts, and current bills, none.

Balance subject to tax $2,000,000.

Values of tangible personal property, as shown on books: Contents of New York residence, $20,000; contents of Kijkuit, Pocantico, $348,226.79. Contents of Abeyton Lodge, Pocantico, $7,819.40; paintings, $80,000; horses and carriages, $20,000.

"There is no truth in the statement," said Mr. Cantor, "that this reduction was made because of Mayor Hylan's action in relation to certain buildings which Mr. Rockefeller desired to present to the city."

The following statement regarding Mr. Rockefeller's tax assessment was issued last night at Mr. Rockefeller's office:

"The application of Mr. Rockefeller to have his tax assessment reduced was in no respect influenced by political considerations or by any of the acts of the present or past administrations of the City of New York.

"Persons familiar with the tax policy of the State of New York understand that it is not the custom to levy the direct personal property tax on securities, as they are subject to other forms of taxation, such as the investment tax, the mortgage tax, &c.

"Mr. Rockefeller's personal property tax assessment covering property not otherwise taxed has been assessed by the City of New York at $5,000,000 for many years, but in 1918 the assessment was arbitrarily increased to $10,000,000. Since the amount on which he was taxable under the law did not exceed $3,000,000, and because he was paying the proper taxes on his other property, he protested against the increase, but made no legal objection to its remaining at $5,000,000, the former amount.

"At the last session of the Legislature the Income Tax law was passed, which imposes a tax upon the income from cash, securities, and other property. Such income tax is in lieu of the direct personal property tax on property which produces an income, and by the law such property thus paying an income tax is exempted from the personal property assessment.

"In view of this change in taxation legislation, the amount of property formerly subject to the assessment has been greatly reduced, and Mr. Rockefeller accordingly filed his appication to have his assessment made an amount more nearly representing that part of his property actually subject to this particular assessment."

OBJECT TO CITY BUSES.

Brooklyn Citizens, Annoyed by Horns, Say Service Is Illegal.

At a hearing begun yesterday before Public Service Commissioner Lewis Nixon on complaints of persons living in Eighth Avenue, Brooklyn, against the operation of city buses on that thoroughfare, Corporation Counsel Burr challenged the jurisdiction of the Commissioner. He stated that the city was the sole judge as to whether buses should be operated.

Clinton Rubino and John M. Rider, on behalf of the complainants, explained that buses were operated on Eighth Avenue to take the place of cars on Sixteenth Avenue, that Eighth Avenue was a quiet residence thoroughfare, and that no public carriers were needed there. Mr. Rider told the commission that the residents were disturbed day and night by the tooting of the bus horns, that the buses were being operated illegally, and that they were a nuisance. He asked the commission to suppress them.

"What's the matter with the buses?" asked Mr. Burr, and Mr. Rider replied:

"It isn't necessary to show that there is anything the matter with them, only that they are running illegally, and that it is the duty of the commission to suppress them as a nuisance."

Mr. Rider contended that all of the city buses were subject to regulation by the Public Service Commission and cited numerous authorities to prove it. The hearing will be resumed next Tuesday morning.

Parole Clerk's Case Adjourned.

William R. Lawson, of 18 Lester Avenue, Richmond Hill, a former clerk of the Parole Commission, who is alleged to have solicited money from Mrs. Victoria La Sala, 226 East Twenty-ninth Street, by saying he could obtain the release of her son, who was confined in the penitentiary, was arraigned before Magistrate Sweetser, in Yorkville Court yesterday. Magistrate Sweetser reserved decision and directed that briefs be submitted.

The conversion of Hopewell, Virginia, from war to peace industry has created manufacturing opportunities which we believe are without precedent in industrial history. Especially is this true in regard to certain industries, a partial list of which is given in the adjoining column.

This list was compiled by our technical experts and industrial engineers from an exhaustive study into the peculiar requirements of each industry. In every case especial attention was centered on what advantages Hopewell had to offer as regards the accessiblity of raw material, the amount of suitable labor available and the cost of production. Other industries are being investigated.

We are convinced, as a result of our investigations thus far, that to manufacturers or prospective manufacturers and executives who have the vision and ability to do big things in a big way, Hopewell presents opportunity unequaled anywhere else in the United States.

A Good Place to Live

Hopewell is a good place in which to live as well as do business. It has hundreds of attractive houses, cottages and bungalows available now; also churches, schools, clubs, theatres, stores, a commissary operating on a low cost-plus basis, storage houses, ice plants, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., electric light, trolleys, sewers, and, in fact, everything that constitutes a modern city.

Factories and Sites

We have prepared Hopewell for peace industry with as much thoroughness as it was built for war. We have a limited number of factories ready to turn on electric or steam power. We also have splendid sites for new buildings, with railway sidings already built, making it possible to load cars at the factory door for interstate shipping or for running out on the Hopewell wharf to load on ships. These, with other industrial equipment—our peace surplus—we now offer for sale direct to manufacturers at attractive prices and on liberal terms.

We are not attempting to sell Hopewell to one manufacturer or a group of manufacturers. YOU CAN BUY A LARGE FACTORY OR A SMALL FACTORY—A LARGE SITE OR A SMALL SITE.
